Two Musicians Slain in Viet

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed four young American jazz musicians and an Army sergeant escort driving near Saigon today on an isolated road.

Two teen-age members of the group—Brandi Perry and the Bubble Machine—were killed when they tried surrendering with their hands in the air. Two others, including 20-year-old singer Paula Levine of North Hollywood, Calif., and a U.S. soldier were wounded.

"I played dead and that's the only reason I'm alive today," the attractive dark-haired Miss Levine said at the U.S. Army's 93rd Evacuation Hospital where she was treated for fragment wounds in the back and legs.

The others wounded were Jack Bone, 18, of Los Angeles, and a 21-year-old soldier escorting the group, who was in serious condition.

Identities of the dead were withheld until their families could be notified.

Stopped by Guards

The musical group had started out late in the day for the Vietnamese coastal resort of Vung Tau, about 45 miles southeast of Saigon, to play for American troops. Halfway to their destination, they were stopped by South Vietnamese militia guards who advised them to turn back.

A few miles along on their return trip, they ran into the ambush. Miss Levine said she crouched on the floor while the men got out, first thinking they were being fired on mistakenly by friendly troops. As they raised their arms in the air, the Viet Cong opened up again.

On the northeast frontier, U.S. Marines charging through heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire killed 78 North Vietnamese troops in a day-long battle Friday, the U.S. Command reported. Four Marines were killed and 42 wounded.

The Marines were sweeping coastal marshlands when they came under enemy fire. American artillery, tanks and dive-bombers joined the counterattack. The North Vietnamese pulled out at dark.

In other fighting in the northern war zone, U.S. troops reported killing 68 enemy soldiers. Three Americans were killed and 22 wounded, U.S. spokesmen said.

In Saigon, the Viet Cong unfurled three National Liberation Front flags, including one just a block from U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker's residence. Two other flags, booby trapped with grenades, were attached to trees in another district. Police said they captured two Viet Cong suspects.

Authorities said the flag incidents were probably intended to taunt the Saigon government by showing the presence of the enemy inside the capital city.

For weeks, Saigon has girded for a third major offensive by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. The attack had been expected late last month or this week, but new intelligence information reaching here Saturday indicated the attack may come before July 20 and possibly on July 15.

"There is going to be an attack before July 20th," the 14th anniversary of the signing of the Geneva accords which divided Vietnam, one source said. He said some informants had pinpointed the target date to July 15.

The enemy may be holding back now, military sources said, because of the recent discovery of large caches of enemy weapons and supplies ouside Saigon.

Find Rockets

U.S. infantrymen have found 55 Red Chinese-made 107mm rockets weighing about 50 pounds—each with a range of five miles—since Thursday in deep tunnels 30 miles northwest of Saigon. Other large weapons caches have been dug up elsewhere in recent days.

Though the timing of the expected enemy invasion remained a matter of speculation, most U.S. officers expressed certainty that the attack would come.

Saigon itself was quiet today. There have been no rocket attacks on the capital since June 21.

Intelligence reports from the province of Long An, just south of the capital, said Viet Cong cadres have been warning residents against selling food to Saigon and telling them to organize demonstrations against recent U.S. bombings outside the capital.

Bombers Fly Missions

U.S. Air Force B52 bombers flew four more missions Friday against enemy base camps, supply and storage facilities and bunkers and 35 miles northwest of Saigon, along a key guerrilla corridor to the capital.

Secretary General Thant of the United Nations made appointments with negotiators in Paris today in an effort to break a deadlock in the North Vietnamese-American Vietnam War talks. Story on page 14.

On the northwest frontier, U.S. Marines completed their withdrawal from the Khe Sanh combat base Friday, harassed to the end by North Vietnamese troops. Five Marines were killed in a skirmish with North Vietnamese troops a little more than a mile from the base that survived a 77-day siege under massive artillery barrages. The siege was lifted by a relief column in April and the decision to abandon the base was announced last week.

A Viet Cong broadcast monitored in Tokyo said more than 1,000 American troops had been "wiped out" and 22 aircraft shot down during the Khe Sanh withdrawal.

Lose Two Warplanes

Air raids on North Vietnam's southern panhandle cost two more U.S. warplanes Friday.

Two Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bombers were reported downed by enemy ground fire as American pilots flew 136 missions against enemy supply lines. The four crewmen were missing.

The losses raised to 863 the number of American warplanes announced downed over North Vietnam in the war.

LBJ Begins Central America Tour

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Johnson told the chief executives of Central America today he wants to know "what more we can do together."

Johnson, on the first leg of a journey that will make him the first U.S. president to visit all five Central American republics in a single trip, said in remarks prepared for his airport arrival at this, the smallest nation:

"I come to San Salvador to learn. I come to find out from my fellow presidents what our nations have achieved toward improving the lives of the people. I come to ask what more can we do together.'

2,000 Demonstrate

From the airport Johnson was to go by motorcade through streets where 2,000 public university students demonstrated Friday night against him and the presidents of El Salvador, Costa Rica, Honduras, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

There were no incidents as the students marched down a main street in front of the U.S. Embassy, but leaders called for a bigger turnout today.

Some of the students carried placards calling Johnson "the murderer of Vietnam" and saying "Get out of Vietnam." Others referred to the summit meeting as "the dragon and five mosquitos."

National Guard troops pledged full security for Johnson's arrival.

By Monday night, Johnson will have visited all five countries comprising the full membership of the seven-year-old Central American Common Market.

In a few years, Johnson said, the five countries have virtually completed the market framework and "have moved beyond the purely economic aspects of integration to produce important social advances."

He pointed to U.S. contributions to the area's selfhelp effort but said "it must always be so" that the Central Americans themselves provide leadership and determination.

Declaring that the goal, as much as anything is a state of mind, he asserted:

"If we all believe societies can and must change, they will.

"If we all believe that men can and must cooperate with each other to insure peace and progress, they will.

"If we all believe that poverty and misery, disease and injustice, can and must be eliminated, they will.

"I come to San Salvador knowing this. But I come to learn how we can hasten the day of progress."

1st Since December

Johnson's trip, his first out of the United States since his worldwide tour last December, followed a heavily latin-flavored July 4th weekend divided between work and relaxation at his ranch and a visit to HemisFair, the world exposition at San Antonio.

Much of the work of the common market meeting, in progress since Tuesday, was already accomplished. Foreign ministers and finance ministers labored through the region's humid rainy season to prepare a conference-ending declaration and other documents for signature by the presidents.

Generally regarded as a success, the regional common market represents a move toward economic integration and self-sufficiency that Johnson would like to see duplicated throughout Latin America, in Africa and Asia. In fact, the major purpose of his trip seemed to be to help dramatize his dedication to such goals.

No Firm Word

There was no firm word on when Johnson would return to Washington, although the White House said the current plan was to fly back immediately following the airport stop in Guatemala. That would mean a portal-to-portal July 4th holiday weekend journey of 5,900 miles. However, there were some rumors, totally unconfirmed, that the chief executive might extend his tour.

Mrs. Johnson and daughter Luci Johnson Nugent were accompanying him.

Johnson spent much of Friday doing homework for his tour. He also took time out for an informal luncheon meeting at the LBJ Ranch, 75 miles north of San Antonio, with President Rene Barrientos of Bolivia. The South American president was in Texas for observance of Bolivian National Day at San Antonio's HemisFair world exposition.

The Johnsons will attend Roman Catholic Church services in San Salvador Sunday, appear before the staff of the U.S. Embassy, join the other presidents and their families for a country-side barbecue and act as hosts to the others at an evening reception.

Visted Mexico

Johnson's last trip south of the border was a brief visit to the Mexican border town of Cuidad Juarez, sister city of El Paso, Tex., last fall. John F. Kennedy was the last presidential visitor to Central America, meeting with the presidents of the five nations plus Panama in Costa Rica early in 1963.

Johnson's last trip out of the country was his worldwide tour in December which took him to Australia, Vietnam and Rome.

By WALTER S. CLARK

Dutchess County authorities swept into action for a second time in a week in a crackdown on narcotics activities in the area and early today apprehended six men and a girl in the vicinity of a Town of Stanford tavern.

The seven were charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs.

One youth also was charged with criminally defacing an American flag, after the raiding party directed by Chief Investigator Charles Borchers of the sheriff's office found him wearing a shirt made from an American flag.

Another youth was booked on a charge of criminal impersonation. He was identified in police records as Bela G. Pinczes, 23, of New York City. He pleaded guilty before a local justice and was fined $25, which he paid.

The mass arrests came one week after the office of Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan in a sweeping series of narcotics raids made 30 arrests in the Pine Plains, Millbrook, Dover Plains and Millerton area. During those raids the owner of Al and Elsie's Tavern on Route 22 in Wingdale, were booked on charges of criminal nuisance and criminal facilitation in the second degree.

Chief Borchers led 10 deputy sheriffs in today's roundup of the group on narcotics charges. The arrests followed an extensive investigation by Sheriff Quinlan and Borchers in conjunction with the office of District Attorney John Heilman Jr.

Andrew L. Demetrion, 19, of 31-37 35th Street, Long Island City, was charged with criminally defacing an American flag. He also was booked for criminal possession of dangerous drugs. Arraigned before Stanford Town Justice Frank Weber, Demetrion was held in $1,000 bail.

Sheriff's sergeant Hugh Brennan identified the others seized in the raids at 12:30 a. m. as:

John Mastory, 16, of 3544 Broadway, New York City; Christine Domaniecki, 19, of 406 Lafayette Street, Newark, N. J.; Chris Papargyriou, 20, of 521 West 189th Street, New York City; Angelo Spiro Tfaganeas, 19, of 169 West 23rd Street, New York City; Chris Mastory, 17, of 3544 Broadway, New York City, and Michael Bobas, 18, of 200 Dykeman Street, New York City.

The defendants were each arraigned before Judge Weber, who committed them to the Dutchess County jail in lieu of $500 bail. Hearings were adjourned until Friday, July 12.

During the investigation, deputy sheriffs arrested three men on charges of public intoxication. It was not immediately reported as to how much narcotics had been confiscated.

Sergeant Brennan said all arrests this morning took place in the vicinity of the Carousel Restaurant on Route 82 in the Town of Stanford.

In the last several months, Sheriff Quinlan and his men have conducted numerous raids in various parts of Dutchess County and arrested scores of persons in connection with possession of dangerous drugs, in most cases marijuana.

A week ago, the owners of Al and Elsie's Tavern in Wingdale were included among the 30 persons taken into custody during the series of narcotics raids. The tavern owners were booked for maintaining a criminal nuisance and criminal facilitation in the second degree. They were booked as Al Paolicci, 55, and Aretha Jackson, 41, of Route 22, Wingdale.

The two defendants were arraigned before Dover Town Justice Daivid Callahan who fixed bail at $1,000 each and adjourned hearings until a later date.

It was reported that Sheriff Quinlan and investigators from his office have uncovered information relating to narcotics traffic in the county and additional arrests are anticipated.

In mid-June the crackdown on drugs in the Hudson Valley, particularly in Dutchess County, was launched with the sheriff and state police combining their forces at times to make raids on suspected places.

Newburgh, Beacon and Monticello police authorities have been actively engaged in a war against narcotics and many arrests have been made. A raid on Mt. Beacon in Southern Dutchess recently resulted in a number of arrests and the seizure of a quantity of drugs.

A raid of sizeable proportion was staged recently by state police in the Highland area. Several raids have taken place in upper Ulster County.

Authorities in all area communities have stepped up their campaign against narcotics, and they have emphasized their determination to continue the activity to slow down the operations of narcotic users and runners. Efforts are being made to uncover the key figures—the pushers—in the field of illegal drug maneuvers.

Postpones Departure

An Egyptian Embassy announcement said Nasser would now stay at least until Tuesday. He toured Moscow in a limousine early today, visiting the tomb of astronaut Yuri Gagarin before arriving at the Kremlin for still more closed conferences.

Plane Search Continues

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Civil Air Patrol, with a "good possible target" to go on, extended its search into a third day today for a plane missing with a New York family of four aboard.

Also aboard were Sleight's wife, Sylvia, and two of their four children, John, 10, and Lynne, 9.

Concern for Heart Man

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Dr. Philip Blaiberg, who has lived more than six months with a transplanted heart, has developed serious lung trouble.

Groote Schuur Hospital announced Friday that pulmonary complications "are giving rise to concern."

In addition to the lung trouble, Blaiberg is recovering from a hepatitis infection. The hospital said the liver condition was improving.

Paterson Calm Again

PATERSON, N. J. (AP) — Police with shotguns marching 10 abreast broke up a crowd at the scene of a fire without incident and calm returned today to the city's Puerto Rican areas hit by four consecutive nights of disorder.

Officers said there were no arrests at the fire scene but reported that nearly 30 persons had been arrested—mostly on minor charges—in other incidents Friday night and early today.

Indian Professor Summer Associate

Summer associate at Fair Street Reformed Church during July and August will be Ebenezer Mane, a native of India who recently graduated from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N.J., with a bachelor of divinity degree.

Mane will be replacing the pastor, the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, during his absence this summer. He will preach at Sunday services, call at church members homes and visit hospital patients.

Mane is a member of the United Church of Northern India and for 30 years served as professor of English at the University of Nagpur. During that time he was actively involved in church life in India, serving on committees administering the educational, medical, and evangelistic work of the church. He has been elected to the Church Session in Nagpur, the Church Council, and other courts of the United Church and was an active member of the Nagpur YMCA, twice elected its president. Other positions held by Mane include being superintendent of The Nagpur Christian Book Shop, treasurer of the Nagpur Christian Nurses' Welfare Committee, a member of the Judicial Committee of the General Assembly of the United Church of Northern India, superintendent of the Church School.

Mane has been a lay-preacher in Marathi, which is his native language; Hindu, the national language, and English in various denominational backgrounds. His wife, Sarojini, who has received her Masters Degree in education, conducts a nursery-kindergarten school in their home in India. He has three daughters, the oldest of whom teaches in the Presbyterian Women's College in Tokyo, Japan.

Mr. Mane will be residing at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Fugazzotto, Robin Lane, during the summer.

NEWEST FAIR STREETER—The Rev. Edwin C. Coon, left, pastor of Fair Street Reformed Church, greets the newest member of the church staff, Ebenezer Mane, right, who will be serving the church during July and August as summer associate. Also on hand to welcome Mane are Percy W. Gazlay II, minister of music and Mrs. Helen Ling, church organist. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Olive Baptists Conclude VBS

The Olive-Shokan Baptist Church of West Shokan held its annual Vacation Bible School commencement last week.

The ceremonies included programs by each of the four departments of the school. The beginner department, under the direction of Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. Charles Harrison, and Miss JoAnn Girodano, dramatized the conversion of the Phillipian Jailer. The primary department, under the direction of Mrs. Curtis Eberhardt Jr., and Miss Peggy North, dramatized the stoning of Stephan. The junior department, directed by Harvey Every and Miss Gail Nichols, dramatized the conversion of the Ethiopian Eunuch and the junior high department, under the supervision of Miss Jennie Kerr and Miss Diana North presented Esther is Made Queen.

After the program, the parents and friends visited the basement display of workbooks and handcraft projects. Refreshments were provided.

Cellar Club Starts Summer With New Face

The popular teen spot at the Kingston YWCA has just undergone a facelifting and is sporting bright new drapes, spanking fresh paint and a new ceiling in the "pool" room.

The Cellar Club board directed the operation with members lending a hand with paint brushes and sewing machine. New flower power drapes were fashioned by two of the girls for both rooms used by the club.

The new look was just in time for the summer opening last night. Dancing and social evenings will continue each Friday at the cellar club through Aug 16. After a two week recess the fall schedule will be resumed Sept. 6 at which time new memberships for the school year will be required.

On Friday nights Cellar Club Members dance to the music of the juke box, play pool, table tennis, chess, cards and other games. Coke and candy machines are available.

Adult chaperones are on hand at each session but most of the yeoman chores such as arrangements and admissions are handled by the high school students who are board members.

The Cellar Club, a part of the local scene for about 10 years, grew out of a recreation center need expressed by the high schoolers and carried out by interested adults.

The year round program attracts sometimes as many as 200 teenage boys and girls on a Friday evening. Summer attendance, cut into some what by vacations, varies from 75 to 100 teens.

Social sessions at the Cellar Club are from 8 to 11 p.m. each Friday.

Come on Down.

Teen Scene: On Forming a Good Hobbit

Ralph, Melinda and Nick

LEI

They said that the Hobbit's Whole, Kingston's young coffee house would never open, or that nobody would go. Now the cynics say it will never again be as groovey as on opening night. It seems though, with a little help from its friends, that it will constantly improve as the rough spots wear off.

The first impression, with the grey metal chairs, bedspread backdrop, and cold florescent lights seemed more like a jail dining room, than the traditional espresso, with checked tableclothes and Tiffany glass lightshades. But no institution ever boasted such eye-catching murals, or such excited, expectant young people, in eye-catching outfits, sitting at, or moving among, the tables. One became completely convinced when the charming, professional, persistant young waiter brought the menu. This was a coffee house, all right. At 15 cents for a cup of java, it sure wasn't the corner diner!

Then the floorshow began, and with the glaring overhead light off, the colored stage lights turned the performer's glossy guitars into music-making rainbows. The Kinsmen from UCCC performed first. Ingratiating Nick and more withdrawn Gene did their 15 numbers very well, although their style borrowed freely from the Kingston Trio and the Smothers Brothers.

Unfortunately, during the last third of their act, they were forced to outshout the audience, which seemed more interested in their own conversation than in the lively folk songs. And our attention kept wandering to where one was supposed to grind out ciggies—on the floor, the table, or were you supposed to bring your own—ashtray, that is? And was the ingenious stage-backdrop fireproofed before it was tacked up. . . .

The mood changed when the second act, the Humble Sponge, presented by All That The Name Implies, Woodstock's flash group, appeared in a blast of accidental feedback. The audience grew quiet in order to hear the thought provoking introductions and the melodious message-songs sung by the group which stirred memories of long-forgotten fairy tales. Ray Jimenez reminded one of the sturdy woodcutters of those stories as he sang and played the drums. And beautiful Melinda Parkes with her incredible hair was the princess in the enchanted castle. . . . And Nick Feva? From one second to the other he changed from the fire-breathing dragon, to the minstrel in the king's court, to the gnome who lived in the mushroom—or Leif Ericson, or Robin Hood. . . .

The group's music was fulsome, and their voices harmonized so well it was hard to pick out the individual voices for comment. However, Nick Feva did several near-solos, and his voice was amazingly powerful, even in the more delicate songs. He also handled his long guitar solo with admirable inventiveness. We were pleased that as the spell wore off and the audience once again started making more decibles than the singers, that didn't raise his voice in an attempt to drown out the babble. The Humble Sponge take pleasure in their own singing. If nobody else listens, that's their tough luck. And it really is, too.

Then it was over. Out in the cool, damp air, we started to empty the cigarette ashes out of our pockets and found we had our coat on inside out. It was the spell of Middle Earth and Nick and the Other Nick and murals and rainbows and Melinda, and guru jackets and . . . . .

It will be a tough act to follow.

Paltzers Host Foreign Guests

April "pipe dreams" became a reality for 10 days in New Paltz recently as 15 students from Puerto Rico were guests of the High School Anthropology Class there.

The local anthropology class visited Puerto Rico during Easter recess this year, becoming acquainted with the students at that time.

Families who assisted the fair play turnabout by hosting one or more of the visitors were:

Mrs. Margaret H. Casson, Mrs. Adelaide Crews, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Glanz, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Hasbrouck, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McSweeney, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tantillo, Mr. and Mrs. John Tenaglia, Mr. and Mrs. William Weston, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whitaker and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Winkky.

The group hardly had a minute to themselves as Albert A. J. Fiore, anthrolology teacher, and New Paltz High School graduates, led them through the rounds of parties, tours and get acquainted fun in the community.

Mid-Hudson Valley tours included visits to the State University College and historic Huguenot Street in New Paltz; Roosevelt mansion and library at Hyde Park and the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Toward the end of their stay the guests prepared Peurto Rican dishes for their hosts. A farewell dinner was held at the Villa Nueva the night before their departure.

Several trips were made to New York City where students toured the Empire State Building, Statue of Liberty, United Nations, Radio City, and Chinatown. Capitol buildings at Albany were included in a day trip also.

All of the Puerto Rican guests expressed sincere thanks and appreciation for the many courtesies shown them by members of the community. Most said goodbyes with tears in their eyes.

The New Paltz class has twice traveled to Puerto Rico during Easter vacation after raising funds for the trip through various class projects. On each occasion they were warmly received and royally treated. The June return visit was a partial repayment of the hospitality.

Synagogue Teen Officers Elected

Advisors for the group have been Mrs. Sidney Rafalowsky and Mrs. Allen Bush with Rabbi Schectman as spiritual advisor. Mrs. Rafalowsky who is terminating her activity with the group was feted with a farewell token at the party. The new advisor, Mrs. Charles Slutzky was introduced and given an ovation.

Summer Fun Is Part of YM Program

The Youth Department of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County kicked off its summer In-City Youth Program this past week with emphasis on swimming instructions.

The youngsters that came to the YMCA enjoyed playing softball on the YMCA ballfield, when the weather permitted. During the rainy days the youngsters were not hampered from having fun. They enjoyed playing games such at kickball and relay races in the YMCA gymnasium.

In addition to the sports events each youngster had a special time for swimming instruction. The YMCA follows the National YMCA Aquatic Program. The youngsters have to perform specific skills in order to advance into a higher skill class.

Along with the regular program the Youth Department ran a special "Learn-to-Swim" Program for non-members. The Program ran from Monday through Friday with over 100 youngsters participating in the special program. Roger Edwards, a youth worker, assisted the Youth Director with this special "Learn-to-Swim" Program.

The special event for this week was a trip to Baird State Park Wednesday for boys and girls in the third through ninth grades.

Parents interested in enrolling their son or daughter may do so at the main desk in the lobby of the YMCA at 507 Broadway.

Creative Mud Pies Mark Start of Art for Young

Take a longer look at Junior's mud pies next time. There may be a dash of talent blended in that dirt and water delicacy.

Age is no impediment in art. That is the finding in a unique sculpture workshop for tots and teens conducted by Mrs. Jean Carlson, an instructor in the Orange County Community College extension program, under the federally-funded Talented Arts Program.

Each Saturday morning for 15 weeks, eleven boys and girls between five and 14 years old gather in Mrs. Carlson's Cornwall studio to experiment and innovate with clay. Out of these part-formal, part creative class sessions came work in clay and plaster that would be a source of pride to sculptors many times the youngsters' ages.

Out of the classes, too, came strong indications of ability, whether it be wide-eyed fish fashioned by the uncertain fingers of a seven-year-old or a detailed model of a human head labored over carefully by an imaginative teenager.

"Nearly all of the group, if they want to go on, have a future in sculpture," Mrs. Carlson points out.

The Saturday sessions weren't handled in the usual classroom manner. "We left it up to each youngster whether he wanted to do all creative things or have some training," she said. "After the first couple of weeks, they all wanted training."

The training was more direction than training. "I tried to provide a working guide, rather than superimpose my opinions over theirs," Mrs. Carlson explained. "When students asked for my evaluation, I got them to tell me how the piece could be made more effective," she said.

Alpine Adventure for Local Youth

He will be one of seven teenagers participating in a camper exchange to Europe under an exciting YMCA program sponsored by the Ulster County YMCA through cooperation wtih the Frost Valley YMCA Center.

The snow-capped Alpine peaks of Germany, France, Switzerland and Austria will be the backdrop for the unique tour and camp experience.

Feil, son of Mrs. Joan Feil of Port Ewen, is a sophomore at Kingston High School and a youth member of the local YMCA. The 16-year-old is a member of the Port Ewen Methodist MYF and is a carrier boy for the Kingston Freeman.

The YMCA Camper Exchange Group will undergo orientation at Camp Wawayanda for a week before leaving Kennedy Airport July 13 for Frankfort, Germany.

They will tour Frankfort, Hanover and Berlin, including East Berlin prior to getting down to camping stay July 20 through 26. For seven days they will be at YMCA Camp Cadet Romand, Switzerland, and will share their experiences with their own age.

Home stays at Geneva and Bern, Switzerland and Chamonix, France, will serve as an interlude before another seven-day camp sojourn at Swiss YMCA Camp Vaumarcus.

Tours of Innsbruck in Austria and Stuttgart, Germany, will round out the itinerary. Return is slated from Frankfort Aug. 16.

The completely pre-arranged trip will involve 126 teenage boys and girls from YMCA camps from all over the United States on one chartered flight.

From Frankfurt, the various exchange groups will go their separate way to such points as Sweden, Japan, England, France, Italy, Greece, Finland and Denmark. Each group will spend approximately two weeks in a foreign YMCA camp and will have home stays and sightseeing in their principal country of visitation. All will meet at Frankfort, Aug. 15, for the trip home.

We envy Bradley, his Alpine adventure.

Policing Spending

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, led the opposition to President Johnson's tax surcharge proposal, which forced the President into accepting a $6 billion spending cut in return for the tax surcharge. It was a long and tough battle between two very determined men, who knew how to play the game of Congressional politics.

From that struggle, Mills gathered some new knowledge. One is that government agencies cannot objectively police their own budget requests. Each sees only his own desire to do all he can with the responsibility entrusted to him, and that almost always means more and bigger requests for more and bigger departmental budgets.

The Budget Bureau, which reviews all budget requests for the President, cannot cut deeply enough because it is part of the Administration and it is committed to the philosophy and policy the President lays down. As an arm of the executive branch, the budget bureau makes the best possible argument for the spending desired.

Nor is the comptroller general in a position to influence the size of the budget. Responsible to the Congress, his job comes after the spending, to determine that the money was well spent. His influence on spending is comparatively minimal.

Mills therefore has come out for a nongovernment bipartisan commission "drawn from the top ranks of American leadership outside government" to keep watch on federal spending and cut expenditures down to the high priorities. He has introduced a bill to create such a body.

Few people would quarrel with Mills' objective. But it is doubtful that any Administration would in effect surrender its right and its duty to set the priorities and to fix budgets to carry them out. These are essentially political. No matter how good the purpose, decisions rightfully and Constitutionally allotted to the President and Congress cannot be left to any body whose judgment is not subject to the disposition of the voters in the last analysis.

Searching Questions

"When peace comes, can we not refreshen our tribal minds enough to say that if $30 billion can be used to fight a war, the enemies of all human tranquality here at home — ugliness, filth, rats, slums, wretched schools, unemployment, despair—demand no less a scale of action?"

The question was put by Barbara Ward, the British author and economist, who put the growth of the American economy at the rate of $50 billion a year. She asked, "Shouldn't half of that new wealth be devoted not to the increase in private affluence but to reversing the tend to public squalor?"

National income is resulting in an "upward drift" in tax collections amounting to between $12 billion and $15 billion a year, Miss Ward pointed out. She suggested that the present level of taxation be maintained, and asked, "Is it asking much of responsible citizens to stay with present taxation, for, say, 10 years, and use the increment to wipe out the ghettos?"

It was a series of questions that went to the heart of the post-war problem. For Miss Ward suggested that $100 billion will be needed to house the next 100 million Americans, "Whether we sprawl from Boston to Washington or we build better cities."

The problem is not to pay ghetto residents guilt money, as some have urged, but to use enough money to provide decent homes for all Americans.

The New Majority

Youth organizations have become vital parts of the political campaign for President, and with good reason. What started out to be a peculiar appendage to the efforts of Senator Eugene J. McCarthy and Senator Robert F. Kennedy, the youngsters who accounted in large part for their stunning primary victories, have their opposite numbers among the campaigners for all the remaining Presidential candidates now.

The reason is revealed in the name taken by the Rockefeller youth organization—The New Majority. It takes its name from the fact that half the population of the United States today is under 27. It appeals for votes from this half, of whom of course only one-fifth are old enough to vote. They make up in energy and enthusiasm for their lack in numbers.

As a matter of fact, oldsters 65 and over are as numerous as the 21 to 27 voters. And no candidate dares overlook them, for they are sophisticated voters. Their judgment comes from long experience of the ballot. For that matter, the middle aged outnumber both the youths and the oldsters of voting age and they also must be won.

The election will be decided by a candidate's appeal to all Americans, not to those of any single age bracket.

Results of Mismanagement

When your taxes go up on July 14 remember why. The incredible billions on billions that official failures, boobland decisions, bad judgment and cover-ups are costing us is the largest single reason.

What happened to President Johnson's proclaimed "$100 billion budget"? This was his big promise three years ago.

What happened to his promise of 1964: "We don't want our American boys to do the fighting . . . and get tied down in a land war in Asia." That promise, since then, has cost us taxpaying peasants around $70 billion.

In fact, what happened to the Vietnam war? In 1964 heavy Communist units stood 15 miles from Saigon. They are still there.

On October 6, 1966, the Vietnam war became the third largest war we ever fought. On June 22, it became the longest. And Saigon itself, the innumerable "We're doing fine" statements notwithstanding, is under siege. It's not even as secure is it was in 1963. The Viet Cong are able to use as a command post the same Catholic church in which the late President Ngo Dinh Diem sought sanctuary after his government fell in 1963.

Now we are to see the Great Society making peace. Well, President Johnson first offered terms that were all-but surrender to the North Vietnamese as long ago as his Baltimore speech of April, 1965. Ho Chi Minh has refused an estimated 1,000 or more "peace feelers"—39 officially listed as major by our own State Department.

The reason is contained in the truism that our country cannot win at the conference table what we fail to win on the battlefield.

A war, and of all things a mismanaged war, finally comes down to the dead and wounded. We face the cruel prospect of suffering 122,000 casualties and ending up absolutely nowhere. The tax increase is the least of the horrible results.

What happened to the War on Poverty? It has now bureaucratized itself to include 150 Washington bureaus and 170 separate aid programs. Yet, we're told "something" must be done. With the War on Poverty a local and national shambles, the Social Security and welfare programs loaded with graft, waste and abuse, how long can this prostitution of our wealth continue without wrecking every decent concept of our democratic system?

The last Congress before the New Frontier-Great Society took over appropriated a total of $83.8 billion. Mr. Johnson's budget is $186 billion. He has fought any reduction. And, folks, the famous cut is less than one per cent. No wonder government bonds are at the lowest level in 46 years, which is frightening enough of itself, and the average interest rates you are paying are the highest since the Civil War.

What happened to our debt? The New Frontier-Great Society inherited a Federal debt of $283 billion. Breaking every promise previously made, Mr. Johnson now saddles us with a $342 billion debt. Its annual interest cost is $14.1 billion. And he has run up through March a $28.1 billion deficit this fiscal year, again financed by money we haven't got.

What happened to our gold? Fort Knox is gone with the wind. The New Frontier-Great Society inherited a gold reserve of $21 billion. On July 1 we had only $10.4 billion left, and $1 billion of that is mortgaged to the International Monetary Fund. Meanwhile, the Administration was self-driven to remove any gold backing from our currency entirely.

All—every bit—of this financial irresponsibility comes out of our own hides. The resulting inflation has put our cost of living to another new all-time high. It has turned our dollars into dollarettes. The effect on people's savings, insurance, annuities, pensions and every kind of nest-egg security is all but criminal. The tax bill is peanuts compared to the cost to all of us of the inflation.

What happened to the promised labor peace and national tranquility? Work stoppages have broken all records in the past 12 months and city burnings and riots have waved the black flag of anarchy over the skylines of more than 100 American cities.

It is impossible to rewrite the record. And no amount of talk, no amount of double-talk, no amount of anything said by anybody can make it any different.

Godfather of Student Revolt Is Prof. Marcuse of California

WASHINGTON — The godfather of the student revolt now sweeping campuses all over the world is Prof. Herbert Marcuse of the University of California, San Diego campus. Marcuse is a German-born refugee from Hitler who disavows Karl Marx and teaches that revolution must come from young people. Both communism and capitalism, he preaches, are dead.

The influence which Prof. Marcuse has over the student world is illustrated by what happened at Brandeis University outside Boston when Axel Springer, the German publisher, donated $250,000 to found a chair to be known as the "Ottilie Springer Professorship," in honor of his wife.

Brandeis is the leading Jewish university in the United States and Springer has been a great champion of Israel. Despite this, the student body and faculty voted to ignore the man who put up the quarter million dollars, and named the chair for Herbert Marcuse instead.

There was great irony in this vote. For few men in Germany have worked harder to atone for Hitler's crimes against the Jews than Springer. His far-flung newspapers have followed a vigorous pro-Israel policy, and he has made various gifts to Israel including one which founded Jerusalem's famous museum. Springer even laid the cornerstone for the museum. Yet the students of a Jewish university proposed ignoring his $250,000 gift in favor of Prof. Marcuse.

Who Is Marcuse?

What is the background of this leader of the current student revolt and why is he so influential? He is damned just as much in Moscow as in West Germany. In the latter, Chancellor Keisinger blames him for the student "nilhilistic" revolt. In the Kremlin he is accused of trying to substitute Mao Tse-tun and Che Guevara for Marx and Lenin.

His latest maneuver is to propose that Red Rudi Dutschke, the Berlin student shot by Josef Backmann, a house painter who admires Hitler, be admitted to the United States in order to demonstrate "American tolerance and academic freedom," in the same manner that the British temporarily admitted Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the French-German student who helped incite the paralyzing riots in France. It was Cohn-Bendit, incidentally who is given credit for causing such a backlash in France that President de Gaulle was overwhelmingly reelected.

In the United States some observers predict that the backlash against the student strikes at Columbia, Berkeley and elsewhere will materially strengthen ex-Gov. George Wallace and throw the November election into the House of Representatives.

Prof. Marcuse visited Paris this spring at the invitation of UNESCO, to deliver the feature address at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Karl Marx. While there, he went to Berlin where he called on Rudi Dutschke, still in the hospital, and reported that Dutschke was able to talk politics, but couldn't remember such words as table and chair.

It's ironic that Marcuse was invited to deliver the feature address in memory of Karl Marx, since his student proteges now denounce "communism as bourgeous" and since he has been excoriated by Pravda for preaching that Marxism is out of date.

For instance, the East German government, wanting to embarrass West Germany, invited the West German students, followers of Red Rudi and Prof. Marcuse, to travel through East Germany, supplying them with special railroad cars. The invitation boomeranged. The West German students flaunted banners taunting the East German government with following outmoded communism.

It is sometimes said of Marcuse that the students who follow him haven't the slightest idea what he means. Personally he is charming, even lovable. He is very proper, quite ordinary in his habits, is sometimes described as being as homey as an old shoe.

His student followers say that basically he advocates change for the sake of change. He believes that in the present day society the elements of change have been subverted by the Establishment, both the capitalist Establishment and the communist Establishment. Youth has to keep blasting away at the Establishment, Marcuse theorizes and this was one reason the students at Columbia revolted even after their original issue of the Vietnam war was killed by the Paris truce talks.

The world must have constant revolution, constant change, says the California professor who attracted so many student followers in universities around the world. This is the creed that brings editorials of anguished indignation from Moscow.

Rockefeller-McCarthy ticket? — Even if Gov. Rockefeller and Sen. Eugene McCarthy organize a third-party ticket, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., warns them that it will be too late after the August conventions to get their names on the ballots in most states. Vice President Humphrey is still worried over what McCarthy will do if he is steamrollered at the Democratic convention. Humphrey has described his fellow Minnesotan to friends as "unpredictible." McCarthy gave no hint of his plans during his recent White House confrontation. After the meeting, President Johnson reported to aides: "I don't know why he asked for the meeting. We just looked at each other."

Reagan's free flight—Gov. Ronald Reagan, who loves to condemn ethics in Washington, accepted a free flight across country the other day in a private jet belonging to Pan American Airways. On the way to Washington he stopped off to palaver with Republican delegates in Topeka, Kansas. Pan Am also dispatched four limousines onto the field at Washington National Airport to pick up Reagan's party at the ramp. The flight was arranged by oil millionaire J. R. Butler, who heads the Reagan-for-President drive in Texas. A Pan Am spokesman explained to us that it was "a demonstration flight."

Rockefeller Swings Sledge At Nixon as Time Runs Out

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)— The word from inside Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's camps is that in the summer weeks just ahead he will be swinging harder and harder at Richard Nixon in a desperation effort to overtake him.

Rockefeller's street rally speech in Chicago on Vietnam was so strong in accusing Nixon of hard-line war advocacy that it seemed reminescent of his 1964 campaign assaults on Barry Goldwater. More of the same is in prospect.

On top of this, the governor intends to try again and again to suggest that much of Nixon's overwhelming southern delegate support—which represents well over a third of his indicated convention vote potential—has a white racist orientation.

He gained an opening on this score, of course, when former Georgia Congressman Howard (Bo) Callaway, Nixon's southern regional co-ordinator, said that Alabama's George Wallace was the sort of man who belongs in the Republican party.

If these two criticisms of Nixon are hammered as steadily as is presently planned, the net of it will be to suggest loudly not only to Republicans but to the whole electorate that the former vice-president's feet are planted in concrete on the two most perplexing issues of the day — war and racial strife.

For Rockefeller there is a painful irony in resort to this strategy of open attack upon Nixon. Not the least of the wounds he bears from his unsuccessful presidential bid in 1964 are those inflicted by the common charge of conservative Republicans that he was a "party-wrecker" who supplied the Democrats with much of their fall campaign ammunition against Goldwater.

Talks with Rockefeller's aides in the months before he entered the 1968 race indicated that the "wrecker" charge was one they surely never wanted to hear again. When he and they spoke of his possible candidacy as "divisive," they had this old complaint very much in mind.

Yet they have now chosen to hit out at Nixon with nearly the same force that was delivered against Goldwater in the critical primaries of 1964.

That Rockefeller's campaign has taken this militant turn is a measure of its considerable failure to date.

No compelling evidence exists that his direct appeals to convention delegates, however plausible and impressive they may be, are moving significant numbers of Nixon-leaners into his own smaller delegate column.

Off the evidence of his recent face-the-people efforts in such cities as Chicago and Cleveland, it has to be said that Rockefeller is not building any big bonfires to scorch the backsides of delegates who are soft for Nixon but still clinging to him.

His Kennedy-type hold on Negroes, Puerto Ricans and some other minorities may be real enough, but not even the most urgent exertions of his highly professional cadres are managing to produce the huge crowds he needs.

His situation might be even worse were it not for the fact that here and there his crowd totals are being overstated, and television compounds the error by showing film clips that portray him as absolutely engulfed by happy supporters.

A truer gauge of his distant position behind Nixon can be had from the fact that Rockefeller managers are almost openly soliciting counsel from any quarter whatsoever on what to do to catch up. That they have gone back to the hard assaults of 1964 as at least a partial answer is strong testimony that imaginative new approaches are sadly lacking as time begins to run out for the governor.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Our dog Rocky is about to be retired. He has arthritis and cataracts. At the age of 12, he's an old man. He looks like a formidable German shepherd, big and gentle with black pointed ears and gold legs. But he no longer barks when polite burglars knock on the door. Rocky waits until they get inside.Then he silently points to the fake jewelry.

I get away with this because he never learned to read. He frittered his time away on girl friends who flattered him because he has hair on his chest. The last one was a saluki down the block. She was as skinny as Twiggy. On moonlit nights, he used t hop a fence to see her, carrying a bouquet of bones. Now he expects her to dig a hole under the fence.

His real name was Rock of Shrewsbury and he came to our house when he was five weeks old. He was a dark ball of silky fur and pointed milk teeth. Both ends of the pup were as busy as the Lincoln Tunnel.

From his mother, he inherited a trait called confidence. He never bit anyone, even another dog. A boxer charged at him one day and Rocky stood waiting. When the dog approached, fangs bared, Rocky took his big paw and slammed the dog hard on the shoulders. No problem. When strangers stepped into our center hall, Rocky froze them with a hard look.

There has been a dog around our house since I was nine. My mother didn't like them and always gave me the painful choice: "Either he's going or I'm going." Many of the animals were careless about their parents and grew up with one black eye and one white; one ear up, one down; a body that started in one direction, but ended on a bias.

Brownie was a mutt. He was the first. I was riding home on a bicycle and he kept barking at the front tire. He was a brown and white nothing. He smelled fine until I bathed him in the tub. Then he smelled like two miles of diapers. I used to hide him in a coal bin when I went to school. My mother found out and called the ASPCA.

When I came home at three o'clock, I called, but there was no answer. When she told me the news, I broke. Tears are for girls, but I couldn't help it. I ran from the house and hopped on the tailgate of a truck, still crying. When I got to the Animal Shelter, the man said: "Brown and white? About this high? We just put him in the gas chamber, son."

I vowed that there would never be another dog in my life. When I grew up and became rich, I was going to build a monument to Brownie. He had big wet trusting eyes and I had betrayed him. In a month, I had another dog and I felt like a criminal.

The funniest dog I ever had was Duke of Amherst. He was a Springer Spaniel, given to me by a band leader. Duke was liver and white, the only alcoholic dog I ever met. He drank gin, rye, scotch—anything better than 83 proof. If we refused to give it to him, he hung out at a neighborhood saloon, waiting for a sucker to come in.

Duke was supposed to be a full-blooded hunting dog. He got so drunk he fell off his kitchen chair. Once, I took him for a romp in the woods and fired a rifle. The nut tried to climb a tree. When he was loaded, he would romp into the house, missing the open doorway by six inches.

Sixtus was a St. Bernard. He was a 100-pound pup. In the snow, he stuck out his tongue to kiss Gayle, who was two, and knocked her flat on her back. Scamper was almost a boxer. He used to enjoy sitting in the window with my mother-in-law, spying on the neighbors. Mike was a black Labrador. He never barked. One day he saw me spanking one of the kids. He barked once and a statue of St. Joseph fell off the wall.

Rocky, as I have said before, is the only male I ever saw who bathed his own babies. There were eight drip-dry pups and, when he completed his day's work, he had a tired tongue. They too are growing old in various parts of the United States.

He will be retired, but he will continue to live with us. Rocky sleeps much of the time. When he gets to his feet, he does it in sections. Once he was Gayle's dog. Then he was mine. Now he belongs to Kelly and follows her around the house like a worried old man.

Number One daughter, Virginia Lee, is giving us a German shepherd pup. He will live with us in our Chinese house and, at dinner time, will get two choices from Column A and one from Column B, like the rest of the family.

My wife insisted on naming the dog. You won't believe it. Are you ready? Charlie Chan...

Dirksen Denies Deal

By TOM LITTLEWOOD
Chicago Sun-Times Special

WASHINGTON — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), the Senate's minority leader, chortled with satisfaction that Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark has been forced to refer some business to the National Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB).

The Justice Department had intended to let the board die of inactivity. Congress renewed the agency's lease on condition that it be discontinued at the end of this year if it had not investigated a single complaint. No cases were in the works, and the attorney general contemplated none.

President Johnson's order to Clark is believed to be part of Dirksen's price for supporting the president's nomination of Abe Fortas for promotion to Chief Justice.

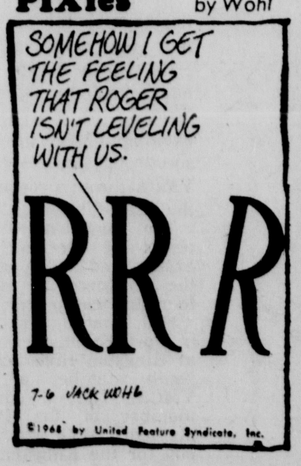

There also has been speculation that Clark was pacified by the expectation that he would be named to take the appellate judgeship vacated by Homer Thornberry. Thornberry was nominated for the associate justice sea that Fortas now holds on the Supreme Court.

Dirksen denied any knowledge of arrangements so complicated. He accepted credit for the SACB development, but said it was merely a matter of "mowing Ramsey Clark down."

"Why I've been mowing down Ramsey Clark for I don't know how long," he added. "It would have been an affront to my pride to take a licking on this. I brought it up everytime I went to the White House. I would not take this lying down. Thus endeth the first lesson."

Two members of the board who have been drawing $26,000 a year waiting for something to do are regarded as Dirksen's patronage. A third is the husband of a former secretary at the White House.

3 "Twenty Negars"

For Sale: Several Irish Maid Servants, most of them for Five Years. One Irish Man Servant . . . Also Four or Five Likely Negro Boys.

—Colonial Advertisement

The story of the Negro in United States history began in Jamestown, Va., in 1619, when an unnamed Dutch man of war unloaded a cargo of "20 negars" hijacked from a Spanish ship bound for the West Indies.

It is significant that for some 40 years after this, Negroes, numbering a few hundred among a population of a few thousand, were as free, or as unfree, as their fellow whites in the Southern colonies. Most of the latter were indentured—serving out a period of time as servants or laborers in exchange for their passage to America or as punishment for crimes committed in England. For example, 270 Scottish rebels against the Crown were transported and sold in Boston in 1652.

There was no official discrimination, no racial bars to landowning or voting. Negroes owned other Negroes. At least one is recorded as having imported a white servant. Common Negroes worked together with common whites. Intermarriage was frequent, often encouraged by their masters.

The racial situation at this juncture was fluid, notes Lerone Bennett Jr. It contained the seeds of several alternatives. Indentured servitude could have continued for Negroes and whites or both groups could have been reduced to slavery. In the end, socio-economic forces selected Negro slavery.

Negroes were strong, cheap, highly visible, unprotected by strong governments and non-Christian—an ideal source of labor for the plantation system, which was coming into being to meet the growing world demand for rice and tobacco, and later cotton and sugar.

The trend to slavery was soon buttressed by law. Oddly enough, it was a Northern colony, Massachusetts, that first gave slavery legal sanction—in 1641.

"I doe not see how wee can thrive untill wee gett into a stock of slaves sufficient to doe all our busines, for our children's children will hardly see this great continent filled with people," wrote the brother-in-law of Gov. John Winthrop.

A host of laws against miscegenation and intermarriage were also enacted. In 1667, Virginia was the first to rule that Christian baptism did not alter the status of a slave.

An intricate social and legal—and psychological—structure designed to make the Negro a separate and inferior being, and keep him and his children slaves for life, was being erected.

Report Wicks Seriously Ill

Former State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston is reported in serious condition at Kingston Hospital following his admitance there early this morning. The extent of the 80-year old Republican's illness was not ascertained.

Wicks retired from active politics in 1957 after serving for 30 years in the State's upper legislative house. During his term of office he was considered one of the Senate's most influential members.

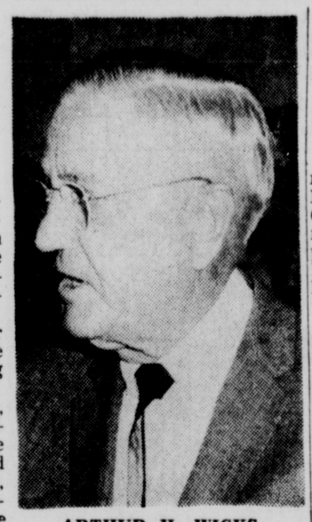

The former senator became acting Lieutenant Governor in 1953 after the resignation of Frank C. Moore. He was also the Senate majority leader at that time but he resigned from both posts after he became embroiled in a bitter fight with former Governor Thomas E. Dewey over visits he made to Sing Sing Prison in an attempt to solve labor problems in the Kingston area with labor racketeer Joseph Fay. After his encounter with Dewey, Wicks ran for one more term of office from the 34th Senatorial District, won handily, and then retired from politics.

Wicks also resigned as Ulster County Republican Committee Chairman in 1957, after holding that post for 12 years.

During his term of office, Wicks introduced the bill requesting construction of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, and as Senate Finance Chairman, he directed a probe on the operations and budget of the State Education Department.

In 1949, Wicks' name was mentioned frequently as a possible opponent for Governor Dewey's bid for reelection, but the Kingston Senator decided to seek reelection for his senate seat instead.

Fire Destroys Two Buildings In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A four-alarm fire has destroyed a one-story brick and metal building in this city's Black Rock section causing an estimated $275,000 damage.

It was the second four-alarm fire here on Friday. Earlier, shortly after midnight, a fire of undetermined origin caused $160,000 damage to St. Brigid's Roman Catholic Church on the city's south-side.

Friday night's fire was in a warehouse leased to Calabrese Bros., wholesale suppliers of paper service products, toiletry items, cosmetics and fountain syrups.

Joseph Calabrese, vice president of the firm, said damage to the contents may exceed $175,000.

No one was reported injured.

Fire Commissioner Robert B. Howard Jr. estimated damage to the 45,000 square-foot building at $100,000.

The cause was not immediately determined.

He said flames quickly spread from a loading dock in the center of the building outward on both sides. Walls in the center section collapsed, he said.

The building was at 8 Churchhill St.

DWI Charge

Highland State Police early today cited Richard LaBounty, 38, of Port Ewen, for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He submitted to a blood test at Vassar Hospital and later arraigned before Lloyd Town Justice Linn Baker. Bail was fixed at $100 and the case was adjourned for hearing on July 24.

Action Board Passes Move on Center Start

A resolution favoring the immediate construction of the Al Brown Memorial Recreation Center and the building of the new city hall in Rondout was proposed and passed unanimously at the recent meeting of the Rondout Community Action Advisory Board.

Board member Ronald F. Woods proposed the recreation center stating that "this major project must be started without delay as the funds have been appropriated and there is a definite need for the recreation complex." The board felt that when the new city hall and recreation complex were built, then other businesses would decide to locate in the urban renewal area. Some of the board members complained of the obvious lack of drug stores, markets and other businesses downtown. The resolution was adopted unanimously. Members are now gathering the complete facts on the plans for the recreation project and endeavoring to have the new city hall located in Rondout.

Mrs. Malinda Davis, Rondout director, reported on the extensive recreation program now conducted in cooperation with the local churches downtown and board member Irving Bell on the success of Rondout's present employment programs.

Children Stage Show for Heart Fund

Seven children from the Skytop area in the Town of Ulster wrote, directed and produced a musical show that resulted in over $40 raised for the Ulster County Heart Fund.

The show, which included singing, dancing and flute playing to an audience of approximately 35 persons, was presented in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Feltham of Forest Hill Drive. Star performers included Randi Aaron, 10; Kimberly Feltham, 7; Cathleen MacIsaac, 9 and Robin Stubbs, 10. The children sang songs from the Sound of Music and danced numbers which they had recently learned at the Blanche Moak Dance Studio. Piano accompanyist was Mrs. Judy MacIsaac.

Not to be outdone, brothers of the performers set up a carnival outside the home where refreshments were served and games were available to the audience, with all proceeds, again, going to the Heart Fund. This group included Bart Feltham, 11; Michael MacIsaac, 7 and Stephen Aaron, 13.

Commenting on the event, Dewese W. DeWitt, chairman of the board of the local Heart Chapter, said, "It is truly heartwarming to see children take time out of their busy play schedule to do something as worthwhile as this. We at the Heart Association are delighted and pleased to accept this wonderful gift which demonstrates so beautifully the generosity of young hearts."

The Heart Association was informed that the children involved in the event wish to make the contribution in memory of Louis Yodice, a neighbor, who suffered a fatal heart attack the day of the show.

Budapest . . . And the Birds

The Hungarian city of Budapest is dealing with the city's pigeon population explosion by using The Pill.

The city council of that city recently voted to mix birth control chemicals with bird food. This was necessary to assist with the problem when the SPCA of that country objected to more sterner measures to eliminate the pigeon population.

Budapest also has another problem—excess sparrows. The city council tried to eliminate the problem with parakeets.

Two years ago parakeets were brought in a set in city trees, the theory being that sparrow-hating parakeets would do the natural thing and cooperate in the operation.

Upstater Dies In Viet Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Army 1st Lt. Daniel N. Glowacki, 22, of Buffalo was killed on July 4 in an air crash in South Vietnam, the Defense Department said Friday.

Glowacki was aboard an Army aircraft on a reconaissance mission when it collided with another plane, his wife said.

He enlisted in the Army on Feb. 28, 1966 and had been in Vietnam since Jan. 29.

Gardiner Names McHugh As Recreation Co-Director

At the regularly scheduled meeting of the Gardiner Town Board, Christopher McHugh was appointed co-director of the town's recreation program.

He will serve with Mrs. Linda De Angelis.

McHugh is the son of the late Jesse McHugh former first vice chairman of the Republican County Committee.

According to Supervisor George Majestic, a fund drive will be launched to collect monies for town use of the Aid Society of New York City swimming pool.

Located off the Albany Post Road, the pool had been used for many years by the society but, because of certain financial difficulties, the New York City organization will not use the swimming facilities this year and the pool was turned over to the town for the recreation program.

Supervisor Majestic claimed that a minumum cost for running the pool would be about $3,000.

"We have about $2,100 in the recreation program right now," said Majestic, adding, "$1,050 of the amount came from the state."

The Gardiner supervisor said that a number of pledges have already been received for the swimming program.

It was also pointed out that Al DiBernardo, chairman of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, will help the program along and Ulster County Community College will supply life guards.

Majestic declared that he offered a resolution opposing a county-wide sales tax, but it was tabled by the Republican-controlled board.

The Democratic leader said that he wanted the sales tax to be included on the ballot in November but that members of the board "did not have the courage to vote in behalf of the people of Gardiner to find out what they want."

Area Fatalities In Greene, Dutchess

Americans were dying at a rate of one an hour below last year's record-setting traffic fatality as the long Fourth of July holiday weekend moved past the halfway mark, according to the United Press International.

Dutchess County early today recorded its third highway death since the death toll count began at 6 p. m. on Wednesday. Greene County authorities reported a New Jersey woman died Friday night of injuries sustained in a motor vehicle mishap at Catskill.

The National Safety Council, although buoyed by his year's comparatively low figure in the nation, warned: "Of course, optimism has to be tempered with a healthy dose of caution." Last year's rate when 732 persons died in the nation's worst holiday period, was 6.25 per hour. At the halfway point this year, the rate was 5.05 per hour, foreshadowing a total by the midnight Sunday end of the hoiday period well below the predicted toll of 700 to 800.

At 3 a. m. EDT today a UPI count showed 276 persons had been killed in traffic accidents since the start of the Fourth of July period. Traffic accidents in New York State had claimed the lives of 18 persons.

Fishkill state police investigated a fatal accident which occurred at 3:35 a. m. today on Route 376 near the Town of East Fishkill community of Hopewell Junction. Killed in the accident was Donald Herman, 42, of the Taconic Motor Lodge in Hopewell. Troopers said Herman was driving his car south when it skidded across the double line on the pavement, veered off the highway and crashed broadside into a large tree.

Dead at Scene

Troopers reported Herman was pronounced dead at the scene. Assistant Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Michael Badeen gave a verdict of accidental death. He said Herman suffered a broken neck, fractured spine, crushed chest and other injuries.

A New York City couple died of injuries on Thursday after their car went out of control on the Taconic Parkway north of Route 44 in the Town of Pleasant Valley and crashed into a tree. The dead were indentified as Leo Lilienfeld, 67, of 523 East 14th Street, and his wife, Sara, 68. She was driving the car at the time of the mishap.

Leeds State Police reported that Mrs. Etta Meola, 62, of East Rutherford, N. J. died last night at the Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill, of injuries suffered in an automobile accident on Thursday on the Thruway in the Town of Catskill. Troopers said the car operated by Louis Meola, 52, was traveling south on the superhighway when it went out of control, careened off the shoulder and slammed into a rock cut.

Critical Condition

Meola was taken to the hospital in Catskill and later transferred to Albany Medical Center Hospital where his condition was listed as critical.

Two persons were injured at 10:15 p. m, Friday as the result of a traffic mishap on Route 81 in the Town of Durham, Greene County, according to Leeds State Police. Thomas S. Briggs, 21, of Potter Hollow, was driving along the highway when a vehicle operated by Eugene Cleveland, 29, of Acre, made a right turn to enter a private driveway.

The two vehicles collided and the Briggs car slid 115 feet after the brakes wer applied, according to Trooper R. G. Sprague. The impact pushed the Cleveland car into a parked vehicle owned by Richard T. Cleveland of East Durham, and that car was moved until it hit the door of a garage.

Briggs sustained lacerations of the scalp. Donna Cleveland 19, received abrasions of both arms and back bruises. Briggs was cited for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

Struck Parked Car

John J. O'Reilly, 27, of 62 Lafayette Avenue, was injured at 2:05 a. m, today when his car reportedly struck a parked car in front of 141 Main Street. O'Reilly, police said, was treated at Kingston Hospital for a shoulder injury. He was cited by police for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. The parked vehicle was owned by Janet E. Phillips of 446 East 20th Street, New York City.

O'Reilly was making a turn at Washington Avenue and Main Street, when the mishap occurred.

Richard Hogan, 25, of Mt. Marion Park, said today that a previously reported mishap on Route 9W involving his car, should have noted that he swerved to avoid an unidentified vehicle when his car was in collision with one driven by Robert Plitt, 27, of the Bronx. Plitt was cited by authorities for failure to yield the right of way. The report inadvertently stated the Hogan's car struck the other vehicle. The unidentified car cut in front of Hogan's. The mishap occurred on Sunday

A horse and a motorcycle were involved in a mishap on Route 32 about one mile north of Saugerties at 2 a. m. today. State Police at Kingston said Barry A. Wangberg, 29, of 59 Second Street, Athens, was riding his motorcycle north on the highway when a horse meandered from the shoulder into the path of the vehicle.

The horse was hit and suffered a broken left front leg. It was destroyed by Dr. John R. Jeffrey, Saugerties veteranian, troopers said. Wangberg received abrasions of the right arm and undetermined back injuries, according to Trooper John Kohland. The horse belonged to Josephine O'Brien of R.D. Saugerties.

Robbery, Assault Conviction Reversed

The conviction of Anthony McKendall, 32, of Wurtsboro, of first degree robbery and second degree assault in the 1964 holdup of a card game at Ellenville Taxi Company, was recently reversed in a decision handed down by the Appellate Division of Supreme Court in Albany.

McKendall, the appellant, was indicted jointly with William Moran, Joseph Luis and Joseph Jargow in connection with the holdup in which $1,200 was taken from several men participating in a card game on Oct. 8, 1964. McKendall was sentenced to state prison at Dannemora.

The judgment was reversed and a new trial ordered.

The appellant sought a reversal on the ground that he was deprived of a fair trial by the admission into evidence of an oral confession of the co-defendant, Moran, which implicated the appellant in the commission of the crimes; by the prosecutor improperly using his name with reference to this confession and the contents thereof, although the court had ordered that the appellant's name be redacted from the confession.

Moran's oral confession was ruled admissible in evidence after a Huntley hearing to determine if the confession was legally obtained. At the trial the court ordered that reference to McKendall in Moran's confession be redacted.

The reversal order stated, "It may be inferred that it was clearly established in the minds of the jury that the other person referred to in the confession was, in fact, the appellant. The testimony concerning the events and the confession were so linked together that they were inseparable."

Liberal Hopeful Taunts Dyson

Peter Kane Dufault, of Hillsdale, Liberal Party candidate for congress in this district, taunted Democratic candidate John Dyson at a meeting in Kingston Tuesday night for what he called Dyson's "party first, country second outlook."

Referring to Dyson's announced neutrality on the Democratic presidential contenders, Dufault asked: "Does he really see no difference between Humphrey and McCarthy? Senator McCarthy has continually spoken out against the conduct of the war in Vietnam and has called for American withdrawal, while Vice-President Humphrey has been the Johnson Administration's leading spokesman for the war.

In state after state the Humphrey supporters have denied the McCarthy backers their fair share of seats at the Democratic Party convention. And yet Dyson says he could run with either camp.

"Such men as this," the Liberal candidate said, "have only one political principle—win at any price. Or, put another way—party first, country second."

Arrested by Police

Cornelius Watzka of Route 1, Box 293½, East Kingston, was arrested Friday night by Kingston Police and charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated on East Chester Street. The case is pending before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

KILLED — Lt. Col. Frederick VanDeusen, 37, of Fayetteville, N.C., brother-in-law of Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland, has been killed in a helicopter crash in Vietenam, the Pentagon said. VanDeusen, who was with the 9th Infantry Division, was the son of Edwin R. VanDeusen, a retired Army colonel who now lives in Fayetteville. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

In a Boston museum there is a painting of the first operating theater at Massachusetts General Hospital more than a century ago. It is indeed a theater, with seats rising around the walls filled with students watching the great surgeon at work, various tables for bandages and instruments, several nurses in blue uniforms with white aprons. One of the latter, we are told, had sprayed the room with carbolic acid to kill germs. The surgeon is bending over the patient, wearing a coat once white but now smeared with blood and other vital substances. His knife is in his coat pocket, wiped off carelessly after the last operation. The operating table on which the patient lies is covered in red plush.

It is no wonder that our grandparents feared the hospital and were sure they would die there if they had to undergo treatment, especially surgrey. Many of them did die.

I am reminded of this by a recent article in the New York Times about the latest plans for operating rooms. The air in the room will be washed and purified about three to five times a minute. Doctors and nurses will wear masks that carry the air they have just breathed out into a bag that hangs down their backs. No more will doctors wear baggy pants and coats. The new style will be tight fitting, with the nurses dressed in tight, one-piece jump suits. All these precautions, made more necessary by the danger of infection in transplant surgery, are expected to make it impossible for a germ to pry his way into the sacred precincts. It is hardly necessary to add that the knife is no longer thrust into the surgeon's pocket.

These extra-careful plans are reassuring, especially if you are in need of somebody else's heart or liver. We cannot have too much progress, too great care of life and death. It is only with every day appliances that progress sometimes seems dubious.

The other morning when we came downstairs the refrigerator was hot. The packages in the freezer compart were limp and sad. The milk was doubtful, the butter ran, the eggs were no longer fresh. A repair man came and said the defrosting mechanism was stuck. He removed the device, left us with a box that could not defrost itself, and promised to return in a couple of days. He came, of course, in two and a half weeks. While the refrigerator was being attended to, the vacuum cleaner passed away quietly. Examination showed that it needed a new motor and a new motor would cost more than the machine was worth. That afternoon I sat down to my typewriter. The keys kept sticking!

Away with progress, I said loudly. Back to the old icebox which caused trouble only when we forgot to empty the drip pan. Back to the broom and dust pan. Back to the pen and ink bottle.

Of course I did not really mean it. But we did have to buy a new vacuum cleaner and I resisted the salesman's attempt to sell me an attachment which, as he proved, would pick up thread and even a piece of band aid. I remembered my old Bissell carpet sweeper. It is 40 years old if it is a day and it picks up threads and band aids perfectly. We must not go back to the dirty surgeon's coat but every so often it is comforting to know that sometimes the old appliances work just as well and cost far less than the new.

an open letter to brides-to-be:

A beatuiful wedding is one that is successfully planned. After it is all over, the bride will attest to the fact that a most important help is the cooperation by the shop where she purchased her gown and her attendant's gowns. Also she was secure in the knowledge that her wedding gown was individual as were her attendants, because she was able to select from lots of styles, and thus create her own idea of a wedding party and not just settle for something five other brides had.

It's at DOREEN'S you can achieve an individual look in wedding fashions. Bridals are $65 to $125 and up, and attendants gowns are $25 to $40 and up. Each is fitted to perfection and ready to take home weeks before the wedding, if you so desire.

Orders are not taken unless we can guarantee delivery—you will find this very important to you, because we have become known for "guaranteed delivery" with "no substitutions" at the last minute.

If you are planning a wedding, our bridal consultant awaits your pleasure and you can count on the complete privacy of a pre-arranged appointment. Tel. 331-6047 day or evening—closed Tuesday. For your convenience we suggest that you use our layaway plan for fall.

GEORGE HALLEY produced this sweeping long formal in the tawny tones of the lion and printed overall with faces of the king of the beasts. He added jewels for the lion's eyes and then did a "mane" (collar) plus cuffs in masses of matching feathers. (UPI Telephoto).

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here's one for the fellows.

If any of you have knitted a pullover shirt with two buttons in front, try putting it on BACKWARDS and buttoning it in the back.

With your coat on, you'll have a turtle neck sweater that is now the latest style.

HARRY M. COHEN

Dear Heloise:

I have found a way to simplify the procedure of moving buttons over to ease or tighten a garment.

As it is difficult to position the buttons to exactly the places I want them, I've solved this by incorporating large safety pins.

I simply put the pins where I think the button should be moved. Pin it in vertically so it will slip through the buttonhole like a button and hold.

I can then try on the garment with all the pins slipped through the buttonholes, see how it will fall, raise my arms and see exactly how the garment will fit with the buttons in that position.

It saves the wasted time and effort one experiences in setting over the buttons and finding that they should have been set over another fraction of an inch.

GETTING RID OF THE "CLINGING VINES"

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-wining one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. Robert Greer III of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have just returned from the annual meetings of a scientific society where we were faced with a social problem we could not solve.

These meetings were held at a resort hotel, creating a rather cloistered situation. There were perhaps 300 people there, including the wives and guests of members. On our way to the dining room the first day my husband and I met Harry and Jane. (We have known them for some years and have tried to lose them gracefully into the mist of time, but they won't stay lost.) They requested we "wait for them" for luncheon. We did—half an hour. They made it impossible for us to include them in our party for dinner.

Jane's pet phrases are "wait for me (us)!" and "What are you doing tonight, for dinner etc.?" The waits are always too long, she's doing something she should do on her own time. The "what are you doing?" questions can be answered with a polite evasion in some situations, but Jane is most persistent and there is little chance for escape in a "closed" situation such at this.

We are sure to meet Harry and Jane under similar circumstances once or twice a year. How, within the bounds of good manners, can we control the time we spend with them, rather than play a defensive game of hide-and-seek?

—Elizabeth Greer

Dear Mrs. Greer: The best solution is —plan ahead. Fill every free moment with engagements made ahead of time by note, or by telephone as soon as you arrive. Save one specific time for the clinging couple so that their feelings will not be hurt, and the rest of the time when they say "What are you doing," "Who with?," etc., tell them truthfully, but don't suggest that they join you. If they make the suggestion themselves, you can always say, "I'm afraid it's the Smith's party and we can't really change their plans," or "I'm afraid our reservation is only for four," etc. After a few disappointments, Jane will undoubtedly direct her efforts to a less "busy" couple.

Billie Jean Seeking 'Tennis Greats' Recognition

THE SYMBOL—of tennis supremacy, the gold Wimbledon Cup, is proudly displayed by smiling Rod Laver of Australia. Laver, net pro, defeated another pro, fellow Aussie Tony Roche, yesterday afternoon in straight sets to capture the men's singles crown. (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

By JIM RAMSAY

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—American professional Mrs. Billie Jean King attempted to have her name go down among the greats of tennis history today by winning the Wimbledon womens singles crown for the third successive year.

The 24 year old from Long Beach, Calif., met happy-go-lucky Australian "Tomboy," Judy Tegart, the only non-professional to reach a final in the tournament's first open competition.

If Mrs. King wins today she will join such players as France's Suzanne Lenglen and America's Helen Wills Moody, Louise Brought and Maureen "Mo" Connolly on the exclusive triple winners' honor roll for the tournament.

Mrs. King, who turned professional earlier this year, showed indifferent form early in the tourney but sparkled by lifting her game to world class standards when she came from behind to beat Britain's Ann Haydon Jones in a semi final match Thursday.

On the other hand, the 30 year old Miss Tegart, who has toured the world circuit for the last seven years without ever really making the grade, has everything to gain and nothing to lose if she beats Mrs. King as she upset American Nancy Richey Thursday.

Australia's Rod Laver upheld his claim to the title of the world's best player when he captured his third Wimbledon men's title Friday by defeating countryman Tony Roche in straight sets 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Laver, 29, who won his first two Wimbledon titles in 1961 and 62 as an amateur, thus became the first professional titlist in the 82-year history of the All-England championships.

Laver was in complete command of the match, that marked the eighth All-Australian final in 13-years, as he picked up first prize money of $4,800 for his efforts.

Following his victory, Laver told newsmen, "This is the greatest thrill of my tennis career. It was a big thrill to win the first two. But, this being the first open Wimbledon and knowing that everyone had played here before, it meant more."

Mrs. King and Miss Tegart both are great favorites with the Wimbledon crowd, but the rough and ready Australian, who has never won anything of note will have the backing of the "underdog supporting" Wimbledon spectators when they pair off.

"I swore off the booze and fattening foods a month ago so I could be fit this time," the Melbourne girl said Friday night.

"I am determined to do my best and win."

Miss Tegart could win. She has played some of the best tennis of her career in the past few days, particularly in fighting back from a set down to beat Australia's two-time Wimbledon champion Margaret Smith Court and Miss Rcihey, who had won the previous five meetings between the pair.

Roche and last year's Wimbledon winner John Newcombe teamed up to play Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle.

Mrs. King and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco battled Mrs. Jones and French professional Francoise Durr in the womens doubles final.

Yanks Stop Orioles, Mets Fall to Phils

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fritz Peterson, who twirled a sparkling three hitter, led off the ninth inning with his first hit of the season Friday night and scored the winning run in the New York Yankees 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles on Andy Kosco's two-out single.

Chris Short pitched a five-hitter and singled and scored the deciding run in the two-run sixth inning on Roberto Pena's triple Friday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-1 victory over the New York Mets.

Peterson who retired the first 15 batters in order while raising his record to 5-3, lined a 2-2 pitch into rightcenter in the ninth off Dave McNally after failing to hit safely in his first 20 appearances of the season.

One out later, Peterson tagged up and reached second on Mickey Mantle's towering 450 foot fly to the warning path in dead center. Following a walk to Roy White, Kosco lined a solid single over third baseman Brooks Robinson's head. There was no play at the plate.

McNally, who yielded only two hits, both to Tom Tresh, over the first eighth innings, suffered his eighth loss against the same number of wins. Tresh lined his fourth homer of the season into the lower right field stands in the second inning anddrnohled in the eighth.

Boog Powell doubled in the seventh inning and Belanger singled in the eighth for Baltimore's final two hits.

Belanger's single followed an error by third baseman Bobby Cox with none out in the eighth but McNally bunted into a double play and Peterson struck out Paul Blair to end the threat.

Peterson walked only one, and that intentionally while striking out four.

Short, who saved a game Wednesday in Chicago in a rare relief appearance, struck out 11 while picking up his seventh victory against eight defeats.

Tom Seaver, who has never beaten the Phils, set a Mets' record when he blanked the Phils through the first four innings to run his scoreless streak to 22. Hal Reniff and Jerry Koosman shared the old mark of 21.

But the Phils scored a single run in the fifth and two in the sixth to break his string and his five-game winning streak. Seaver is now 7-6.

Richie Allen tripled and scored the first run in the fifth inning on Tony Taylor s sacrifice fly to short right. Ron Swoboda stumbled while making the catch, enabling Allen to score.

Short opened the sixth with a single and took second on a sacrifice by Cookie Rojas. Pena tripled home Short and then scored the third run on Tony Gonzalez' single.

The Mets scored in the eighth on singles by Tommie Agee, Al Weis, and pinch-hitter Jerry Buchek. But Short escaped further damage when Tony Taylor speared Phil Linz' hard grounder, stepped on third for the force and threw to first for the inning ending double play.

Bill Freehan has served notice on the rest of the American League that the Detroit Tigers hit back—and how.

The Tigers in general and Freehan in particular have the feeling they walked smack into a shooting gallery from the wrong end this season. It's a rare game when at least one Detroit player isn't hit by a pitch and Freehan for one is sick and tired of it.

"The umpires are going to have to do something about it or the batters are going to take the matter into their own hands," said Freehan after he was plunked for the 12th time this season Friday night. "If they don't do something soon, someone's going to go out and get a pitcher and break his arm."

Freehan didn't go quite that far against the Oakland Athletics but it was far enough to assure the league-leading Tigers of an 8-5 victory. The All-Star catcher slugged a pair of three-run homers to pace Detroit to its fifth straight triumph and its 10th in the last 11 games.

The Cleveland Indians, who trail the Tigers by 8½ games, kept pace by beating the California Angels 5-1, the Boston Red Sox defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2.

Leads League

Ken Harrelson, the AL's only .300 hitter at the moment, belted a three-run homer in the first inning to take over the league s RBI lead with 60 and pace the Red Sox' fifth successive victory.

Larry Brown drove in three runs with three singles as the Indians waited through two rain delays to beat the Angels.

A solo homer by Luis Aparicio in the first inning and a two-run homer by Duane Josephson in the second lifted the White Sox past the Senators.

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis topped San Francisco 4 - 3 in 12 innings to boost its lead to nine games, Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles 2 - 0 in 12 innings, Houston outlasted Atlanta 13 - 9, and Pittsburgh shutout Chicago 4 - 0.

Tim McCarver singled in Orlando Cepeda from third in the 12th to give St. Louis the victory over San Francisco. McCarver's hit came off Joe Gibbon, the third San Francisco pitcher after Curt Flood singled, was forced at second and Mike Shannon doubled. The winning pitcher was Wayne Granger, who allowed just two singles in his four innings of work.

Denis Menke's three - run homer highlighted a five - run ninth inning that snapped a 9 - 9 tie and led Houston past Atlanta. Atlanta had a 9 - 8 lead with two out in the ninth when Hector Torres singled, Rusty Staub walked and Jim Wynn singled to tie the game. Menke then homered to win the game and Doug Rader followed with a homer for an insurance run. Clete Boyer had four hits

Trevino Leads Boros By One

By ED SAINSBURY
UPI Sports Writer

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—Lee Trevino, a newcomer in his second year on the pro golf tour, and Julius Boros, completing his 20th season on the circuit, led the biggest qualifying field of the year into the third round of the $125,000 Buick Open today.

Trevino, whose only win came in last month's U.S. Open, drew confidence from his big gallery Friday from a record crowd of 23,482, to tally a four-under-par 68 and take the midpoint lead with six-under-par 138 for 36 holes.

But, he had only a one stroke edge on Boros, twice the Buick winner and the defending champion in this tournament which will pay the victor $25,000. Boros, matching Trevino with a first round 70, posted a 69 Friday for his 139 total.

They were within shooting range, though, of a host of challengers. Closest were the tour's current runner-up in earnings, young Tom Weiskopf, Fred Marti and John Stevens, all at 140, and Steve Spray, Rod Horn, Rod Funseth, Johnny Pott and R. H. Sikes at 141.

In all, 85 players qualified for the final 36-holes, 13 of them because of a new rule invoked for the first time that qualified everybody within 10 shots of the leader. It was the largest field this year to make the cut.

Trevino, who said he "started going for the pin more because the greens were holding" the greens were holding" had one of the two eagles on the 13th hole Friday, dropping a 25-foot putt after a two-iron approach. Weiskopf had the other eagle, hitting a one-iron within 12-feet of the flag and sinking the putt.

"I think the course will be a little tougher Saturday," Trevino said. "They'll put the tees back and it will play longer."

Saturday, Trevino will play with Weiskopf and Stevens in the last threesome while Boros will be in the previous pairing with Marti and Spray.

In addition to his eagle, Trevino netted four birdies, three of them on the back nine with putts of seven feet once and 12 feet twice. But, he went over par on two holes, three-putting from 40-feet once and missing the green on the second.

Orange County Fair Speedway's second program of motorcycle racing for 1968 is slated for Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. It will consist of nine races, three each in Novice, Amateur and Expert. Regular stock car racing starts at 8, Saturday night.

Wilt Trade Taking On Reality Aspect

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—West to Baylor to Chamberlain.

How about Baylor to Chamberlain to West?

Would you Believe Chamberlain to West to Baylor?

If the above combinations don't suit you, they may prove more than opponents of the Los Angeles Lakers can handle next season in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers, already possessors of two of the NBA's top stars in Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, could find themselves with the deadliest scoring trio in basketball history if a report circulated Friday night proves true.

The report which drew "no comments" from officials of either the Lakers or the Philadelphia 76ers, had the Quaker City club trading the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, the only player in NBA history to score more than 25,000 points, to the Lakers in exchange for Darrall Imhoff, Archie Clark, Jerry Chambers and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Such a report has been making the rounds the past month and drew repeated denials from both teams. Friday night, however, Laker officials could not be reached and Jack Ramsay, the general manager of the 76ers, when asked about the trade, would say only, "We have made no statement and we have no comment to make on that."

In addition to the Chamberlain trade, Ramsay, reportedly, also has been named coach of the 76ers to succeed Alex Hannum, who quit following the 1967-68 season to join the Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association. Again, Ramsay refused to comment about such a move.

In addition to his becoming the league's all-time scoring leader in his nine seasons in the NBA; Chamberlain, the only man to score 100 points in a single game, has been named to the All-Star squads and the All-League teams every year.

He entered the NBA as a member of the old Philadelphia Warriors after playing with the Harlem Globetrotters and moved with the Warriors to San Francisco when the franchise was transferred to the Bay City in 1962. The Warriors traded him to the 76ers in 1964.

Despite his scoring prowess, which reportedly earned him a $250,000 contract last season, Chamberlain has played on only one championship club, leading the 76ers to the league title in 1967.

Last season, Chamberlain averaged 24.3 points a game, preferring to play the role of playmaker, and the 76ers were eliminated from the post-season playoffs by the Boston Celtics, who went on to capture the championship from the Lakers, who won the Western Division playoff title behind Baylor and West.

NFL Players Get First Test Sunday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The threatened strike by the National Football League Players Association gets it first test Sunday night as both sides attempt to settle a pension plan dispute, the last remaining roadblock in negotiations.

The San Francisco Forty Niners provide that test at their summer training site on the campus of the University of California at Santa Barbara. They have scheduled 17 veterans to meet with the rookies, beginning Sunday night. If the vets don't show up on schedule, it would appear the strike would be on.

John Gordy of the Detroit Lions, president of the players association, said "appropriate action" would be taken if the pension damand is not met. Earlier, Alex Karras, also with the Lions, said the association's entire 652-man membership already had been ordered on strike.

Center Bruce Bosley of the Forty Niners was quoted as saying he would stay away from camp if the association told him to. His comment seemed to mirror the feeling among many of the players on the other teams.

All clubs are slated to have their camps open by July 21, and the first wave of exhibitions games begins the following week.

Motorsports Sponsor Rally

The IBM Motorsports Club will sponsor a rally, the "July Jaunt" on Sunday, July 14. The rally will cover approximately 70 miles and last about three hours.

Registration will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of the country club at Poughkeepsie. The first car will be off at 1:31 p.m.

Classes running will be equipped, unequipped, novice and family. The family class allows any number of participants to ride in one car and aid in navigating the rally.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third places overall, the best novice team and the best performance by a family group.

Appoint Steltz Pistol Instructor

Francis E. Steltz of Saugerties, one of the area's finest pistol marksmen, has been appointed a certified rifle and pistol instructor by the National Rifle Association of America.

Steltz was appointed on the basis of experience and the successful completion of an extensive examination. He is now qualified to conduct classes in basic marksmanship and safe gun handling.

Hudson Hurler KO's Saugerties

Kaskowski, who whiffed 11, got plenty of support from his teammates, as Hudson rocked a trio of Saugerties flingers for 13 hits.

Of the three hits off the Hudson righty, Bob Leyes got a pair, a triple in the seventh and a single in the sixth that busted Kaskowski's no-hitter bid.

Saugerties and Hudson go at it again Sunday at Hudson, then the Sawyers travel to Dietz Monday for a 8 p. m. encounter, ' are at Coxsackie Wednesday and next Sunday return home to meet Hudson again.

Victory Camp Gets Better and Better

Somewhere along the line, someone once said that trotting horses were supposed to improve with age.

Victory Camp, a brown eight year-old-gelding, proved that adage 100 per cent correct last night at Monticello Raceway, posting a blistering 2:04 victory in the $5,000 featured trot for his second triumph in a row.

Driven by veteran Al Burton, the gelded son of Spencer Camp out of Victorian by Victory Song, Victory Camp left from post five in the field of eight and won by going away by more than two lengths.

As the starting gate swept away from the field, Sprint (2) with Elbridge Gerry Jr. driving, moved quickly for the top. Burton, racing outside with last year's MR Trotter-of-the-Year, was second on the outside.

As the field straightened out in the backstretch going down to the first quarter, Burton urged the seemingly ageless trotter past Sprint and into the lead, a lead the pair never relinquished.

The field, with Victory Camp on top, reached the first quarter in 30-seconds flat, with VC opening a two-length lead over Sprint while Jamie's Beauty (3) was another notch back.

It was all Victory Camp the rest of the way. Only two serious challenges arose, but VC was able to hold off the bids by Sprint and Jamie's Beauty.

Coming home, Burton showed the fans what kind of horse he had left, pulling away handily to win within a fifth-of-a-second of his lifetime mark and two-fifths of a second off the fastest trot time at the Mighty M this season.

Ignored pretty much by the crowd of 11,349, Victory Camp went off at 9-1 and paid a whopping $20.20, 7.00 and 6.20 for the victory. Be Special (1), Ken Heeney driving, got up for second and returned $13.60 and 5.60 for place while Peerless Yankee (4), Jack Quinn up, had a $6.40 show price.

The daily double of 1 and 4, Nevele Song and Young Byrd, a pair of $19.00 horses, was $163.80.

Buffalo Wins On Homer Power

By United Press International

With more than half a season to go, Buffalo slugger Brant Alyea has already tied last year's league-leading home run total in the International League.

Alyea clubbed his 25th Friday night, a solo shot in the second, to help the Bisons subdue Columbus 4-1 in a game called after five and half innings due to rain. Last season, Richmond's Jim Beauchamp led the league with 25. If Alyea continues his torrid pace over the second half of the season, he'll break Ollie Carnegie's 30-year old club record of 45 set in 1938.

In other action, Syracuse nipped Richmond 1-0 and Jacksonville topped Rochester 4-1 in the first game of a scheduled twi-light doubleheader. The second game was rained out as was Louisville at Toledo.

The Chiefs pushed across a run in the bottom of the fifth as John Cumberland blanked the Braves on four hits. The victory upped his record to 5-3.

Bob Mitchell cracked a sixth-inning two-run homer to provide the Mets with their winning runs. Del Bates' solo homer in the second inning gave the Red Wings a lead they held until Mitchell's blast. Two more runs in the seconth clinched the victory for Ron Locke, his second without a loss.

Redskins Swap With Vikings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins traded defensive safety Paul Krause to the Minnesota Vikings Thursday for tight end Marleon McKeever and an undesignated draft choice.

Redskin coach Otto Graham said the trade would enable him to move tight end Jerry Smith to a flanker position and put veteran Bobby Mitchell in as a permanent running back in his offense.

McKeever was the number one draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams in 1960 and played linebacker in his first three years but has been a tight end since 1963.

Krause was Washington's second draft pick in 1963 and as a free safety snagged 28 interceptions in four years with the Redskins. The former Iowa star was a consensus all pro in his first two years in the NFL.

VINTAGE WINNER—Ed Tanis of West Hurley with his 1929 Model-A Ford sedan.

Antique Owners Second

The Monticello meet attracted nearly 100 antique autos and was highlighted by a free bus trip and inspection of the new Antique Auto Museum in Ellenville.

The two area cars will be on display at the Woodstock Motor Club Auto Show on July 21 at Forsyth Park in Kingston. Additional information may be obtained by calling Michael Lovy of Kingston.

Bob Veale pitched a two-hitter, retiring 22 batters at one stage, as the Pirates topped he Cubs. Bill Mazeroski highlighed a four-run fifth inning with a two-run double to decide the game. Rich Nye, now 4-10, took the loss.

Lee May doubled home two runs in the 12th inning to give the Reds the victory over the Dodgers. Don Drysdale and George Culver went the first 10 innings. Don Sutton and Ted Abernathy then took over. Sutton was beaten when Tony Perez singled, stole second and Johnny Bench was walked intentionally to set the stage for May's double. Abernathy, now 6-1, got the victory in his sixth relief appearance in as many games.

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Dodgers apparently are about to undergo a shakeup after losing five games in a row and skidding into seventh place in the National League.

None of the Los Angeles officials wants to be quoted publicly, but they agree that changes are in order.

Lack of hitting is the Dodgers' chief problem and the most persistent victim of that flaw is right hander Don Drysdale.

Drysdale, in quest of his eighth shutout of the year, blanked Cincinnati for 10 innings Friday night. But he was lifted for a pinchhiter and the Reds went on to beat reliefer Don Sutton, 2-0, when Lee May doubled home two runs in the 12th inning.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A field of 30 all-round track and field athletes, headed by defending champion Bill Toomey, go into action in the first half of the national AAU decathlon championship today.

A three-time champion, Toomey lives here but competes for the Southern California Striders. Injuries have prevented him from all-out practice drills in the 10 decathlon events.

The winner and perhaps nine runnersup will earn invitations to the final Olympic Games trials at Lake Tahoe on Sept. 6-7 where a final decision will be made as to the decathlon participants in the games proper in Mexico City.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Jim Hurtubise, driving an Offenhause powered Indianapolis type roadster, set a world record of 191.983 miles per hour Friday for a closed course in a special run around Daytona International Speedway.

Bye and Large Sets Goshen Pace Mark With 1:58.3 Trip

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Grand Circuit week closed on a record-breaking note at Historic Track in Goshen Friday with Bye and Large, a 3-year-old pacer, turning the mile in 1:58 3-5.

The mile was the fastest ever recorded at the 130-year-old track. The event highlighted harness activity in the state.

Bye and Large, driven by Billy Haughton, registered the time in the first heat of the $9,447 Orange Cup for 3-year-old pacers. Fulla Napoleon placed and Tioga Flash showed. Bye and Large also took the second heat, this time in 2:00 4-5, over Fulla Napoleon. Nevele Romeo was third.

At other harness tracks in the state:

—Style Setter ($41) edged Grandpa Jim by a half-length to win the $20,000 Jamin Trot at Roosevelt Raceway. Critics Choice was third in the mile, timed in 2:03 2-5.

Seer and Uncles Mon captured the two legs of the $6,000 trot at Saratoga Raceway. Seer ($4.80) topped Micks Boy and Two Mountains Leaf in a 2:07 mile. Uncles Mon ($5.80) crossed the wire in 2:05 4-5, ahead of Mar Con Mission and Leading Uncle.

Mattina ($9.60) romped to a 3¾ length victory over Roaring Water in the $3,500 trot at Buffalo Raceway. The winner posted a time of 2:08. Lucky Laird was third.

Mays, Mantle Captain NL-AL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees were chosen today as captains of their All-star squads for Tuesday night's mid-summer classic in Houston.

National League Manager Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and American League Manager Dick Williams of Boston picked Mays and Mantle because of their outstanding performances in past All-Star games. It was the first time All-Star captains were chosen.

Mays, making his 17th All-Star appearance, has an overall batting average of .355 in the games with three home runs and nine runs batted in. His 19 runs scored and 22 hits are ALL-star records.

Mantle, selected for the 16th time, has an All-Star average of .238 but two of his 10 hits have been home runs.

Brown Returns To Grid Scene

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Paul Brown, one of football's renowned coaches, has ended five years of inactivity and says, "It really doesn't feel like I've been away."

Looking trim and tanned in a black baseball cap with the letters CB engraved in orange, Brown watched about 50 rookies check into the first camp of the Cincinnati Bengals Friday.

The Bengals opened camp here at Wilmington College, and 30 more rookies are due Saturday before the veterans check in July 10.

The new club already has sold 18,000 season tickets, the biggest advance sale for any sport in Cincinnati history and the biggest in the league for an expansion club.

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help-Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FLSA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.60 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.15 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 42 hours a week. For specific information, contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y., 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibit discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualifiation. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

Father Love Is Deaf

[© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: There is a 10-year-old boy living next door to us who has just started taking violin lessons. Now that summer is here, we keep all our windows open, and we can hear this kid practicing night and day. I have heard "Santa Lucia" for two weeks now, and there hasn't been any improvement.

I saw his father in the yard and said, "Your Joey sure practices a lot. I hear him night and day."

Joey's father said, "Don't complain. You are getting a concert for free. One day you will have to pay for a ticket to hear him."

I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings, but this Joey is making me crazy with his violin. Any suggestions?

THE MAN NEXT DOOR

DEAR MAN: If "mother love is blind," father love is deaf, so buy an air conditioner and keep your windows closed during the summer until it's time to "buy that ticket."

DEAR ABBY: Thanks to your column I realize that I wasn't the only woman in the world who was married to a man who "lost interest" in her at a much too early age.

I tried all the tricks. Trimmed myself down, new clothes, new hair-do. I even fell for that bit about blondes having more fun. (They don't. They just have bigger beauty parlor bills.) I teased and flirted and even begged. At first I felt cheap, then humiliated. Then I realized that there was nothing wrong with ME, it was HIM. I asked him to try to get to the root of the problem, but he insists that he had no problem.

So this is where things stand. If he won't get help, there's nothing I can do. It's helped me a lot to be able to "talk" about it. And as you know, a lady doesn't talk to her friends about things like this. Thanks for being you.

"A LADY"

DEAR "LADY": I received many letters from both husbands and wives who are married to icebergs, cold tomatoes, etc. Emotional temperatures differ. It's too bad these glaciers don't marry each other.

DEAR ABBY: I have two sons. One is 15 and the other is 14. My neighbor has two daughters. One is 15 and the other is 13. My husband works nights, and I work days. The problem is that our two boys like the neighbor girls. They are nice girls from a good family, but when we are gone, the sisters will come over to see our boys. They don't date or anything like that because we feel they are too young.

But now that it's summer vacation, the girls have been spending a lot of time here, and I don't think it's right with no adults at home. Besides, you know how neighbors gossip.

How do I tell these girls not to come here unless my husband or I are home?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You shouldn't tell the girls anything. Tell your sons that they aren't to have the girls in the house unless you are home.

DEAR ABBY: The people of this country (and I blush to admit that I am no exception) have absolutely NO GUTS when it comes to refusing to tip waiters, cab drivers, and others who do only their job (for which they are paid) and nothing more.

There is no more reason to tip a cab driver for driving you from one place to another than the bus driver who does the same thing—unless, of course, he handles your luggage or does something extra for you. Most cab drivers don't even bother to open the door of a cab anymore. And when you DO tip them, they don't even say, "Thank you."

I HAVE HAD IT

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed enveloped.

What do you do with the South cards? If you are the type player who does not bid at all with these 10 high card points you will pass through out.

If you are the type who likes to compete when you have a good suit and aren't vulnerable you will overcall the opening one spade with same number of diamonds.

South liked to compete. In addition he and his partner were playing preemptive jump overcalls so South jumped to three diamonds.

West's hike to four spades showed a good hand and North had enough to warrant raising his partner to five diamonds. North did not think that South would make this contract but he was sure that East would make his four spades.

At this point East decided to jam his nonvulnerable opponents. He didn't really think that he could bring home a spade slam. He was pretty sure that the defense would collect a diamond trick right off the bat and probably a club trick later on. East didn't really care. He was pretty sure that a six-spade call would bring out a seven-diamond bid by South.

Let's get back to the first paragraph. What would you do as South?

If you have looked at all the cards you will have seen that East is not going to make his contract. You would actually double since you aren't supposed to have seen the cards but you would pass and let East struggle.

If you haven't looked at all the cards you should still pass. You told your story when you bid three diamonds. Let your partner decide whether to pass or to take the save. He will have a tough problem but will probably pass on the theory that if East really thought he could make six spades East would not have jumped there but would have allowed himself to be pushed.

This last is academic. When this hand was played South went right to seven diamonds and paid off 90 points for going down five tricks doubled.

WHY WE SAY

WICKEDNESS: In the 14th century a girl who was "full of charm" might be put to death or tortured. The word referred to wickedness. It was derived from the Latin word "carmen," a song often used in the practice of black magic.

manumission (man-you-MISH-un)
freedom from slavery

Abraham Lincoln's historic act of manumission, The Emancipation Proclamation, became effective on January 1, 1863.

The United Nations, an organization dedicated to improving world living conditions, is still trying to establish universal manumission.

The young history student, who was under the impression that manumission had been declared in every land, was horrified to discover that certain people today still keep and regulate slaves.

Occupying the 'Hot Seat'

By JOE GARAGIOLA

EDITOR'S NOTE—Joe, now a regular on NBC's "Today Show" and often working far away from the baseball field, graduated from big league catcher to the banquet circuit raconteur to sportscaster and—this year—to television interviewer and personality. Here he describes his most challenging, exciting moments: occupying Johnny Carson's hot seat.

NEW YORK (AP) — There I was, sitting in my office at NBC when the telephone rang and a voice told me a network vice president was calling.

I had some doubts about what he might want. I learned early in life about telephone calls from the boss. Like the time I was in the bull pen, and the manager called, "Joe, come on in, and bring your glove."

While I was thinking that I was going to get a chance to play, the manager said, "Del Rice (who was catching) broke the webbing on his glove, and he wants to borrow yours."

Amazing Percentage

Each time I got a phone call from the general manager, I figured that I was going to be traded. It was amazing how many times I was right, too.

While I was thinking about these things, the man himself came on the line. He said, "Joe, Johnny Carson is going to take a couple of weeks off, and we were wondering how you'd feel about sitting in his chair for one of the weeks he is away."

I had some doubts, and there were some people I wanted to talk to before I accepted. I d been on the "Tonight" show many times, often enough to realize that Johnny Carson's job is not as easy as he makes it look. I wondered whether I could handle it.

One man I wanted to talk to was Jack Paar who gave me my first big-time television shot on that same show, and out of that has grown a close friendship.

Paar Offered Help

Jack told me he was confident that I could do the job and that he'd be glad to give me any help I needed. That offer looked like a nice, hanging curveball, and I jumped at it. I told Jack that if he wanted to help, he could be my very first guest on the show.

They'd been after Jack to go on the show ever since he left it, and to that he'd always said, "No, thanks." When I asked him, he said, simply, "I'll be there."

How well did it turn out? The answer to that is not mine, but yours. But. I can tell you that it was both a challenging and an exciting week for me.

Cooperative Guests

My guests were interesting and cooperative. If I were doing the show again, I'd like to do it with the same people. (Beatles John Lennon and Paul McCartney were a little bit of a problem when they first sat down. They were tired, they were on the defensive. Eventually, though, they loosened up, and made my job easier. They also made me a big man with an 8-year-old lady in my house.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

It looks like Bob Gallo is beginning to make good on a campaign promise for shorter Council meetings as Tuesday's session ran "only" three hours compared to the five-hour marathon last month.

It was short, but interesting. Once again it was Garraghan against the Council with Ray coming out on top this time. The mayor got his road program, his police cars, and a swimming pool thrown in for good measure..

However, it wasn't all that easy. Ray had to slip in a few extra streets which resulted in a solid Republican (5) vote. As it turned out the opposition was beaten before the meeting started, but they did manage to get in a parting shot before taking the count.

Ed Norton, majority leader, called for a legal ruling on Garraghan's ordering police cars before securing the necessary funds from the Council.

Corporation Counsel Aaron Klein ruled that Garraghan had indeed overstepped his powers but that the city was in no danger of a suit as long as the bond issue for the cars was ultimately approved by the Council.

Norton went on at length about his fear of lawsuits against the city if such practices continued and then voted against the bond issue. If Ed could have conned four other aldermen into agreeing with him the city would have indeed had a law suit on its hands.

In other Council action, the aldermen heard Architect Milliken outline plans for a new city hall and the renovation of the old one. Million dollar figures were tossed around quite liberally which goes to show that Garraghan may be a good mayor, but an architect he isn't. We remember Ray coming out with estimates of half a million dollars for a new city hall.

Another thing about that survey — the site studies — all seven of them. Of any of the magnificent seven the only one that could be seriously considered was the Broadway East site.

For instance, the report deals with a piece of land owned by Kingston Coal and Oil Company and Modjeska Signs, noting that the two owners have expressed no desire to sell. Then why list it as a possible site?

SAME THING with the old Montgomery Ward building, which everyone knows is going to be the site of a parking garage built by Urban Renewal. That was mentioned as a possible location.

As we see it, a new city hall is a long way off. Garraghan might have sprung for a half million, but not a million-plus.

And now, on to the firemen. The case is in court now and no word is expected for about six weeks so things should be pretty quiet on that front. However, the firemen took the opportunity of a captive audience at their annual July 4th fireworks display to pass out a "fact sheet."

We don't deny the firemen the right to push their cause, but at a fireworks display? Extremely poor taste.

The "fact sheet" makes for pretty good reading (if you're in favor of the firemen) but there's two sides to every set of facts.

ONE POINT that hasn't been brought out in a long time is this hassle between the city and the firemen, the latter who accuse the former of "bad faith" in contract negotiations, is that the firemen originally submitted a budget for 67 men when they knew they had only 64 men on the force. This adds up to a tidy sum of extra money... about $10,000.

Quite a few of the aldermen are galled over the firemen passing out their "fact sheets" at a public event. Firemen seem to forget they have to come back to those same aldermen for money in the fall. It could be a very hostile Council.

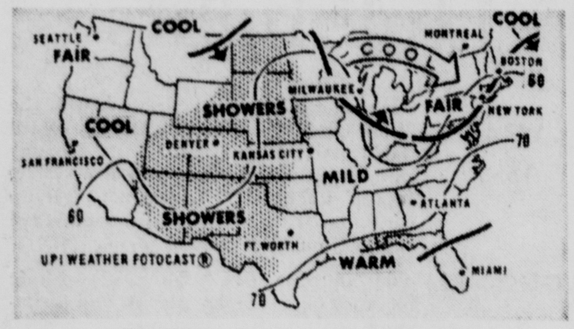

Finally, the Council's page, Ramon Prusak, drew a standing ovation from the aldermen when Bob Gallo informed them Ramon had won the highest honors in six subjects at John Coleman High School. Bob termed Ramon "a splended example of our youth." We'll second that.

Hurley Concert Slated Tuesday

The Hurley Recreation Association Inc. will present its first annual band concert Tuesday, July 9 at 8 p.m. at the Hurley Mission Church grounds on Zandhoeck Road.

A thirty-piece band, made up of members from Local 215 of the American Federation of Musicians, directed by Marlin Morette, will be the featured performers at the event. The local union has participated in several fund-raising events in the area, including the park program now under development in Hurley.

Admission to the concert is free.

For Period Ending 7 a.m. EST Sunday

Tonight will find shower activity in the Great Plains, South and Central Rockies and along the central Gulf coast. Elsewhere, clear to partly cloudy skies should prevail. A warming trend is indicated for the upper Mississippi Valley and the Lakes region, while cooler weather moves into the Northern Rockies. Minimum temperatures include: Atlanta 65; Boston 60; Chicago 59; Denver 51; Duluth 57; Ft. Worth 69; Jacksonville 73; Kansas City 68; Los Angeles 62; Miami 73; New Orleans 73; New York 64; San Francisco 53; Seattle 58; St. Louis 67 and Washington 67.

Thant in Paris Mission, Hopes to Break Deadlock

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (UPI)—Secretary General Thant of the United Nations flew to Paris today to try to break a deadlock in the North Vietnamese - American Vietnam War talks.

Thant made appointments with the chief U.S. negotiator, W. Averell Harriman, Foreign Minister Michel Debre of France, and the North Vietnamese delegation.

The U.N. mission in Paris would not comment on Thant's activities. But the U.S. Embassy later confirmed he would meet with Harriman in the afternoon. A spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation said Thant would confer with them sometime today.

The U.N. leader was expected to see the North Vietnamese delegation leader, Xuan Thuy.

Dozens of riot police guarded Thant when he arrived at Orly Airport.

The talks have made no progress in 11 sessions since they opened May 13. The North Vietnamese have insisted the Americans stop unconditionally all bombing of North Vietnam.

The United States has demanded the North Vietnamese respond to a partial bombing pause ordered by President Johnson March 31 by scaling down fighting in South Vietnam.

On two earlier trips to Paris to try to arrange a meeting between Hanoi and Washington, Thant showed up at the door of the permanent North Vietnamese mission in Paris without prior announcement.

The United Nations leader scheduled a luncheon at the French Foreign Ministry, which was to be followed by talks with Debre. He was to return to Geneva later in the day to preside over the summer session of the U.N. Economic Committee.

U.N. sources in Paris said the Debre-Thant talks would be an "exchange of views" on various subjects.

'Not Guilty' Plea Expected From Ray

By AKIO KONOSHIMA

LONDON (UPI)—An Alabama lawyer went back to Wandsworth prison today to huddle with James Earl Ray. Arthur Hanes Sr. said he was preparing an innocent plea for the accused assassin of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"Not guilty," Haines said when asked what Ray's plea to a murder charge would be. "Not guilty to anything."

Hanes, the former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., held his first conference with the escaped convict from Missouri Friday after flying to England from the United States. He met with Ray as "an ordinary visitor" because he is not admitted to practice before British courts.

As Hanes mapped the defense, British lawyers worked on an appeal to the order of a London magistrate's court directing that Ray be extradited to the United States to face charges he shot King down on a Memphis, Tenn., motel balcony April 4. The appeal is expected to be filed in a British higher court next week.

Hanes insisted he will consider Ray "Ramon George Sneyd" until he receives what he considers satisfactory proof to the contrary. Ray was carrying Canadian passports identifying him as Sneyd when he was arrested by Scotland Yard at London Heathrow airport June 8.

The American lawyer, who said he planned to return to the United States Sunday, said the prisoner had told him he would pay for his defense.

"He ain't going to pay me with love, I can tell you that," Hanes said.

Hanes insisted he was not representing any political group in the United States. He said he was contacted by Ray himself in a hand-written letter and took the case because "it's a challenge."

A possible defense, Hanes said, might be a plea of insanity.

Rockefeller Sees Open Convention

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says there are enough uncommitted delegates to assure an "open convention" when the Republican Party meets in Miami Beach next month to pick a presidential candidate.

"Today there are over 200 uncommitted delegates," he said Friday as he met with reporters while vacationing in Hawaii.

These fence-sitters "are shifting all over the country," the New York governor said.

Rockefeller said that if he loses the fight for the nomination he will support the winner, whether it be Richard M. Nixon or any other Republican.

In the meantime, he said, he is unfazed by charges that he is sowing disunity in the party.

Offering A Choice

"I'm simply repeating what he said in writing and speeches and pointing out where I ciffer with him," he said of Nixon. "I am trying to offer a choice to the Republican Party—and to have a choice there has got to be differences."

Rockefeller conferred briefly with Hawaii's GOP convention delegates, but the other major presidential contenders treated Friday as a day of abstention from speechmaking and public political muscle-flexing.

They unwound in places and ways of their own choosing—Nixon in Miami, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in Washington and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, McCarthy's rival for the Democratic nomination, in Minnesota.

It was a rare cease-fire, perhaps the last until November. Nixon said Friday night as he attended a quiet 20th birthday dinner for daughter Julie that this weekend would be the last plateau and that from now on he will be working nonstop.

Humphrey relaxed at his lakeside home in Waverly, Minn., but planned to mount the stump again tonight in Poplar Bluff, Mo., for a Truman Day rally.

In Ohio Speech

George Wallace, American Independent Party candidate, was also booked for a speech tonight in Dayton, Ohio.

Humphrey wrote Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., chairman of the platform committee for the Democratic national convention, urging that hearings be held throughout the nation so that all segments of opinion in the party can be sampled before the platform is drafted.

"If we are to make clear that our party is fully aware of the currents of change which are running swiftly in America and the world, and that it is truly responsible to the needs and problems of the future," he said, "I believe every Democrat must have a full vote in the shaping of our 1968 platform."

Burns in Trouble On Dem Delegates

NEW YORK (UPI)—John J. Burns, state Democratic chairman, today faces opposition and a decision.

The final make-up of the list of delegates to the national nomination convention displeases at least two groups, supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Negro and Puerto Rican Democrats.

Burns is reported to be considering reconvening the state committee to elect a new slate of delegates-at-large, or asking some delegates to relinquish their spots.

He has reportedly instructed his law advisers to look into alternatives.

His plight began when 50 committee men and 200 spectators walked out of last Friday's committee meeting to protest McCarthy's receiving only 15 and a half of the 65 at-large delegates, despite his winning about half of the congressional district delegates.

A few days later Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton, and Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo complained that minority groups were not getting equal representation on the slate.

Sutton, Negro, was allotted a half vote and has declared he would not go to the Chicago convention as a "half man."

Friday, City Council President Frank D. O'Connor said that the failure to include more Negroes and Puerto Ricans on the list was unfair. He sent Burns an "official complaint' about the situation despite the fact that he voted for the list in the committee meeting.

O'Connor, titular head of the State Democratic party, said, "the moral and legal responsiblity in this matter is yours, and I urge you to immediately exercise the powers of your office to remedy this unfortunate situation."

'Woody' of the Galloping Elegance

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Suddenly "Woody" Broun is everywhere.

He's up in Green Bay talking to the Packers coach. He's down in Florida reporting on spring training in the baseball camps. He's trotting through a park, a microphone in hand, alongside a middleaged jogger in sweatshirt. He's in Shea Stadium and the television cameras are switching back and forth between him and the playing field. He's in California watching an arm wrestling contest and telling everybody out there in videoland how it's done. His professional voice rolls eloquently over the airwaves, commenting on this, that and the other thing for listeners of CBS's Dimensions programs.

He's everywhere, all right—but for those of us who have followed his career for the past 20 or so years, he's the same "Woody" Broun who's always been everywhere.

If Heywood Hale Broun had visions during his college days up at Swarthmore of being an English professor whose forte was fascinating lectures, he soon tossed them aside. Instead of pinning on his Phi Beta Kappa key and heading for a life of ivy towers and mortarboards every June, he studied foreign languages that even a diplomat would never find helpful, headed up a record company dedicated to what he felt was the only true jazz style (early New Orleans), and pounded a typewriter in the sports department of New York's late and fabled newspaper, PM.

Better than Most

As a sportswriter, he was better than most, although he drew upon a great many more colorful adjectives than the majority of his statistics-minded colleagues. Perhaps it was inevitable that his drifting career should have eventually called for a crack at journalism.

He was, after all, the son of one of the greatest newspapermen of all time, the late syndicated columnist Heywood Broun, who made his profession respectable when he founded the American Newspaper Guild.

But just as "Woody" had become bored with the idea of teaching, of studying strange tongues, and of recording the music that came up the river from Louisiana, he became bored with reporting doubleheaders and homeruns. At 30, he turned to acting.

And he did fairly well at that, too. Although he never made it big in the movies, he ran up an impressive work record in over a dozen Broadway plays, including "Bells Are Ringing" and "Take Her, She's Mine." Because of his walrus moustache he was in constant demand for TV roles and appeared as a spineless sheriff, a janitor or druggist on more programs than even he can remember.

He even did some summer stock at the Woodstock Playhouse in years past (including "My Three Angels") but most of those who saw him there back in the '50s remember his wife, actress Jane Lloyd-Jones, better than they remember him. She was always the star; his parts were mostly minor.

But Woodstockers who have known "Woody" Broun for years (he's had a home on Plochman Lane in the art colony for more than two decades) always knew he'd make it big someday. They'd seen his keen sense of wit and intelligence at work around town, where he often played a mean game of badminton, dabbled in Riding Club affairs, and served as master of ceremonies for various civic and cultural affairs.

Now, at 50, "Woody" is sitting on top of the world in a job that utilizes every bit of his acting, writing and humor-prone talents. His official title is "sports essayist" on CBS's Saturday Evening News . . . and he's brought to that role the ability to report sports in the most relaxed, reflective manner in the history of the profession.

He has finally become the professor he once had visions of being because sportscasting for Broun means giving the average viewer his sports copy in a prose style that's a show in itself.

Mimes the Classics

He lards his reportage with quotes from Aristotle, Shelley and Browning, sounds as coolly relaxed as Dean Martin, and looks the part of teacher to millions in his tweedy jackets and rust - colored handlebar mustache. His lectures on Carl Yastrzemski and Vince Lombardi require the total concentration of his listeners for, as Time magazine says, he speaks with a "galloping elegance reminiscent of the sportswriters of a century ago." With a wealth of literary, historical and mythological lore at his fingertips, Broun lectures over the TV mikes just as he might behind a college podium. He has been known to compare Ted Williams with Achilles and coach Tony Cuccinello's artistry with a bat to the complication task of needlepoint. His gemlike features on other byways of sports are rapidly becoming classics and he's the newest delight of his bosses and the people who view his reporting.

Broun's droll, incisive reporting is unique in a profession where boxing and horse racing newcasts have always been rattled off breathlessly. He has brightened up the polo, fox hunting and ball - park scenes considerably over the past year and he's a welcome relief from all those hulking athletes - turned - commentators. Anything but athletic in appearance himself, Broun is thin and slight and as boney looking as one might expect a former journalist, book reviewer, columnist, lecturer and essayist to be.

Indeed, if his career has been marked with humorous pratfalls, so has his social and physical life. Last summer, while visiting sculptor Harvey Fite's abandoned bluestone quarry in High Woods, which Fite has laboriously turned into a sculpture garden and amphitheatre that must be the eighth archaeological wonder of the world, Broun fell and broke his leg. He landed in Kingston's Benedictine Hospital a sadder but wiser man.

A Puzzlement

We happened to be a patient there at the same time and every time we peeked in his door, we found him either asleep or wincing in pain. Right after he checked in, one of the hospital's staff popped into our room with a puzzled look on her face.

"I just got a memo from one of the big wheels on the Board of Directors to give the VIP treatment to "Woody" Broun," she said. "I thought maybe a Woodstocker and journalist like you would know who the heck he is!"

In the old days, Broun probably heard that kind of comment more than once. After all, his father had been a tough act to follow. he spent a lot of time drifting from job to job and searching for the right identity, and it sometimes got lonely out there trying to make up his mind.

These days, though, just about everbody who watches television or reads the national magazines knows all about "Woody" Broun. His is a job hundreds of sportswriters would sell their souls for (top assignments, excellent exposure and only a few days' work a week). But Broun himself says he'd toss it all over if Hollywood or Broadway beckoned with the right role in the right movie or show. The part he's playing right now is a dandy...but he's still looking for that really "good" part.

All of which proves there must be more than meets the eye in that old cliche, "Once an actor, always an actor."

HEYWOOD HALE BROUN autographs copy of his book, "A Studied Madness," for Elise Twine, who operates Catskill Book Shop in Woodstock with her husband, Donald. Occasion was reception and autograph party in honor of "Woody" Broun several summers ago when the now acclaimed sports essayist was concentrating on essays of all kinds in book form rather than on television. 6,000 Vote 'Yes' for Sloop Replica

Six thousand Hudson Valley residents voted "yes" for the construction of a full size replica of a Hudson River Sloop by giving $5,000 in donations and $7,000 in gate admission during the Third Annal Hudson River Folk Picnic held recently at Garrison.

"This gives the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc., enough of its $125,000 goal to begin construction of the 75 foot replica," said Alexander Saunders Jr., president of the non-profit group. As soon as all of the bids are in, a boatyard will be selected. Hopefully, the Sloop will be in the water by the summer of 1969, he said.

This year's Folk Picnic featured some 25 performers, all of whom donated their multi-faceted talents to the big festival. Among the crowd pleasers was Arlo Guthrie, youthful singer who climbed to instant fame with his recording of "Alice's Restaurant," which is currently being made into a movie with Guthrie as the star.

Applause for Pete

And the crowd, of course, went wild over Pete Seeger, internationally acclaimed ballad singer and the acknowledged "Dean of American Folk Music." Seeger has been a folk music star for more than 20 years, has made over 50 long-playing records, and has composed or co-authored several of the country's top hit songs, including "Where Have All the Flowers Gone," the recognized favorite among Vietnam troops. As the organizer and leader of the famed "Weavers," Seeger led the awakening of interest in home-made music in this country—an interest that shows no sign of waning.

Sprinkled through the program along with the professionals were many amateur performers and semi-professionals who live in the Hudson Valley.

The Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc. was founded two years ago by a group of citizens interested in building the historic replica. Noted marine architect Cyrus Hamlin was commissioned to research and build the construction plans. Fund raising activities have continued since then through memberships, now numbering 250, concerts and community functions. Many marine suppliers and manufacturers are also donating goods and services. Torrey, Huntington and Shaw, Oyster Bay, Long Island sailmakers, have donated the construction of a complete set of sails, including the largest main sail, 3500 square feet, to be constructed in recent times.

Still to be Named

The completed Sloop, as yet unnamed, will be 75 feet long, a beam of 25 feet and an 85 foot mast. Its moveable center board will draw 13½ feet when down and 6 feet 4 inches in shallow waters when it's up.

Volunteer crews, under the direction of a licensed captain will sail the vessel. Each river port will be visited each year with historic exhibits aboard the Sloop and each city and town will organize a river festival around its own history and interests.

The Hudson River Sloop was instrumental in opening the Valley to commerce and until the advent of steamboats and railroads at the turn of the century, provided the only means of transportation between Albany and New York City. As many as 400 of the vessels were registered for commercial traffic on the Hudson River in 1860. It is believed that the last Hudson River Sloop was sunk in 1938. When completed, the historic replica of the Sloop will be the largest sailing craft on the Hudson in recent times.

Malkine, Hamza El Din Together In Concert at Woodstock July 9

The second program in the Woodstock theatre's Tuesday evening concert series will feature French folksinger Sonia Malkine and folk performer and composer Hamza El Din, both of whom have appeared at the Playhouse previous seasons. They will be playing Tuesday evening, July 9.

Paris - born Miss Malkine currently produces her own hour - long radio program, "French Troubadours from Then and Now," broadcast four times a month, over station WBAI in New York City. She has made a series of 11 solo performance shows for the educational TV network. In Canada, the U.S. and her native France, she has sung in coffee houses and in concert at colleges and festivals, including the Newport and National Folk Festivals. She has sung at Carnegie Hall and the Palais de Mutualite with Jacques Brel.

Hamza El Din's rare and beautiful music has its origins in his homeland of Nubia, the ancient civilization of the upper Nile, which has disappeared forever beneath the waters of the Aswan Dam. His instrument is the oud, and ancestor of the lute. The sound he produces is related to flamenco and Indian ragas — but uniquely Nubian. Hamza has performed at the Newport Folk Festival and last spring at a highly acclaimed concert at Town Hall. He recently appeared in special concert on the Sunday morning Channel 2 TV program, Camera 3.

Such a concert — the music of Sonia Malkine and Hamza El Din — will be a mind - bending, thrilling experience in sound and counterpoint, a singular opportunity to hear East meet West.

This concert is one night only...Tuesday, July 9th at 8:40 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling the Box Office.

Sunday Lecture

The third lecture in the series of 10 lectures for the Dance Appreciation Course will be given by William Burdick, noted choreographer and period style consulant. Mr. Burdick's lecture entitled "Dances of Court and Theatre (pre - classic forms)" will be presented on Sunday, at 8:30 p.m., in the Ted Shawn Theatre at Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival near Lee, Mass.

William Burdick specializes in bringing dancers an awareness of period styles and historical dance. He gives master classes and lecture demonstrations in period dance forms, classical stage movement, comportment and history of theatre etiquette. Mr. Burdick has had dance training with such leading teachers as Martha Graham, Margaret Craske, Doris Humphrey, Antony Tudor, Pearl Lang, Jean Erdman and Merce Cunningham. He has performed with American Ballet Theatre, Jose Limon Company, Charles Weidman Company and the San Francisco Opera Ballet and the Metropolitan Opera Ballet, to name a few. He has taught at Douglas College - Rutgers University, Juilliard School of Music, Adelphi University, Harkness House for Ballet Arts and many others.

These lectures are open to the public for a nominal admission and all seats are unreserved.

The length of a year was calculated as early as 3000 B.C. by the ancient Egyptians.

Workshop Planned for Saratoga Arts

The New York City Ballet and the Saratoga Performing Arts Center will be co - sponsors of a Workshop for Young Choreographers and Dancers, to be held at Canfield Casino in Saratoga Springs during the Ballet's summer residence at the Center.

The Workshop will provide eighteen young dancers with an opportunity to study ballet with members of the New York City Ballet who will be guest teachers throughout the month, as well as steady instruction under Irina Kosmovska, the principal instructor for the entire period. The dancers will be in residence on the Skidmore College campus, with living expenses paid as part of the program.

In addition to this intensive study program, three choreographers will come to the workshop to create works on an experimental basis, using as "guinea pigs" the students who are the participants in the study program. These choreographers will enjoy an opportunity seldom available to them in the world of the dance — the opportunity of creating, under close to optimum conditions, works which are not committed to acceptance for immediate performance, or for public criticism.

Recognizing that the lack of musical materials, accompanists, physical space, available dancers and especially financial underwriting are too often the impediments which deter the development of a choreographer, the New York City Ballet and Saratoga Performing Arts Center believe that the new workshop will become an important part of their summer education program.

The workshop has been made possible by a generous grant from the New York State Council on the Arts.

Beggers Ball Tonight

If you are wondering what to wear to the Beggars Ball, forget it. Wear whatever amuses you. Dress up swell, come in rags, wear a costume, or come as you are. The important thing is to have a ball, to do your thing, at Performing Arts of Woodstock's fund raising Beggars Ball this evening at 9 o'clock at the Little Theater (also known as the Guild Gallery), next door to the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, just off the Green, in Woodstock.

The Sweet Honey, a beautiful beat, made up of four guitars, drums, and a vocalist will play for the Ball; and at midnight a buffet will be served on the terrace.

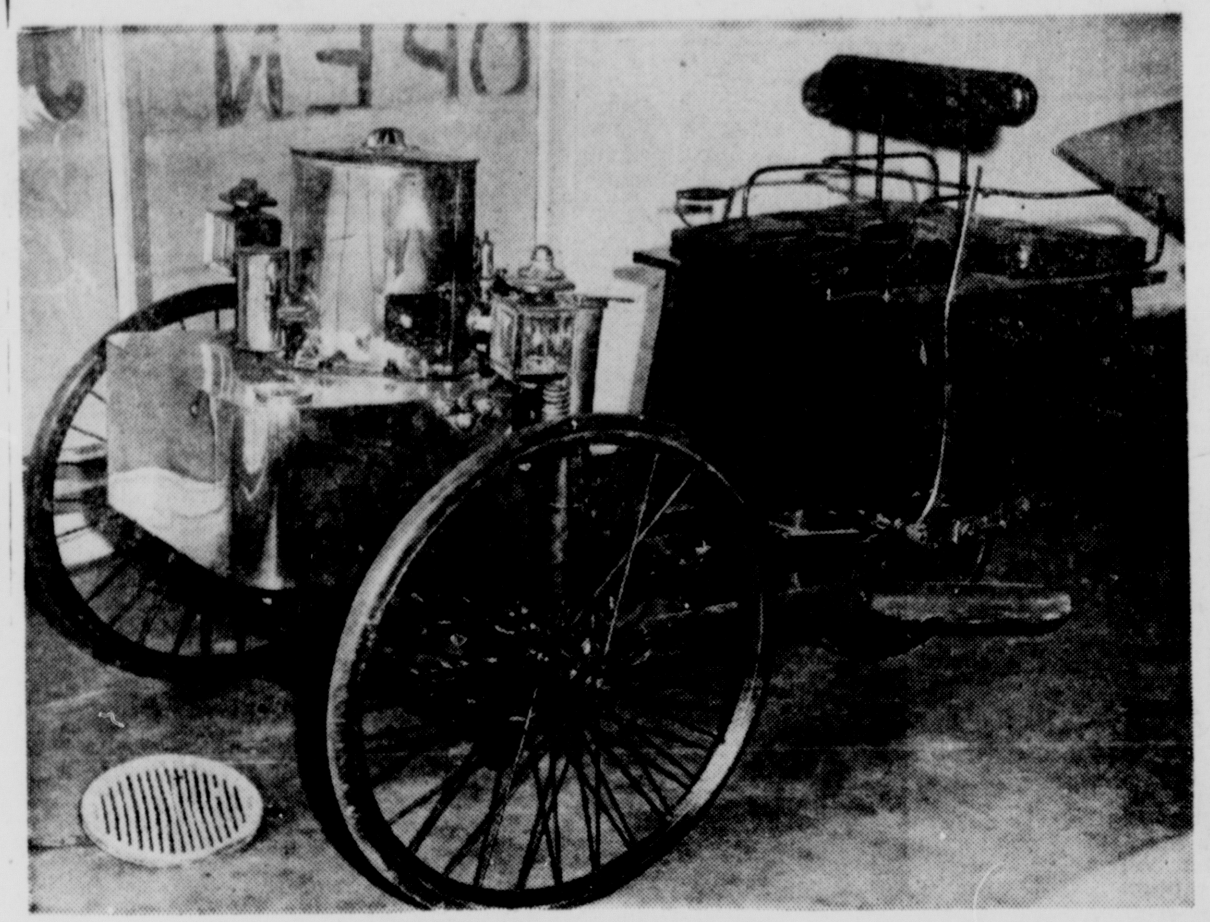

Preceding the Ball on Saturday will be a day of festivities to celebrate Beggars Day, a day in Medieval times when the rich, the poor, the titled, the unknown, joined together for a day of entertainment, feasting, and dancing, PAW, with the cooperation of Group 212, will produce a varied program of entertainment throughout the day. There will be booths of chance and surprise, and enactment of vignettes. Robin Wetterau's Dixieland Band, The Cinderella Rooftop Orchestra, courtesy of the Village Jug, and Holly Cantine's The Woodchuck Hollow Brass and Woodwind Choir will ride through the town playing.

Everyone is invited to attend.

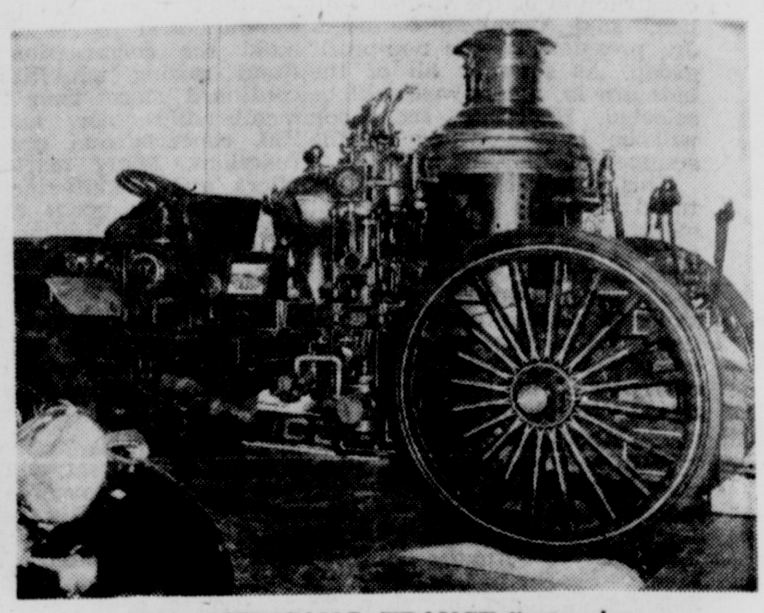

Classic and Antique Cars Now on Display

The finest collection of Classical and Antique Cars in the East is on display at Ellenville Motor Museum in Ellenville now through Labor Day.

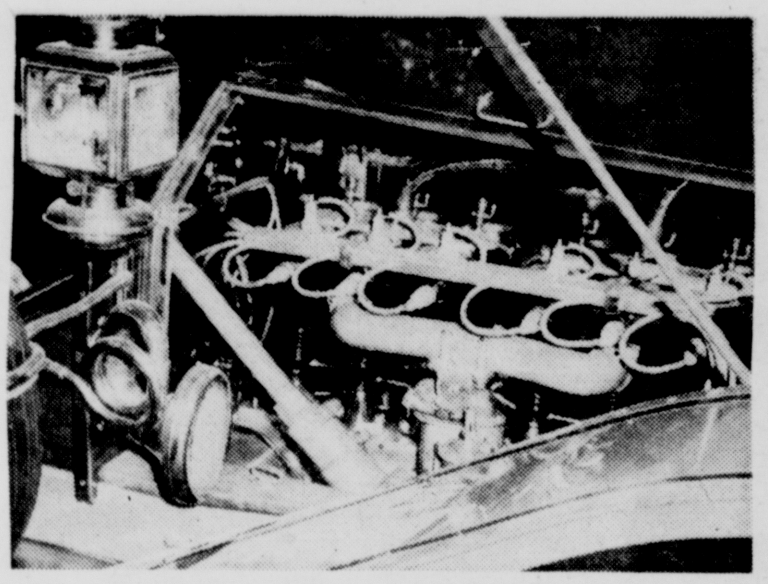

The exhibit includes more than $1,000,000 worth of superbly restored motor cars from the Golden Age of Motoring and every car is in ready-to-run showroom condition . . . built in that bygone era when craftsmanship and quality were an end unto themself.

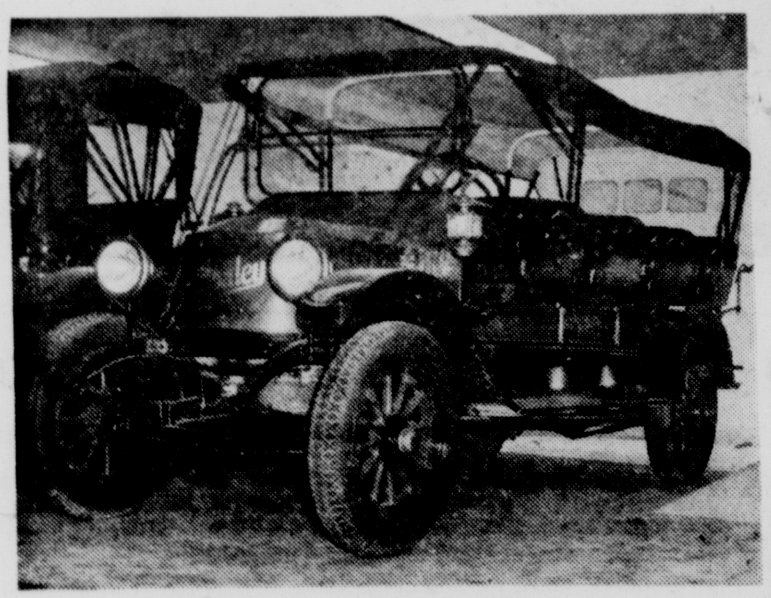

'DEGRET DU' STEAM CAR

WOULD YOU BELIEVE an engine of a 1905 Palmer and Singer?

COULDN'T BE ANYTHING ELSE BUT— A Stanley Steamer.

(What, no white walls?)

More than 50 of the most luxurious automobiles the world has ever known, including such revered marques as Buggatti, Mercedes-Benz, Duesenberg, Hispano-Suiza, Daimler, Isota - Franschini, Packard, and, the standard by which all other luxury cars have been judged for over 60 years, Rolls Royce, are all displayed under one roof.

The Museum's fabulous Rolls Royce Room contains 15 magnificent examples of this ledgendary automobile—from a beautiful 1905 Rolls Royce Roadster (so valuable that it must be enclosed in glass)—to a pair of Rolls Royce Phantom IV's that money couldn't buy (only 16 were built—and all for Heads of State).

Curator Saul Poloasky invites area residents and vacationers to see America's most beautiful collection of fabulous cars and examine the elegant heritage of the automobile, one of the great art forms of this century.

Smash Hit Comedy Returns to Playhouse

Once again it's Neil Simon laugh - time at The Woodstock Playhouse. Brought back for its second season, THE ODD COUPLE opens Wednesday, July 10, and plays through Sunday, July 14.

THE ODD COUPLE has been undoubtedly one of the most popular Broadway hit comedies in many a year and it had sell-out houses in New York and on the road and was one of Woodstock's greatest hits last season. It has been brought back by popular demand.

Simon is a genius at setting up the kind of situation that mushrooms into bubbling laughter.. laughter that grows out of our daily mishaps and foibles.

Simon's "odd couple" are two temporarily wifeless middle - aged husbands, Oscar Madison and Felix Unger, who decide to band together for the sake of their sanity and body preservation. However, Oscar and Felix soon discover that "learning to live with others" is easier said than done, especially when the two parties in question may be loosely categorized as a latent slob and a hyper-tidy — of hyper-sensitive nature.

Once Oscar and Felix become roomies, the pleasant weekly poker game is only one routine to undergo drastic alteration. Naturally, it's also only a matter of time before the lack of feminine companionship becomes acute, and Oscar invites the Pigeon sisters, Cecily and Gwendolyn, in for a drink

Fred Miller is recreating his role as Felix Unger. Oscar Madison is played by George Pollack. Pigeon sisters, Martha Miller and Tammy McDonald with us again. The poker players are Eugene Bluthe, Michael Bradshaw, Gene Nye and M. Jonathan Steele. Harold Baldridge is director and David Segal designer

Tickets are available for all performances. Reservations may be made by calling the box office.

Cancellations Listed

Due to indisposition, Charles Munch has cancelled all his European and American conducting engagements of the coming summer, including his scheduled appearance with The Philadelphia Orchestra at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

At Maestro Ormandy's invitation, Julius Rudel has graciously agreed to abbreviate his vacation and replace Mr. Munch as the guest - conductor of the Saratoga Festival concert of Thursday, August 8. Instead of the all - French program planned by Mr. Munch, he will lead a program equally divided between French and Spanish music.

Cesar Franck's famous Symphony in D Minor will be performed, as scheduled, as the opening and major work. The revised second half of the August 8 concert lists Chabrier's Rhapsody 'Espana' and two works of Debussy: the Suite from the opera, El Amor Brujo and Three Dances from the ballet, "Three Cornered Hat."

Mr. Rudel made his Saratoga debut leading the all - Viennese program which was one of last summer's sell - outs on August 19. His third appearance here will be at the helm of the concert performance of Bizet's opera, "Carmen," on August 10, with the remarkable young American mezzosoprano, Shirley Verrett, in the title role.

Wilson to Direct Turnau in County

The Turnau Opera Players, in residence at State University College, New Paltz, from July 19 to August 26, has announced that Warren Wilson, dynamic young music artist, is again directing the opera productions at New Paltz and Woodstock when the Players present their fourteenth season of musical theater in Ulster County.

At the request of the State Department in 1966, Mr. Wilson accompanied the American contests for the Tchaikovsky Competitions with great success won by the American participants. He has received a Rockefeller award and a Whitney award, and was a guest at Aspen, Colorado, last year where he studied with composer Darius Milhaud. He has also been invited to return to the prestigious Colorado cultural resort. In addition he is chief accompanist for baritone William Warfield and has also accompanied Leontye Price and Shirley Verrett.

This is his third year with the Turnau Opera, and the press of his year - around commitments with the Players has forced him to turn down many attractive offers including an offer for a concert tour of Russia and an invitation to play at the White House.

The director is not only typical of the high calibre of musicians and singers who work with the Turnau Opera Players, but he is also credited with being largely responsible for attracting that high calibre of performer. His enthusiasm and drive are infectious qualities which transmit themselves to his colleagues, who relish working with him, and to his audience which respond warmly to his artistic imagination.

Information on the opera season can be obtained from Turnau Opera at State University College, New Paltz, or the Woodstock Playhouse.

Music Readers Are Invited to Paltz

Four choral music reading concerts for Mid - Hudson singers will again be presented this summer at State University College, New Paltz, with the first to be held at the College's McKenna Theater 8 p.m., July 9. The summer series is sponsored by the Mid - Hudson Camerata Chorale and the New Paltz college's Music Division.

All interested singers in the area are invited to participate. The concerts are open to the public without charge.

In the opening performance, Edward Greene, organist and choirmaster at Poughkeepsie's First Presbyterian Church, will conduct the Requiem Mass in D minor by Mozart. Mr. Greene, a Harvard graduate, has taught at Wellesley Colege, Princeton University and Brown University. The organist will be John Davis of West Point.

Soloists featured for the July 9 performance will be Betty White, soprano, Betty Greene, contralto; Dick Jacobson, tenor; and Spencer Barnett, bass.

Mr. Greene will be using the H.W. Gray edition of the music for singers who wish to bring their own scores. Registration for singers will be held at 7:30 for all performances.

'Bonnie and Clyde' Director to Berkshire

Subscriptions are now on sale at the box office in Stockbridge, Massachusetts for the Berkshire Theatre Festival's first season of new plays.

Opening the Festival Wednesday July 3 at 8:30 is Elaine May's new comedy, "A Matter of Position." The playwright stars in her own work which will be directed by Arthur Penn. Miss May is well known for her work in comic improvisation with Oscar winning director Mike Nichols at Chicago's Compass Theatre and in the New York production "An Evening with Nichols and May." Arthur Penn directed the movie "Bonnie and Clyde."

William Gibson's new play "A Cry of Players" is second on the Berkshire Theatre Festival's schedule, opening Wednesday July 24. Anne Bancroft will star in the production directed by Gene Frankel. Third on the schedule is Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna's "Lovers and Other Strangers" opening August 7. The Festival's final offering is Jack Gelber's "The Cuban Thing" which opens August 21. The playwright will direct.

Reserved seat subscriptions will be available through the opening of "A Matter of Position" for the ten series. An alternate subscription plan which gives the buyer maximum flexibility is the ticket coupon book. Subscribers recieve eight coupons which are redeemable for all performances but Saturday and opening nights. Coupon books will be available throughout the nine week season.

Subscriptions may be charged on the CAP charge plan and are also available at England's department store in Pittsfield and Melvin's Pharmacy in Great Barrington.

Works by Tobey

Tobey, a native of Hyannis, Mass., has been painting professionally for 10 years. He studied with Ethel Magafan of Woodstock.

Unusual Plastic Concept Opens at Woodstock

'YOU HAVE TO SEE IT TO BELIEVE IT,' says Jacqueline Margolis, wife of Mark Margolis, creator of the brand new plastic play concept which opened July 3 at Woodstock and will continue through Labor Day. Utilizing projections, sound and open spaces,, the completely different idea emphasizes the mood of the moment. Tempo wonders—is it audience participation with people seated within the play area, in the pit, on the stage? All we know is that it's unusual, perhaps unique, and is being offered at Blue Dome Plastic Theatre, 131 Byrdcliffe Road in Woodstock. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

PHOTOGRAPHER ROBERT QUINN lends a little more mystery and intrigue as he adjusts projector which is used in the plastic play operation. Quinn is a slide maker and projection programmer. The public is invited to attend this novel presentation at the Blue Dome Plastic Theatre in Woodstock, formerly the home of the Turnau Opera. Performances are given every evening (except Monday) at 9 o'clock with two shows on Fridays and Saturdays at 9 and 11:15 p. m. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Four Tops' Special

The Four Tops will lead off the parade of special one night attractions at Eddie Rich's Colonie Summer Theatre on Monday evening, July 8. The single appearance starts at 8:40 p.m.

The rich vices of The Four Tops, with their exciting "now sound" of Motown, have been heard in every major night club from coast - to - coast and throughout Europe. They have been acclaimed on many of the nation's major university campuses and appeared on such top rated TV Shows as Ed Sullivan, Joey Bishop, Johnny Carson, Shindig and Where The Action Is.

THE FOUR TOPS

The combined talents of Levi Stubb Jr., Reualdo (Obie) Benson, Lawrence Payton and Abdul (Duke) Fakir were first heard when they formed a singing group in high school back in their hometown of Detroit.

Singles Score

Since the very beginning the singers dreamed of becoming accepted. The road, even though long, has led The Four Tops all the way to the "Top" in the recording business. They have recorded 14 outstanding successful singles, some of which include "Walk Away Renee," You Keep Running Away," "Standing in the Shadow of Love" and "Baby I Neeed Your Loving," to name a few. The foursome has scored equally well in the album department. Seven have been classified as hits.

The Four Tops' long climb to the top was climaxed when they made their debut at the world - famous Copacabana in New York City. The gala opening night at the Copa was the actual realization of that dream come true. They had been accepted, and by some of the toughest and most sophisticated critics in the world.

The theatre's special one night attractions have become popular with area audiences over the past 11 years. Following The Four Tops will be Tommy James & The Shondells on Monday, July 22; The Association on Monday, July 29; The Cowsills on Monday, August 12 and completing the series will be The Union Gap on Monday, August 19.

Tickets for all the specials and other attractions lasted for the tent this summer are now on sale at the boxoffice daily. Mail orders are accepted by writing to Box 136, Latham, N.Y. 12110. Information and reservations may be obtained by calling 785 - 8559.

Jazzmen Arrive

In the last few years the music world has become at least as exciting and unpredictable as the political world, and there has been a surge of new talent and energy that has begun to change our whole way of listening.

One of these developments has been the appearance of the "New Thing," sometimes referred to as "free jazz." One of the brightest exponents of this new means of musical expression is a young alto-saxophone player and composer whose records and concerts have been reviewed by major American and foreign magazines. They have called him a "talented and dynamic young jazz composer," and have pointed out his "incontestable originality."

Noel Howard will bring the "new thing" to Woodstock on Friday and Saturday, July 12 and 13, at 8:30 p.m. at the PAW Little Theatre off the Green. For further information call 679-2114.

Two One-Act Plays for PAW's 1st Summer Offering

Casting has been completed for Performing Arts of Woodstock's first production of the summer, a bill of two one-act plays, opening on Friday, July 19, under the direction of Bob Burgos, whose production of Holly Beye's "The Banana Thief" will be vividly remembered by theatergoers.

The first one-act will be "Charles, the Child Beautiful," by Danny Klein. One of PAW's early productions was Mr. Klein's "The Audience," which became an instant hit. At that time Mr. Klein was teaching English at Onteora High School. Danny Klein is now living on a Greek Island, writing a novel. Playing in "Charles" will be Pearl Blackman, Larry Shufeldt and Ralph Santinelli.

The second one-act is "The Beholder," by Christopher Jones, a two character play, with Isabelle Liikala, and Dean Schambach. Last season, Christopher Jones' play, "Obsidian" was done at the Play brought back for an additional Box, in New York City. "Obsidian" played for two weeks but because of its enthusiastic reception, was two weeks later in the season. The previous year, "The Key," by Mr. Jones, was produced at the well-known Genesis Theater.

TOM SANKEY of the "Bummers," a group from Theatre Genesis in New York City, will direct the first offering, Good Gunfighters Die Like Bad Ones, an improvised, commedia-style western, to be performed at the Gallery Theater, Group 212, Woodstock, this evening at 8:30. The Bummers are staying as artists-in-residence at Group 212 and will perform weekends. Reservations are not necessary and admission is by donation.

Five Upstate Attractions That Appeal to Youngsters

Ever since the Thruway and the Northway made Upstate New York easily accessible to Ulster and Dutchess County residents, families have found weekending in the Adirondacks area simpler than ever.

Two hours or so of driving is usually all it takes to make the youngster in your family a happy child. It's just about that far to five attractions most children view as youthful paradises . . . and on any given weekend, it's possible to visit each and every one, without too much wear and tear on tempers and pocketbooks.

Among the more memorable places that emphasize entertainment for children:

Land of Makebelieve on Rt. 9N in Upper Jay, N. Y. is a colorful child-scale village of fairytale houses and an early Western town in immaculate detail complete with a large collection of antiques. This year, Arto Monaco, owner and internationally-known designer, reports the landing of a squadron of small-scale WW I airplanes, including the Red Baron's favorite, the Fokker Triplane. Children take part in mock dog fight—on the ground. An enlarged Safari Village is another added feature for 1968. Steam trains, steamboat, stagecoach, drive-yourself cars, other rides and shows are included in the program of fun.

Home of 1,000 Animals on Rt. 86 at Lake Placid, N. Y. and Ausable Chasm, N. Y. has been busier than ever this spring with the arrival of dozens of animal "babies." Cute baby bear cubs, deer, and a great variety of young animals native to all parts of the world are on display. Many animals are trained to perform, and there are chimpanzee acts each day. A separate park is set aside where youngsters mingle with and feed dozens of young deer, llamas and other gentle animals.

Also on Whiteface Mt. near Wilmington, families will find North Pole, N. Y., the home of Santa's Workshop. Home, mailing address and workshop for Santa, his storybook helpers, reindeer, craftsmen and animal friends are all there. Visitors stroll through a colorful village and the North Pole U.S. Post Office. A new entertainment program is featured this year along with extensive remodeling of the craft shops. The village is filled with bright floral plantings, all identified for the nature lover. Families also have a personal chat with Santa Claus in his quaint log cottage, scrape ice and snow from a frosty North Pole, and play with tame deer and small native animals.

Storytown, USA, is 3¾ miles north of Glens Falls on Rt. 9 and features Storytown, Ghostown, Jungleland and Alice in Wonderland. There are more than 30 storybook areas in bright color and immaculate settings.

This year there are additions in Ghostown, including a "Dark Ride." Mysterious Jungleland has also been expanded with longer, more exciting trails crossing swinging bridges and through tropical undergrowth. There's an all new kiddieland in Storytown for '68, with tots' rides and a nursery where children play and feed baby animals.

The picnic area has been enlarged, and several rides have been added in Storytown, giving it more rides than any other park in the northeast.

Whiteface Memorial Highway and Aerial Chairlift are both located in Wilmington, N. Y., 12 scenic miles from Lake Placid on Rt. 86. The highway winds its 8-mile way to the top of Whiteface Mt.

On a clear day, the summit house offers a 100-mile view of two states, and two countries from 4,867 feet up.

The Aerial Chairlift at the Whiteface Mt. ski center carries sightseers to the summit of Little Whiteface Mt. The two-mile trip rises 3,600 feet to the summit, opening up spectacular mountain and valley scenery to eye and camera.

Members of the Adirondack Attractions Association of which these five and seven others are included, all live up to strict standards of performance in order to maintain their membership. The beneficiary of this association is the traveling public, for the main emphasis of the members is in providing wholesome, family fun at reasonable prices.

New Gallery Opens

PICASSO'S PORTRAIT of George Braque serves to remind TEMPO readers that a new gallery has bowed in the area. Over Woodstock way, that fabulous emporium known as Folk Art, long a haven for those interested in unique gifts and unusual clothes and jewelry, has just added an art gallery to the premises. The first exhibit is one featuring Picasso lithographs and it opened July 4 with a public reception and punch party; will run for two weeks more. Folk Art is housed in a weathered red barn on Rock City Road in the art colony; has also just acquired a new attraction in Charlie, a yellow-and-blue macaw, whose talkative personality is proving a big draw these days with customers and local youngsters.

We're Delighted

Dear Editor:

Thanks so much for the beautiful story about the New Windsor Cantonment that appeared recently in Tempo. Everybody here at Palisades Interstate Park Commission is delighted with it and we are ordering additional copies.

Your Permission

Dear Editor:

Many, many thanks for the fine article on Tino & The Revlons that appeared in a recent issue of Tempo.

With your permission, I would like to use portions of the article to be reproduced in our new brochure. May I have a copy for reproduction purposes with my most since thanks.

Very truly yours,

Old Boats and Houses

Dear Editor:

Tempo is a very interesting magazine and some of the columns are reminiscent of those once written for your paper by the late Sophie Miller.

I have been especially interested in all the articles about boats and old houses. My father was engineer on the William F. Romer night boat and I have a picture of the crew and the boat taken around 1910; also a 1937 copy of the Hudson River Sight Seeing Map Booklet. I personally had many delightful sails on the Day Line steamers, as well as the night boats.

As a member of the Freer-Low Associates (my mother was a Freer) and an avid supporter of Stone House Day in New Paltz on Aug. 3, I hope you will keep writing about all the interesting places in Ulster County and the surrounding areas.

Sincerely,
MILDRED FRAMENT
13 Trenton Street
Kingston, N. Y.

(Editor's Note: Why not send us that 1910 picture and the booklet? We'd love to print the first and update the second as an article and promise to return them to you in excellent condition.)

Light on Lighthouse

Dear Editor:

In connection with recent references in Tempo to the present Lighthouse on the north end of the dyke of the Rondout Creek, I beg to differ on your information. This structure was started in 1913 and the Lighthouse referred to was on the south side of the Rondout Creek and was dynamited in 1953 by order of the Government.

Being a descendent of the Murdock family, who were in charge of the Lighthouse for over 50 years (in fact, from 1856 to 1923), our records are far different.

Very truly yours,
60 Abruyn Street
Kingston, N. Y.

Senseless Noise

To the Editor:

The performance held at the Woodstock Playhouse one recent June night, ostensibly offered as a musical concert, turned out to be a cruel exhibition of senseless noise, a relentless and brutal attack on the human ear in violation of every fine musical sensibility. Accompanying this performance were colored slides projected on a background screen, presumably to enhance the effect, suggesting palpitating entrails and other internal organs quivering spasmodically to the din of electric guitars and other unmusical instruments.

The audience was composed of nearly 100 per cent young people clad in grotesque and miscellaneous trappings who applauded with evident pleasure this infernal racket. This is not music. It is nothing else but an invocation of the devil. Indeed, if this performance is symtomatic of the trend of youth today, characterized by its savage breakdown of all restraint, is it any wonder that this same lawless spirit with its brutalizing effect should invade other spheres of our society as riots, murder, rape, robbery and general contempt for the law.

Respectfully,
HAROLD LEE MANIERRE
Ohayo Mountain Road
Woodstock, N. Y.

'Where Eagles Dare'

MGM's "Where Eagles Dare," starring Richard Burton, Clint Eastwood and Mary Ure, completed filming this month after nearly five and a half months before the cameras in the Austrian Alps and in Britain. The epic - adventure film follows the spectacular adventures of an Allied team headed by Burton who parachuted into World War II Germany. It began filming January 2 on a stormy mountainside high above the Austrian village of Werfen. Other scenes were filmed in Werfer, and the Alpine villages of Lofer and Ebensee, the latter the setting for the picture's climactic fight on top of cable cars. Europe's most violent winter in years brought blizzards and avalanches to make the location one of the most physically challenging ever undertaken for a film.

PRUDENCE AND THE PILL. A sophisticated comedy, with a stylish cast playing against elegant backgrounds, is 20th Century - Fox's "Prudence and the Pill," in wide screen and DeLuxe Color, which opened Wednesday at the Community Theatre. Revolving around the controversial birth control pill, the farce has a cast with Deborah Kerr and David Niven as the leads.

Produced by Kenneth Harper and Ronald Kahn, "Prudence and the Pill" was directed by Fielder Cook from a screenplay by Hugh Mills who based it on his own novel.

Heading the large cast as the outwardly cold, but inwardly warm, Prudence and her outwardly respectable, but inwardly deceptive, husband Gerald are Kerr and Niven.

Mother of the highly emancipated niece is played by Joyce Redman who rocketed to international acclaim with her portrayal as Albert Finney's eating companion in the sexy-gluttonous scene in "Tom Jones." Her bewildered husband is played by skillfull veteran comedy actor Robert Coote.

David Dundas makes his film debut in "Prudence and the Pill" as the niece's romantic boy friend. His guardian is played by the first lady of the British theatre, Edith Evans.

To make up for his cold wife, Niven has a beautiful warm mistress who is played by Irina Demick.

The main casting is completed with Prudence's lover enacted by Keith Michell; Prudence's maid, played by Vickery Turner; and her amorous boy friend, interpreted by Hugh Armstrong.

DEBORAH KERR and David Niven in a scene from Prudence and the Pill, a motion picture dealing with that controversial pill, which opened this week at the Community Theatre.

THE PRODUCERS. Held over for another week at the Mayfair Theatre in Kingston, the film stars zany Zero Mostel and Lee Meredith in lead roles.

THE GRADUATE and DARLING are both running for another week at the Sunset Drive - In on a double bill. Dustin Hoffman and Anne Bancroft take the starring roles in Graduate while Julie Christie steals the show in Darling, an oldie by now, but one that has won three Oscars. All three films were reviewed in depth in last week's Tempo.

'Sound of Music' Now at Cornwall

On Wednesday evening, Playhouse on the Hudson opened Rodger's and Hammerstein's "Sound of Music" to an enthusiastic audience.

Rebecca Davis skillfully essays the role of Maria in a totally believable portrayal. Her co - star, Reed Allen, plays Captain Von Trapp with dignity, reserve and empathy, and sings the role subtly and well. Gertrude Graf, no newcomer to theatre or music, but a welcome newcomer to Playhouse audiences, is a warm, kind and wise Mother Abbess, and her voice is thriling. The conniving and charming Uncle Max is given a convincing and winning Leiderman while his compatriot, the Baroness Schraeder, sometimes fiance of the widowed Captain, is a delight to see and hear as played by Annabelle Brooks.

An excellent supporting cast includes the young lovers, Rolf and Liesl, done by Greg Doucette and Susan Somer with charm and youthful verve, and a kind - hearted but stern housekeeper, Frau Schmidt, well acted by Ruth Saada.

"The Sound of Music" is scheduled to run at the Playhouse in Cornwall on - the Hudson, through July 13.

Television

Well, it's the season for repeats alright, what with last Sunday's Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color, Ed Sullivan Show, the FBI, Bonanza, High Chaparral and Mission: Impossible, all prime-time programs, offering the best (and that is questionable), of this is the season that was.

However, Sunday did offer a gay Summer Brothers Smothers Show with Pat Paulson starring and "staring." Those who saw the program teasers will understand; those who didn't . . . sorry 'bout that. Guests included Flip Wilson, Teddy Neeley and Stiller and Meara spoofing Eaters Anonymous.

Can't complain about ALL the repeats, though. Thursday night's Ironside shows are encores but, as long as they star Raymond Burr, the show is tops in Tempo's tally. For 10 years we've been following Raymond Burr in his Perry Mason series faithfully. Even arrange dinner so we can catch his repeats on Channel 3 at 5:30 every afternoon, though some we've seen umpteen times . . . now that's being faithful. With 10 years of courtroom ethics and dialogue behind us, we (at least) feel qualified to argue our own defense for traffic violations. (Tobie Geertsema did, and won.)

Read that Peter Graves performed his own stunt work in last week's Mission: Impossible, in an exciting climax involving him being picked up by a helicopter. And speaking of Graves, he also starred Monday evening on Premiere, a summer series of old and unsold pilots—mostly mystery and super spy types—that have been laying in limbo. Graves should thank his lucky stars that show didn't make it or he'd have lost out on Mission: Impossible. One of life's many paradoxes when losing meant winning.

A seven-week Tuesday series began last week on CBS 10-11, entitled Of Black America. Dealing with the history of the Negro and his contributions to this country, the first week's program boasted Bill Cosby as host. Educational, to say the least, the show pointed out that Negroes are remembered mostly for their participation in the sports and entertainment fields, yet few people realize it was a Negro who performed the first open - heart surgery in this country, who revolutionized sugar refining etcetera. TV and movie clips showed old - time caricatures of the Negro in such reminiscent programs as Amos 'n Andy, compared with today's more realistic resemblances in Guess Who's Coming to Dinner. The program is a MUST for all ages.

It was international-set-a-go-go on Tuesday night's Showtime when Frank Fontaine, of Jackie Gleason Show fame, played host as a kaleidoscope of performers, representing England, France and Spain, to mention a few, emitted with talent from comedy - magician acts to puppeteers and jugglers. America made the scene, too, in the manner of singers, The Four Freshmen.

On Wednesday evening Tempo tiptoed through the TV listings and picked the Dom DeLuise Variety Show Ch. (2-3) as a tempting tidbit to tickle its fancy. DeLuise really ran the gamut that night, from a barber's sketch with a hippy badly in need of a shearing to a silent movie comedian who has hit rock bottom. We've watched DeLuise from as far back as The Entertainers days when Katerina Valenti, John Davidson, Carol Burnett and DeLuise pooled their talents in one terrific variety show which, however, didn't last very long on the network. Tempo cannot understand why that show fizzled. With all those stars, each one now a top performer in his field, it must have been doing something right.

Sports programs are in the limelight and will be for quite a bit it seems, with baseball and golf, evidently, the favorites at the moment. Since this writer couldn't care less, she'd best explain the observation was arrived at only by switching the controls for something more her "cup of tea." But since sport specials are obviously here to stay, it would be only fair to remind viewers (especially, Charlie Tiano, Mike Helfner, Chris Gehman and Ed Palladino, if he'll still interested) that sport channels are 9 and 11 and "soccer to me."

Have been watching to see if TV networks' good intentions of eliminating excessively violent episodes and movies, in the wake of the Kennedy assassination, will actually materialize. Was impressed with As We See It in a recent issue of TV Guide where writer hit where it hurt, naming TV shows that presented especially savage scenes—in close-ups—on the very evening the Senator was shot and, this, after spending the day covering the tragic hospital developments. It will be interesting to see who wins . . . the good guys or the "bad guys."

Heat, Not Flight, Problem with This Wing

"I rough-sketched a good wing on paper. Looked great. Only trouble, it just would not work out. Fuel requirements were putting the price out of sight . . ."

Engineer with a far-out aeronautical dream?

No. Thirty-Seven year old doctor playing around with an old idea: combining home and office on the same plot.

"Pro" item: The house, which ten years ago was "on the edge of town" is now near the heart of a new center. The front yard was bigger than it had to be. and what used to be down-town is now a less handy location for his auto-borne practice.

"Anti" item: Upkeep "Mainly heating." The wing was going to need a seperate system, as I originally figured it out. The house system wasn't delivering as it should anyway . . . it certainly couldn't be extended. "But I went ahead and talked to a builder anyhow", says the doctor. His advice: "Electric heating . . . throughout. When you find out from the office how great it is, you'll want it in the home section, too so do it all at once. Much cheaper that way, and a single system will solve the whole problem for good. Plus, we won't have to scrimp down the wing design. You see with electricity as the fuel you can design to suit the function of the buildings, rather than shape them to trap and route warmth. "If electricity can heat an airport, believe me it can handle your office. Just so long, of course, as we insulate to prevent seepage."

And what is the doctor getting from electric heating that he would have missed out with the old line methods?

*Even warmth. Throughout both home and office—though the requirements differ (day and night for the home; days only and not every day for the office).

*A la carte variations. The doc opted for room by room thermostats. Permits keeping some rooms warmer, some cooler, and lowering temperatures when space is not in use.

*Lowered "nuisances". Nothing to order, nothing to store. And a good chance nothing will ever need a repair man. (Electric heating systems have fewer no moving parts . . . hence don't wear out fast.)

Question Box

Question: I've been told that if I chose a new house with electric heat. it will be automaticaly cool in summer. Why is this so . . . if it is?

Answer: Well, since you don't tell us which of the several excellent choices of electric heating equipment is involved we'll give you the overall general reason why . . . plus some specifics.

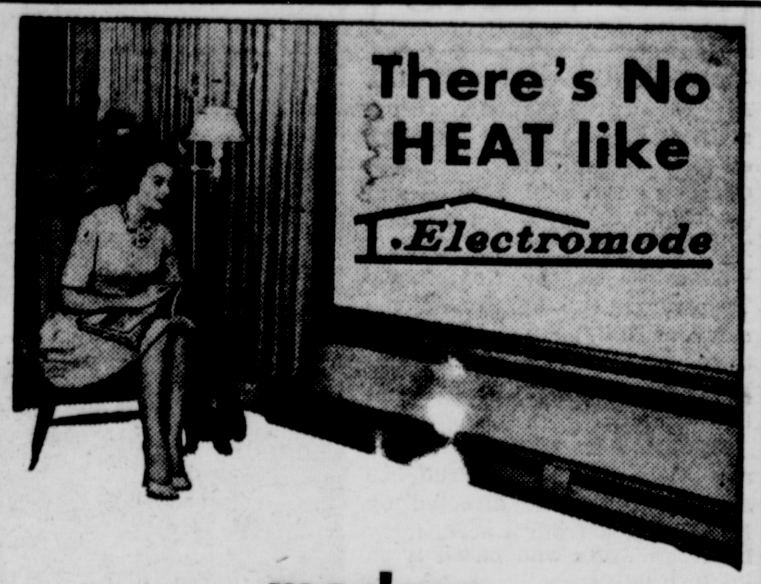

First, in trying to make sure you get your money's worth, the electric heating industry recommends that you pair their quality products with quality insulation. And . . . a well insulated house is a natural barrier against outside cold in winter and also the onslaught of the sun in summer. So. even if you do nothing else toward cooling your house, you're still ahead.

Now! If you also decide on air conditioning, the house that keeps your electric bills down during the heating months, keeps your electric bills down to proper size during the cooling months too. That applies whether the cooling is via room units, or a central system, of the latter, the so-called heat pump automaticaly reverses itself to a cooling operation when the summer temperature exceeds what you like. The electric furnace can also be adapted to include the cooling function.

Question: Why is electric heating just for private homes? If I could get it in an apartment, in my price range, of course, I'd move tomorrow.

Answer: Electrically heated apartments are "get able" right now all over the country. At last reports, there are over a million. Depending on your location, electrically heated apartments can be found in everything from the two-unit house to the country's biggest high riser. If you make inquiries, we're confident you'll find what you want right in your own city, either already built, or a-building.

Two Musicians Slain in Viet

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed four young American jazz musicians and an Army sergeant escort driving near Saigon today on an isolated road.

Two teen-age members of the group—Brandi Perry and the Bubble Machine—were killed when they tried surrendering with their hands in the air. Two others, including 20-year-old singer Paula Levine of North Hollywood, Calif., and a U.S. soldier were wounded.

"I played dead and that's the only reason I'm alive today," the attractive dark-haired Miss Levine said at the U.S. Army's 93rd Evacuation Hospital where she was treated for fragment wounds in the back and legs.

The others wounded were Jack Bone, 18, of Los Angeles, and a 21-year-old soldier escorting the group, who was in serious condition.

Identities of the dead were withheld until their families could be notified.

Stopped by Guards

The musical group had started out late in the day for the Vietnamese coastal resort of Vung Tau, about 45 miles southeast of Saigon, to play for American troops. Halfway to their destination, they were stopped by South Vietnamese militia guards who advised them to turn back.

A few miles along on their return trip, they ran into the ambush. Miss Levine said she crouched on the floor while the men got out, first thinking they were being fired on mistakenly by friendly troops. As they raised their arms in the air, the Viet Cong opened up again.

On the northeast frontier, U.S. Marines charging through heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire killed 78 North Vietnamese troops in a day-long battle Friday, the U.S. Command reported. Four Marines were killed and 42 wounded.

The Marines were sweeping coastal marshlands when they came under enemy fire. American artillery, tanks and dive-bombers joined the counterattack. The North Vietnamese pulled out at dark.

In other fighting in the northern war zone, U.S. troops reported killing 68 enemy soldiers. Three Americans were killed and 22 wounded, U.S. spokesmen said.

In Saigon, the Viet Cong unfurled three National Liberation Front flags, including one just a block from U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker's residence. Two other flags, booby trapped with grenades, were attached to trees in another district. Police said they captured two Viet Cong suspects.

Authorities said the flag incidents were probably intended to taunt the Saigon government by showing the presence of the enemy inside the capital city.

For weeks, Saigon has girded for a third major offensive by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. The attack had been expected late last month or this week, but new intelligence information reaching here Saturday indicated the attack may come before July 20 and possibly on July 15.

"There is going to be an attack before July 20th," the 14th anniversary of the signing of the Geneva accords which divided Vietnam, one source said. He said some informants had pinpointed the target date to July 15.

The enemy may be holding back now, military sources said, because of the recent discovery of large caches of enemy weapons and supplies ouside Saigon.

Find Rockets

U.S. infantrymen have found 55 Red Chinese-made 107mm rockets weighing about 50 pounds—each with a range of five miles—since Thursday in deep tunnels 30 miles northwest of Saigon. Other large weapons caches have been dug up elsewhere in recent days.

Though the timing of the expected enemy invasion remained a matter of speculation, most U.S. officers expressed certainty that the attack would come.

Saigon itself was quiet today. There have been no rocket attacks on the capital since June 21.

Intelligence reports from the province of Long An, just south of the capital, said Viet Cong cadres have been warning residents against selling food to Saigon and telling them to organize demonstrations against recent U.S. bombings outside the capital.

Bombers Fly Missions

U.S. Air Force B52 bombers flew four more missions Friday against enemy base camps, supply and storage facilities and bunkers and 35 miles northwest of Saigon, along a key guerrilla corridor to the capital.

Secretary General Thant of the United Nations made appointments with negotiators in Paris today in an effort to break a deadlock in the North Vietnamese-American Vietnam War talks. Story on page 14.

On the northwest frontier, U.S. Marines completed their withdrawal from the Khe Sanh combat base Friday, harassed to the end by North Vietnamese troops. Five Marines were killed in a skirmish with North Vietnamese troops a little more than a mile from the base that survived a 77-day siege under massive artillery barrages. The siege was lifted by a relief column in April and the decision to abandon the base was announced last week.

A Viet Cong broadcast monitored in Tokyo said more than 1,000 American troops had been "wiped out" and 22 aircraft shot down during the Khe Sanh withdrawal.

Lose Two Warplanes

Air raids on North Vietnam's southern panhandle cost two more U.S. warplanes Friday.

Two Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bombers were reported downed by enemy ground fire as American pilots flew 136 missions against enemy supply lines. The four crewmen were missing.

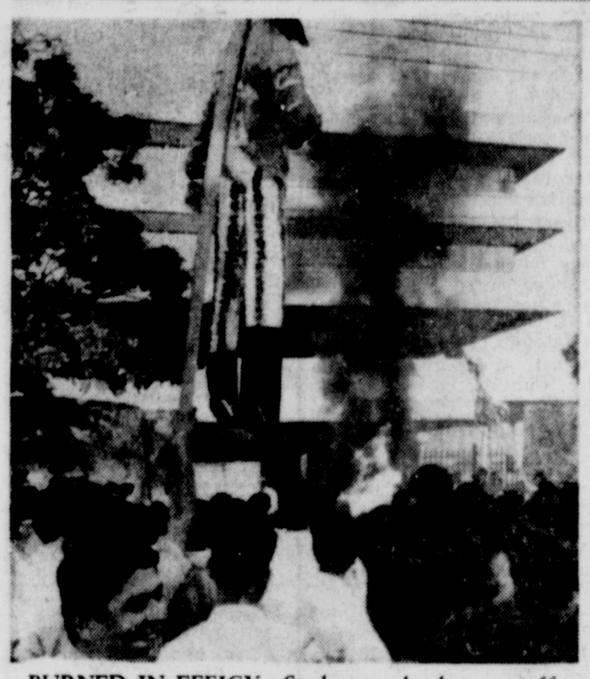

The losses raised to 863 the number of American warplanes announced downed over North Vietnam in the war.

BURNED IN EFFIGY—Student applauds as an effigy of Uncle Sam is burned in front of the U.S. Embassy building (background) in San Salvador on the eve of President Lyndon B. Johnson's visit to Central America. San Salvador was the scene of a number of anti-American demonstrations. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

LBJ Begins Central America Tour

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Johnson told the chief executives of Central America today he wants to know "what more we can do together."

Johnson, on the first leg of a journey that will make him the first U.S. president to visit all five Central American republics in a single trip, said in remarks prepared for his airport arrival at this, the smallest nation:

"I come to San Salvador to learn. I come to find out from my fellow presidents what our nations have achieved toward improving the lives of the people. I come to ask what more can we do together.'

2,000 Demonstrate

From the airport Johnson was to go by motorcade through streets where 2,000 public university students demonstrated Friday night against him and the presidents of El Salvador, Costa Rica, Honduras, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

There were no incidents as the students marched down a main street in front of the U.S. Embassy, but leaders called for a bigger turnout today.

Some of the students carried placards calling Johnson "the murderer of Vietnam" and saying "Get out of Vietnam." Others referred to the summit meeting as "the dragon and five mosquitos."

National Guard troops pledged full security for Johnson's arrival.

By Monday night, Johnson will have visited all five countries comprising the full membership of the seven-year-old Central American Common Market.

In a few years, Johnson said, the five countries have virtually completed the market framework and "have moved beyond the purely economic aspects of integration to produce important social advances."

He pointed to U.S. contributions to the area's selfhelp effort but said "it must always be so" that the Central Americans themselves provide leadership and determination.

Declaring that the goal, as much as anything is a state of mind, he asserted:

"If we all believe societies can and must change, they will.

"If we all believe that men can and must cooperate with each other to insure peace and progress, they will.

"If we all believe that poverty and misery, disease and injustice, can and must be eliminated, they will.

"I come to San Salvador knowing this. But I come to learn how we can hasten the day of progress."

1st Since December

Johnson's trip, his first out of the United States since his worldwide tour last December, followed a heavily latin-flavored July 4th weekend divided between work and relaxation at his ranch and a visit to HemisFair, the world exposition at San Antonio.

Much of the work of the common market meeting, in progress since Tuesday, was already accomplished. Foreign ministers and finance ministers labored through the region's humid rainy season to prepare a conference-ending declaration and other documents for signature by the presidents.

Generally regarded as a success, the regional common market represents a move toward economic integration and self-sufficiency that Johnson would like to see duplicated throughout Latin America, in Africa and Asia. In fact, the major purpose of his trip seemed to be to help dramatize his dedication to such goals.

No Firm Word

There was no firm word on when Johnson would return to Washington, although the White House said the current plan was to fly back immediately following the airport stop in Guatemala. That would mean a portal-to-portal July 4th holiday weekend journey of 5,900 miles. However, there were some rumors, totally unconfirmed, that the chief executive might extend his tour.

Mrs. Johnson and daughter Luci Johnson Nugent were accompanying him.

Johnson spent much of Friday doing homework for his tour. He also took time out for an informal luncheon meeting at the LBJ Ranch, 75 miles north of San Antonio, with President Rene Barrientos of Bolivia. The South American president was in Texas for observance of Bolivian National Day at San Antonio's HemisFair world exposition.

The Johnsons will attend Roman Catholic Church services in San Salvador Sunday, appear before the staff of the U.S. Embassy, join the other presidents and their families for a country-side barbecue and act as hosts to the others at an evening reception.

Visted Mexico

Johnson's last trip south of the border was a brief visit to the Mexican border town of Cuidad Juarez, sister city of El Paso, Tex., last fall. John F. Kennedy was the last presidential visitor to Central America, meeting with the presidents of the five nations plus Panama in Costa Rica early in 1963.

Johnson's last trip out of the country was his worldwide tour in December which took him to Australia, Vietnam and Rome.

By WALTER S. CLARK

Dutchess County authorities swept into action for a second time in a week in a crackdown on narcotics activities in the area and early today apprehended six men and a girl in the vicinity of a Town of Stanford tavern.

The seven were charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs.

One youth also was charged with criminally defacing an American flag, after the raiding party directed by Chief Investigator Charles Borchers of the sheriff's office found him wearing a shirt made from an American flag.

Another youth was booked on a charge of criminal impersonation. He was identified in police records as Bela G. Pinczes, 23, of New York City. He pleaded guilty before a local justice and was fined $25, which he paid.

The mass arrests came one week after the office of Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan in a sweeping series of narcotics raids made 30 arrests in the Pine Plains, Millbrook, Dover Plains and Millerton area. During those raids the owner of Al and Elsie's Tavern on Route 82 in Wingdale, were booked on charges of criminal nuisance and criminal facilitation in the second degree.

Chief Borchers led 10 deputy sheriffs in today's roundup of the group on narcotics charges. The arrests followed an extensive investigation by Sheriff Quinlan and Borchers in conjunction with the office of District Attorney John Heilman Jr.

Andrew L. Demetrion, 19, of 31-37 35th Street, Long Island City, was charged with criminally defacing an American flag. He also was booked for criminal possession of dangerous drugs. Arraigned before Stanford Town Justice Frank Weber, Demetrion was held in $1,000 bail.

Sheriff's sergeant Hugh Brennan identified the others seized in the raids at 12:30 a. m. as:

John Mastory, 16, of 3544 Broadway, New York City; Christine Domaniecki, 19, of 406 Lafayette Street, Newark, N. J.; Chris Papargyriou, 20, of 521 West 189th Street, New York City; Angelo Spiro Tfaganeas, 19, of 169 West 23rd Street, New York City; Chris Mastory, 17, of 3544 Broadway, New York City, and Michael Bobas, 18, of 200 Dykeman Street, New York City.

The defendants were each arraigned before Judge Weber, who committed them to the Dutchess County jail in lieu of $500 bail. Hearings were adjourned until Friday, July 12.

During the investigation, deputy sheriffs arrested three men on charges of public intoxication. It was not immediately reported as to how much narcotics had been confiscated.

Sergeant Brennan said all arrests this morning took place in the vicinity of the Carousel Restaurant on Route 82 in the Town of Stanford.

In the last several months, Sheriff Quinlan and his men have conducted numerous raids in various parts of Dutchess County and arrested scores of persons in connection with possession of dangerous drugs, in most cases marijuana.

A week ago, the owners of Al and Elsie's Tavern in Wingdale were included among the 30 persons taken into custody during the series of narcotics raids. The tavern owners were booked for maintaining a criminal nuisance and criminal facilitation in the second degree. They were booked as Al Paolicci, 55, and Aretha Jackson, 41, of Route 22, Wingdale.

The two defendants were arraigned before Dover Town Justice Daivid Callahan who fixed bail at $1,000 each and adjourned hearings until a later date.

It was reported that Sheriff Quinlan and investigators from his office have uncovered information relating to narcotics traffic in the county and additional arrests are anticipated.

In mid-June the crackdown on drugs in the Hudson Valley, particularly in Dutchess County, was launched with the sheriff and state police combining their forces at times to make raids on suspected places.

Newburgh, Beacon and Monticello police authorities have been actively engaged in a war against narcotics and many arrests have been made. A raid on Mt. Beacon in Southern Dutchess recently resulted in a number of arrests and the seizure of a quantity of drugs.

A raid of sizeable proportion was staged recently by state police in the Highland area. Several raids have taken place in upper Ulster County.

Authorities in all area communities have stepped up their campaign against narcotics, and they have emphasized their determination to continue the activity to slow down the operations of narcotic users and runners. Efforts are being made to uncover the key figures—the pushers—in the field of illegal drug maneuvers.

What in the World!

Postpones Departure

An Egyptian Embassy announcement said Nasser would now stay at least until Tuesday. He toured Moscow in a limousine early today, visiting the tomb of astronaut Yuri Gagarin before arriving at the Kremlin for still more closed conferences.

Plane Search Continues

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Civil Air Patrol, with a "good possible target" to go on, extended its search into a third day today for a plane missing with a New York family of four aboard.

Also aboard were Sleight's wife, Sylvia, and two of their four children, John, 10, and Lynne, 9.

Concern for Heart Man

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Dr. Philip Blaiberg, who has lived more than six months with a transplanted heart, has developed serious lung trouble.

In addition to the lung trouble, Blaiberg is recovering from a hepatitis infection. The hospital said the liver condition was improving.

Paterson Calm Again

PATERSON, N. J. (AP) — Police with shotguns marching 10 abreast broke up a crowd at the scene of a fire without incident and calm returned today to the city's Puerto Rican areas hit by four consecutive nights of disorder.

Officers said there were no arrests at the fire scene but reported that nearly 30 persons had been arrested—mostly on minor charges—in other incidents Friday night and early today.

Indian Professor Summer Associate

Summer associate at Fair Street Reformed Church during July and August will be Ebenezer Mane, a native of India who recently graduated from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N.J., with a bachelor of divinity degree.

Mane will be replacing the pastor, the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, during his absence this summer. He will preach at Sunday services, call at church members homes and visit hospital patients.

Mane is a member of the United Church of Northern India and for 30 years served as professor of English at the University of Nagpur. During that time he was actively involved in church life in India, serving on committees administering the educational, medical, and evangelistic work of the church. He has been elected to the Church Session in Nagpur, the Church Council, and other courts of the United Church and was an active member of the Nagpur YMCA, twice elected its president. Other positions held by Mane include being superintendent of The Nagpur Christian Book Shop, treasurer of the Nagpur Christian Nurses' Welfare Committee, a member of the Judicial Committee of the General Assembly of the United Church of Northern India, superintendent of the Church School.

Mane has been a lay-preacher in Marathi, which is his native language; Hindu, the national language, and English in various denominational backgrounds. His wife, Sarojini, who has received her Masters Degree in education, conducts a nursery-kindergarten school in their home in India. He has three daughters, the oldest of whom teaches in the Presbyterian Women's College in Tokyo, Japan.

Mr. Mane will be residing at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Fugazzotto, Robin Lane, during the summer.

NEWEST FAIR STREETER—The Rev. Edwin C. Coon, left, pastor of Fair Street Reformed Church, greets the newest member of the church staff, Ebenezer Mane, right, who will be serving the church during July and August as summer associate. Also on hand to welcome Mane are Percy W. Gazlay II, minister of music and Mrs. Helen Ling, church organist. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Olive Baptists Conclude VBS

The Olive-Shokan Baptist Church of West Shokan held its annual Vacation Bible School commencement last week.

The ceremonies included programs by each of the four departments of the school. The beginner department, under the direction of Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. Charles Harrison, and Miss JoAnn Girodano, dramatized the conversion of the Phillipian Jailer. The primary department, under the direction of Mrs. Curtis Eberhardt Jr., and Miss Peggy North, dramatized the stoning of Stephan. The junior department, directed by Harvey Every and Miss Gail Nichols, dramatized the conversion of the Ethiopian Eunuch and the junior high department, under the supervision of Miss Jennie Kerr and Miss Diana North presented Esther is Made Queen.

After the program, the parents and friends visited the basement display of workbooks and handcraft projects. Refreshments were provided.

REV. WILLIS ARTHUR JONES

New Pastor Is Installed

Recently installed as minister of the Reformed Church of Rhinebeck was the Rev. Willis Arthur Jones.

A native of Arkansas, the Rev. Mr. Jones is a graduate of Arkansas College of Batesville and the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Austin, Tex. He and his wife Patricia with two children recently returned from Scotland where the Rev. Mr. Jones was a minister of the Church of Scotland, Erksine Parish, Dunfermline.

Presiding minister for the installation was the Rev. Richard E. Lake, president of the Classis of the Mid Hudson and pastor of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church of Bloomington.

The main address was given by the Rev. John F. Jansen, ThD, professor of the New Testament at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

The Reverend Classis of Mid Hudson and the Rhinebeck Ministerial Association took part.

Fair Street To Continue Church School

The Fair Street Reformed Church, through its Christian Education Commission, and the willingness of its teachers, have decided to continue its church school throughout the summer months, from kindergarten through third grade only. There is always a creche for smaller children, whose parents attend worship. Melvin Lafferty, church school superintendent, is directing the summer program of regular weekly sessions of instructions to the children.

Youngsters may join their families at the worship service at 9:30, which will be held every Sunday from July 7, through Sept. 1. During the singing of the prayer hymn the children will be excused for church school which will last until approximately 10:30.

It is through the use of volunteer teachers and substitutes that the Fair Street Church is able to have their church school in session, the year round.

IAN O. REID

Overlook Guest Speaks Sunday

Overlook United Methodist Church of Woodstock will have as its guest speaker on July 7 at 10 a.m. Ian O. Reid, who has chosen the topic, The Road Between.

Reid, a native of Scotland, is the son of the Rev. J. F. Reid, who has been transferred from the Tannersville Methodist Church to the West Hurley, Glenford, and Ashokan Churches. He is a recent graduate of Union College in Kentucky and plans to continue his studies at Boston University School of Theology, in preparation for a career as an Air Force Chaplain.

Cellar Club Starts Summer With New Face

The popular teen spot at the Kingston YWCA has just undergone a facelifting and is sporting bright new drapes, spanking fresh paint and a new ceiling in the "pool" room.

The Cellar Club board directed the operation with members lending a hand with paint brushes and sewing machine. New flower power drapes were fashioned by two of the girls for both rooms used by the club.

The new look was just in time for the summer opening last night. Dancing and social evenings will continue each Friday at the cellar club through Aug 16. After a two week recess the fall schedule will be resumed Sept. 6 at which time new memberships for the school year will be required.

On Friday nights Cellar Club Members dance to the music of the juke box, play pool, table tennis, chess, cards and other games. Coke and candy machines are available.

Adult chaperones are on hand at each session but most of the yeoman chores such as arrangements and admissions are handled by the high school students who are board members.

The Cellar Club, a part of the local scene for about 10 years, grew out of a recreation center need expressed by the high schoolers and carried out by interested adults.

The year round program attracts sometimes as many as 200 teenage boys and girls on a Friday evening. Summer attendance, cut into some what by vacations, varies from 75 to 100 teens.

Social sessions at the Cellar Club are from 8 to 11 p.m. each Friday.

Come on Down.

Teen Scene: On Forming a Good Hobbit

Ralph, Melinda and Nick

LEI

They said that the Hobbit's Whole, Kingston's young coffee house would never open, or that nobody would go. Now the cynics say it will never again be as groovey as on opening night. It seems though, with a little help from its friends, that it will constantly improve as the rough spots wear off.

The first impression, with the grey metal chairs, bedspread backdrop, and cold florescent lights seemed more like a jail dining room, than the traditional espresso, with checked tableclothes and Tiffany glass lightshades. But no institution ever boasted such eye-catching murals, or such excited, expectant young people, in eye-catching outfits, sitting at, or moving among, the tables. One became completely convinced when the charming, professional, persistant young waiter brought the menu. This was a coffee house, all right. At 15 cents for a cup of java, it sure wasn't the corner diner!

Then the floorshow began, and with the glaring overhead light off, the colored stage lights turned the performer's glossy guitars into music-making rainbows. The Kinsmen from UCCC performed first. Ingratiating Nick and more withdrawn Gene did their 15 numbers very well, although their style borrowed freely from the Kingston Trio and the Smothers Brothers.

Unfortunately, during the last third of their act, they were forced to outshout the audience, which seemed more interested in their own conversation than in the lively folk songs. And our attention kept wandering to where one was supposed to grind out ciggies—on the floor, the table, or were you supposed to bring your own—ashtray, that is? And was the ingenious stage-backdrop fireproofed before it was tacked up. . . .

The mood changed when the second act, the Humble Sponge, presented by All That The Name Implies, Woodstock's flash group, appeared in a blast of accidental feedback. The audience grew quiet in order to hear the thought provoking introductions and the melodious message-songs sung by the group which stirred memories of long-forgotten fairy tales. Ray Jimenez reminded one of the sturdy woodcutters of those stories as he sang and played the drums. And beautiful Melinda Parkes with her incredible hair was the princess in the enchanted castle. . . . And Nick Feva? From one second to the other he changed from the fire-breathing dragon, to the minstrel in the king's court, to the gnome who lived in the mushroom—or Leif Ericson, or Robin Hood. . . .

The group's music was fulsome, and their voices harmonized so well it was hard to pick out the individual voices for comment. However, Nick Feva did several near-solos, and his voice was amazingly powerful, even in the more delicate songs. He also handled his long guitar solo with admirable inventiveness. We were pleased that as the spell wore off and the audience once again started making more decibles than the singers, that didn't raise his voice in an attempt to drown out the babble. The Humble Sponge take pleasure in their own singing. If nobody else listens, that's their tough luck. And it really is, too.

Then it was over. Out in the cool, damp air, we started to empty the cigarette ashes out of our pockets and found we had our coat on inside out. It was the spell of Middle Earth and Nick and the Other Nick and murals and rainbows and Melinda, and guru jackets and . . . . .

It will be a tough act to follow.

Paltzers Host Foreign Guests

April "pipe dreams" became a reality for 10 days in New Paltz recently as 15 students from Puerto Rico were guests of the High School Anthropology Class there.

The local anthropology class visited Puerto Rico during Easter recess this year, becoming acquainted with the students at that time.

Families who assisted the fair play turnabout by hosting one or more of the visitors were:

Mrs. Margaret H. Casson, Mrs. Adelaide Crews, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Glanz, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Hasbrouck, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McSweeney, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tantillo, Mr. and Mrs. John Tenaglia, Mr. and Mrs. William Weston, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whitaker and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Winkky.

The group hardly had a minute to themselves as Albert A. J. Fiore, anthrolology teacher, and New Paltz High School graduates, led them through the rounds of parties, tours and get acquainted fun in the community.

Mid-Hudson Valley tours included visits to the State University College and historic Huguenot Street in New Paltz; Roosevelt mansion and library at Hyde Park and the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Toward the end of their stay the guests prepared Peurto Rican dishes for their hosts. A farewell dinner was held at the Villa Nueva the night before their departure.

Several trips were made to New York City where students toured the Empire State Building, Statue of Liberty, United Nations, Radio City, and Chinatown. Capitol buildings at Albany were included in a day trip also.

All of the Puerto Rican guests expressed sincere thanks and appreciation for the many courtesies shown them by members of the community. Most said goodbyes with tears in their eyes.

The New Paltz class has twice traveled to Puerto Rico during Easter vacation after raising funds for the trip through various class projects. On each occasion they were warmly received and royally treated. The June return visit was a partial repayment of the hospitality.

Synagogue Teen Officers Elected

Advisors for the group have been Mrs. Sidney Rafalowsky and Mrs. Allen Bush with Rabbi Schectman as spiritual advisor. Mrs. Rafalowsky who is terminating her activity with the group was feted with a farewell token at the party. The new advisor, Mrs. Charles Slutzky was introduced and given an ovation.

Summer Fun Is Part of YM Program

The Youth Department of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County kicked off its summer In-City Youth Program this past week with emphasis on swimming instructions.

The youngsters that came to the YMCA enjoyed playing softball on the YMCA ballfield, when the weather permitted. During the rainy days the youngsters were not hampered from having fun. They enjoyed playing games such at kickball and relay races in the YMCA gymnasium.

In addition to the sports events each youngster had a special time for swimming instruction. The YMCA follows the National YMCA Aquatic Program. The youngsters have to perform specific skills in order to advance into a higher skill class.

Along with the regular program the Youth Department ran a special "Learn-to-Swim" Program for non-members. The Program ran from Monday through Friday with over 100 youngsters participating in the special program. Roger Edwards, a youth worker, assisted the Youth Director with this special "Learn-to-Swim" Program.

The special event for this week was a trip to Baird State Park Wednesday for boys and girls in the third through ninth grades.

Parents interested in enrolling their son or daughter may do so at the main desk in the lobby of the YMCA at 507 Broadway.

Take a longer look at Junior's mud pies next time. There may be a dash of talent blended in that dirt and water delicacy.

Age is no impediment in art. That is the finding in a unique sculpture workshop for tots and teens conducted by Mrs. Jean Carlson, an instructor in the Orange County Community College extension program, under the federally-funded Talented Arts Program.

Each Saturday morning for 15 weeks, eleven boys and girls between five and 14 years old gather in Mrs. Carlson's Cornwall studio to experiment and innovate with clay. Out of these part-formal, part creative class sessions came work in clay and plaster that would be a source of pride to sculptors many times the youngsters' ages.

Out of the classes, too, came strong indications of ability, whether it be wide-eyed fish fashioned by the uncertain fingers of a seven-year-old or a detailed model of a human head labored over carefully by an imaginative teenager.

"Nearly all of the group, if they want to go on, have a future in sculpture," Mrs. Carlson points out.

The Saturday sessions weren't handled in the usual classroom manner., "We left it up to each youngster whether he wanted to do all creative things or have some training," she said. "After the first couple of weeks, they all wanted training."

The training was more direction than training. "I tried to provide a working guide, rather than superimpose my opinions over theirs," Mrs. Carlson explained. "When students asked for my evaluation, I got them to tell me how the piece could be made more effective," she said.

Alpine Adventure for Local Youth

He will be one of seven teenagers participating in a camper exchange to Europe under an exciting YMCA program sponsored by the Ulster County YMCA through cooperation wtih the Frost Valley YMCA Center.

The snow-capped Alpine peaks of Germany, France, Switzerland and Austria will be the backdrop for the unique tour and camp experience.

Feil, son of Mrs. Joan Feil of Port Ewen, is a sophomore at Kingston High School and a youth member of the local YMCA. The 16-year-old is a member of the Port Ewen Methodist MYF and is a carrier boy for the Kingston Freeman.

The YMCA Camper Exchange Group will undergo orientation at Camp Wawayanda for a week before leaving Kennedy Airport July 13 for Frankfort, Germany.

They will tour Frankfort, Hanover and Berlin, including East Berlin prior to getting down to camping stay July 20 through 26. For seven days they will be at YMCA Camp Cadet Romand, Switzerland, and will share their experiences with their own age.

Home stays at Geneva and Bern, Switzerland and Chamonix, France, will serve as an interlude before another seven-day camp sojourn at Swiss YMCA Camp Vaumarcus.

Tours of Innsbruck in Austria and Stuttgart, Germany, will round out the itinerary. Return is slated from Frankfort Aug. 16.

The completely pre-arranged trip will involve 126 teenage boys and girls from YMCA camps from all over the United States on one chartered flight.

From Frankfurt, the various exchange groups will go their separate way to such points as Sweden, Japan, England, France, Italy, Greece, Finland and Denmark. Each group will spend approximately two weeks in a foreign YMCA camp and will have home stays and sightseeing in their principal country of visitation. All will meet at Frankfort, Aug. 15, for the trip home.

We envy Bradley, his Alpine adventure.

Policing Spending

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, led the opposition to President Johnson's tax surcharge proposal, which forced the President into accepting a $6 billion spending cut in return for the tax surcharge. It was a long and tough battle between two very determined men, who knew how to play the game of Congressional politics.

From that struggle, Mills gathered some new knowledge. One is that government agencies cannot objectively police their own budget requests. Each sees only his own desire to do all he can with the responsibility entrusted to him, and that almost always means more and bigger requests for more and bigger departmental budgets.

The Budget Bureau, which reviews all budget requests for the President, cannot cut deeply enough because it is part of the Administration and it is committed to the philosophy and policy the President lays down. As an arm of the executive branch, the budget bureau makes the best possible argument for the spending desired.

Nor is the comptroller general in a position to influence the size of the budget. Responsible to the Congress, his job comes after the spending, to determine that the money was well spent. His influence on spending is comparatively minimal.

Mills therefore has come out for a nongovernment bipartisan commission "drawn from the top ranks of American leadership outside government" to keep watch on federal spending and cut expenditures down to the high priorities. He has introduced a bill to create such a body.

Few people would quarrel with Mills' objective. But it is doubtful that any Administration would in effect surrender its right and its duty to set the priorities and to fix budgets to carry them out. These are essentially political. No matter how good the purpose, decisions rightfully and Constitutionally allotted to the President and Congress cannot be left to any body whose judgment is not subject to the disposition of the voters in the last analysis.

Searching Questions

"When peace comes, can we not refreshen our tribal minds enough to say that if $30 billion can be used to fight a war, the enemies of all human tranquality here at home — ugliness, filth, rats, slums, wretched schools, unemployment, despair—demand no less a scale of action?"

The question was put by Barbara Ward, the British author and economist, who put the growth of the American economy at the rate of $50 billion a year. She asked, "Shouldn't half of that new wealth be devoted not to the increase in private affluence but to reversing the tend to public squalor?"

National income is resulting in an "upward drift" in tax collections amounting to between $12 billion and $15 billion a year, Miss Ward pointed out. She suggested that the present level of taxation be maintained, and asked, "Is it asking much of responsible citizens to stay with present taxation, for, say, 10 years, and use the increment to wipe out the ghettos?"

It was a series of questions that went to the heart of the post-war problem. For Miss Ward suggested that $100 billion will be needed to house the next 100 million Americans, "Whether we sprawl from Boston to Washington or we build better cities."

The problem is not to pay ghetto residents guilt money, as some have urged, but to use enough money to provide decent homes for all Americans.

The New Majority

Youth organizations have become vital parts of the political campaign for President, and with good reason. What started out to be a peculiar appendage to the efforts of Senator Eugene J. McCarthy and Senator Robert F. Kennedy, the youngsters who accounted in large part for their stunning primary victories, have their opposite numbers among the campaigners for all the remaining Presidential candidates now.

The reason is revealed in the name taken by the Rockefeller youth organization—The New Majority. It takes its name from the fact that half the population of the United States today is under 27. It appeals for votes from this half, of whom of course only one-fifth are old enough to vote. They make up in energy and enthusiasm for their lack in numbers.

As a matter of fact, oldsters 65 and over are as numerous as the 21 to 27 voters. And no candidate dares overlook them, for they are sophisticated voters. Their judgment comes from long experience of the ballot. For that matter, the middle aged outnumber both the youths and the oldsters of voting age and they also must be won.

The election will be decided by a candidate's appeal to all Americans, not to those of any single age bracket.

Could Be a Permanent Structure

Henry J. Taylor Says

Results of Mismanagement

When your taxes go up on July 14 remember why. The incredible billions on billions that official failures, boobland decisions, bad judgment and cover-ups are costing us is the largest single reason.

What happened to President Johnson's proclaimed "$100 billion budget"? This was his big promise three years ago.

What happened to his promise of 1964: "We don't want our American boys to do the fighting . . . and get tied down in a land war in Asia." That promise, since then, has cost us taxpaying peasants around $70 billion.

In fact, what happened to the Vietnam war? In 1964 heavy Communist units stood 15 miles from Saigon. They are still there.

On October 6, 1966, the Vietnam war became the third largest war we ever fought. On June 22, it became the longest. And Saigon itself, the innumerable "We're doing fine" statements notwithstanding, is under siege. It's not even as secure is it was in 1963. The Viet Cong are able to use as a command post the same Catholic church in which the late President Ngo Dinh Diem sought sanctuary after his government fell in 1963.

Now we are to see the Great Society making peace. Well, President Johnson first offered terms that were all-but surrender to the North Vietnamese as long ago as his Baltimore speech of April, 1965. Ho Chi Minh has refused an estimated 1,000 or more "peace feelers"—39 officially listed as major by our own State Department.

The reason is contained in the truism that our country cannot win at the conference table what we fail to win on the battlefield.

A war, and of all things a mismanaged war, finally comes down to the dead and wounded. We face the cruel prospect of suffering 122,000 casualties and ending up absolutely nowhere. The tax increase is the least of the horrible results.

What happened to the War on Poverty? It has now bureaucratized itself to include 150 Washington bureaus and 170 separate aid programs. Yet, we're told "something" must be done. With the War on Poverty a local and national shambles, the Social Security and welfare programs loaded with graft, waste and abuse, how long can this prostitution of our wealth continue without wrecking every decent concept of our democratic system?

The last Congress before the New Frontier-Great Society took over appropriated a total of $83.8 billion. Mr. Johnson's budget is $186 billion. He has fought any reduction. And, folks, the famous cut is less than one per cent. No wonder government bonds are at the lowest level in 46 years, which is frightening enough of itself, and the average interest rates you are paying are the highest since the Civil War.

What happened to our debt? The New Frontier-Great Society inherited a Federal debt of $283 billion. Breaking every promise previously made, Mr. Johnson now saddles us with a $342 billion debt. Its annual interest cost is $14.1 billion. And he has run up through March a $28.1 billion deficit this fiscal year, again financed by money we haven't got.

What happened to our gold? Fort Knox is gone with the wind. The New Frontier-Great Society inherited a gold reserve of $21 billion. On July 1 we had only $10.4 billion left, and $1 billion of that is mortgaged to the International Monetary Fund. Meanwhile, the Administration was self-driven to remove any gold backing from our currency entirely.

All—every bit—of this financial irresponsibility comes out of our own hides. The resulting inflation has put our cost of living to another new all-time high. It has turned our dollars into dollarettes. The effect on people's savings, insurance, annuities, pensions and every kind of nest-egg security is all but criminal. The tax bill is peanuts compared to the cost to all of us of the inflation.

What happened to the promised labor peace and national tranquility? Work stoppages have broken all records in the past 12 months and city burnings and riots have waved the black flag of anarchy over the skylines of more than 100 American cities.

It is impossible to rewrite the record. And no amount of talk, no amount of double-talk, no amount of anything said by anybody can make it any different.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Our dog Rocky is about to be retired. He has arthritis and cataracts. At the age of 12, he's an old man. He looks like a formidable German shepherd, big and gentle with black pointed ears and gold legs. But he no longer barks when polite burglars knock on the door. Rocky waits until they get inside.Then he silently points to the fake jewelry.

I get away with this because he never learned to read. He frittered his time away on girl friends who flattered him because he has hair on his chest. The last one was a saluki down the block. She was as skinny as Twiggy. On moonlit nights, he used t hop a fence to see her, carrying a bouquet of bones. Now he expects her to dig a hole under the fence.

His real name was Rock of Shrewsbury and he came to our house when he was five weeks old. He was a dark ball of silky fur and pointed milk teeth. Both ends of the pup were as busy as the Lincoln Tunnel.

From his mother, he inherited a trait called confidence. He never bit anyone, even another dog. A boxer charged at him one day and Rocky stood waiting. When the dog approached, fangs bared, Rocky took his big paw and slammed the dog hard on the shoulders. No problem. When strangers stepped into our center hall, Rocky froze them with a hard look.

There has been a dog around our house since I was nine. My mother didn't like them and always gave me the painful choice: "Either he's going or I'm going." Many of the animals were careless about their parents and grew up with one black eye and one white; one ear up, one down; a body that started in one direction, but ended on a bias.

Brownie was a mutt. He was the first. I was riding home on a bicycle and he kept barking at the front tire. He was a brown and white nothing. He smelled fine until I bathed him in the tub. Then he smelled like two miles of diapers. I used to hide him in a coal bin when I went to school. My mother found out and called the ASPCA.

When I came home at three o'clock, I called, but there was no answer. When she told me the news, I broke. Tears are for girls, but I couldn't help it. I ran from the house and hopped on the tailgate of a truck, still crying. When I got to the Animal Shelter, the man said: "Brown and white? About this high? We just put him in the gas chamber, son."

I vowed that there would never be another dog in my life. When I grew up and became rich, I was going to build a monument to Brownie. He had big wet trusting eyes and I had betrayed him. In a month, I had another dog and I felt like a criminal.

The funniest dog I ever had was Duke of Amherst. He was a Springer Spaniel, given to me by a band leader. Duke was liver and white, the only alcoholic dog I ever met. He drank gin, rye, scotch—anything better than 83 proof. If we refused to give it to him, he hung out at a neighborhood saloon, waiting for a sucker to come in.

Duke was supposed to be a full-blooded hunting dog. He got so drunk he fell off his kitchen chair. Once, I took him for a romp in the woods and fired a rifle. The nut tried to climb a tree. When he was loaded, he would romp into the house, missing the open doorway by six inches.

Sixtus was a St. Bernard. He was a 100-pound pup. In the snow, he stuck out his tongue to kiss Gayle, who was two, and knocked her flat on her back. Scamper was almost a boxer. He used to enjoy sitting in the window with my mother-in-law, spying on the neighbors. Mike was a black Labrador. He never barked. One day he saw me spanking one of the kids. He barked once and a statue of St. Joseph fell off the wall.

Rocky, as I have said before, is the only male I ever saw who bathed his own babies. There were eight dripdry pups and, when he completed his day's work, he had a tired tongue. They too are growing old in various parts of the United States.

He will be retired, but he will continue to live with us. Rocky sleeps much of the time. When he gets to his feet, he does it in sections. Once he was Gayle's dog. Then he was mine. Now he belongs to Kelly and follows her around the house like a worried old man.

Number One daughter, Virginia Lee, is giving us a German shepherd pup. He will live with us in our Chinese house and, at dinner time, will get two choices from Column A and one from Column B, like the rest of the family.

My wife insisted on naming the dog. You won't believe it. Are you ready? Charlie Chan...

Drew Pearson Says

Godfather of Student Revolt Is Prof. Marcuse of California

WASHINGTON — The godfather of the student revolt now sweeping campuses all over the world is Prof. Herbert Marcuse of the University of California, San Diego campus. Marcuse is a German-born refugee from Hitler who disavows Karl Marx and teaches that revolution must come from young people. Both communism and capitalism, he preaches, are dead.

The influence which Prof. Marcuse has over the student world is illustrated by what happened at Brandeis University outside Boston when Axel Springer, the German publisher, donated $250,000 to found a chair to be known as the "Ottilie Springer Professorship," in honor of his wife.

Brandeis is the leading Jewish university in the United States and Springer has been a great champion of Israel. Despite this, the student body and faculty voted to ignore the man who put up the quarter million dollars, and named the chair for Herbert Marcuse instead.

There was great irony in this vote. For few men in Germany have worked harder to atone for Hitler's crimes against the Jews than Springer. His far-flung newspapers have followed a vigorous pro-Israel policy, and he has made various gifts to Israel including one which founded Jerusalem's famous museum. Springer even laid the cornerstone for the museum. Yet the students of a Jewish university proposed ignoring his $250,000 gift in favor of Prof. Marcuse.

Who Is Marcuse?

What is the background of this leader of the current student revolt and why is he so influential? He is damned just as much in Moscow as in West Germany. In the latter, Chancellor Keisinger blames him for the student "nilhilistic" revolt. In the Kremlin he is accused of trying to substitute Mao Tse-tun and Che Guevara for Marx and Lenin.

His latest maneuver is to propose that Red Rudi Dutschke, the Berlin student shot by Josef Backmann, a house painter who admires Hitler, be admitted to the United States in order to demonstrate "American tolerance and academic freedom," in the same manner that the British temporarily admitted Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the French-German student who helped incite the paralyzing riots in France. It was Cohn-Bendit, incidentally who is given credit for causing such a backlash in France that President de Gaulle was overwhelmingly reelected.

In the United States some observers predict that the backlash against the student strikes at Columbia, Berkeley and elsewhere will materially strengthen ex-Gov. George Wallace and throw the November election into the House of Representatives.

Prof. Marcuse visited Paris this spring at the invitation of UNESCO, to deliver the feature address at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Karl Marx. While there, he went to Berlin where he called on Rudi Dutschke, still in the hospital, and reported that Dutschke was able to talk politics, but couldn't remember such words as table and chair.

It's ironic that Marcuse was invited to deliver the feature address in memory of Karl Marx, since his student proteges now denounce "communism as bourgeous" and since he has been excoriated by Pravda for preaching that Marxism is out of date.

For instance, the East German government, wanting to embarrass West Germany, invited the West German students, followers of Red Rudi and Prof. Marcuse, to travel through East Germany, supplying them with special railroad cars. The invitation boomeranged. The West German students flaunted banners taunting the East German government with following outmoded communism.

It is sometimes said of Marcuse that the students who follow him haven't the slightest idea what he means. Personally he is charming, even lovable. He is very proper, quite ordinary in his habits, is sometimes described as being as homey as an old shoe.

His student followers say that basically he advocates change for the sake of change. He believes that in the present day society the elements of change have been subverted by the Establishment, both the capitalist Establishment and the communist Establishment. Youth has to keep blasting away at the Establishment, Marcuse theorizes and this was one reason the students at Columbia revolted even after their original issue of the Vietnam war was killed by the Paris truce talks.

The world must have constant revolution, constant change, says the California professor who attracted so many student followers in universities around the world. This is the creed that brings editorials of anguished indignation from Moscow.

Rockefeller-McCarthy ticket? — Even if Gov. Rockefeller and Sen. Eugene McCarthy organize a third-party ticket, Sen. WASHINGTON (NEA)— The word from inside Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's camps is that in the summer weeks just ahead he will be swinging harder and harder at Richard Nixon in a desperation effort to overtake him.

Rockefeller's street rally speech in Chicago on Vietnam was so strong in accusing Nixon of hard-line war advocacy that it seemed reminescent of his 1964 campaign assaults on Barry Goldwater. More of the same is in prospect.

On top of this, the governor intends to try again and again to suggest that much of Nixon's overwhelming southern delegate support—which represents well over a third of his indicated convention vote potential—has a white racist orientation.

He gained an opening on this score, of course, when former Georgia Congressman Howard (Bo) Callaway, Nixon's southern regional co-ordinator, said that Alabama's George Wallace was the sort of man who belongs in the Republican party.

If these two criticisms of Nixon are hammered as steadily as is presently planned, the net of it will be to suggest loudly not only to Republicans but to the whole electorate that the former vice-president's feet are planted in concrete on the two most perplexing issues of the day — war and racial strife.

For Rockefeller there is a painful irony in resort to this strategy of open attack upon Nixon. Not the least of the wounds he bears from his unsuccessful presidential bid in 1964 are those inflicted by the common charge of conservative Republicans that he was a "party-wrecker" who supplied the Democrats with much of their fall campaign ammunition against Goldwater.

Talks with Rockefeller's aides in the months before he entered the 1968 race indicated that the "wrecker" charge was one they surely never wanted to hear again. When he and they spoke of his possible candidacy as "divisive," they had this old complaint very much in mind.

Yet they have now chosen to hit out at Nixon with nearly the same force that was delivered against Goldwater in the critical primaries of 1964.

That Rockefeller's campaign has taken this militant turn is a measure of its considerable failure to date.

No compelling evidence exists that his direct appeals to convention delegates, however plausible and impressive they may be, are moving significant numbers of Nixon-leaners into his own smaller delegate column.

Off the evidence of his recent face-the-people efforts in such cities as Chicago and Cleveland, it has to be said that Rockefeller is not building any big bonfires to scorch the backsides of delegates who are soft for Nixon but still clinging to him.

His Kennedy-type hold on Negroes, Puerto Ricans and some other minorities may be real enough, but not even the most urgent exertions of his highly professional cadres are managing to produce the huge crowds he needs.

His situation might be even worse were it not for the fact that here and there his crowd totals are being overstated, and television compounds the error by showing film clips that portray him as absolutely engulfed by happy supporters.

A truer gauge of his distant position behind Nixon can be had from the fact that Rockefeller managers are almost openly soliciting counsel from any quarter whatsoever on what to do to catch up. That they have gone back to the hard assaults of 1964 as at least a partial answer is strong testimony that imaginative new approaches are sadly lacking as time begins to run out for the governor.

Dirksen Denies Deal

By TOM LITTLEWOOD
Chicago Sun-Times Special

WASHINGTON — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), the Senate's minority leader, chortled with satisfaction that Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark has been forced to refer some business to the National Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB).

The Justice Department had intended to let the board die of inactivity. Congress renewed the agency's lease on condition that it be discontinued at the end of this year if it had not investigated a single complaint. No cases were in the works, and the attorney general contemplated none.

President Johnson's order to Clark is believed to be part of Dirksen's price for supporting the president's nomination of Abe Fortas for promotion to Chief Justice.

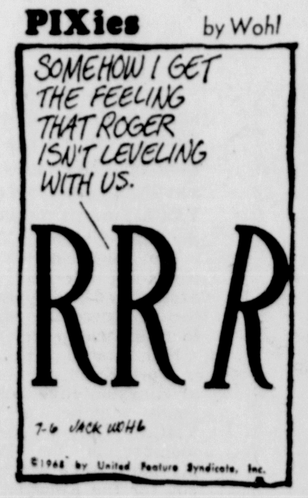

There also has been speculation that Clark was pacified by the expectation that he would be named to take the appellate judgeship vacated by Homer Thornberry. Thornberry was nominated for the associate justice sea that Fortas now holds on the Supreme Court.

Dirksen denied any knowledge of arrangements so complicated. He accepted credit for the SACB development, but said it was merely a matter of "mowing Ramsey Clark down."

"Why I've been mowing down Ramsey Clark for I don't know how long," he added. "It would have been an affront to my pride to take a licking on this. I brought it up everytime I went to the White House. I would not take this lying down. Thus endeth the first lesson."

Two members of the board who have been drawing $26,000 a year waiting for something to do are regarded as Dirksen's patronage. A third is the husband of a former secretary at the White House.

THE LAST AMERICAN

by Don Oakley and John Lane

3 "Twenty Negars"

For Sale: Several Irish Maid Servants, most of them for Five Years. One Irish Man Servant . . . Also Four or Five Likely Negro Boys.

—Colonial Advertisement

The story of the Negro in United States history began in Jamestown, Va., in 1619, when an unnamed Dutch man of war unloaded a cargo of "20 negars" hijacked from a Spanish ship bound for the West Indies.

It is significant that for some 40 years after this, Negroes, numbering a few hundred among a population of a few thousand, were as free, or as unfree, as their fellow whites in the Southern colonies. Most of the latter were indentured—serving out a period of time as servants or laborers in exchange for their passage to America or as punishment for crimes committed in England. For example, 270 Scottish rebels against the Crown were transported and sold in Boston in 1652.

There was no official discrimination, no racial bars to landowning or voting. Negroes owned other Negroes. At least one is recorded as having imported a white servant. Common Negroes worked together with common whites. Intermarriage was frequent, often encouraged by their masters.

The racial situation at this juncture was fluid, notes Lerone Bennett Jr. It contained the seeds of several alternatives. Indentured servitude could have continued for Negroes and whites or both groups could have been reduced to slavery. In the end, socio-economic forces selected Negro slavery.

Negroes were strong, cheap, highly visible, unprotected by strong governments and non-Christian—an ideal source of labor for the plantation system, which was coming into being to meet the growing world demand for rice and tobacco, and later cotton and sugar.

The trend to slavery was soon buttressed by law. Oddly enough, it was a Northern colony, Massachusetts, that first gave slavery legal sanction—in 1641.

"I doe not see how wee can thrive untill wee gett into a stock of slaves sufficient to doe all our busines, for our children's children will hardly see this great continent filled with people," wrote the brother-in-law of Gov. John Winthrop.

A host of laws against miscegenation and intermarriage were also enacted. In 1667, Virginia was the first to rule that Christian baptism did not alter the status of a slave.

An intricate social and legal—and psychological—structure designed to make the Negro a separate and inferior being, and keep him and his children slaves for life, was being erected.

Area Fatalities In Greene, Dutchess

Americans were dying at a rate of one an hour below last year's record-setting traffic fatality as the long Fourth of July holiday weekend moved past the halfway mark, according to the United Press International.

Dutchess County early today recorded its third highway death since the death toll count began at 6 p. m. on Wednesday. Greene County authorities reported a New Jersey woman died Friday night of injuries sustained in a motor vehicle mishap at Catskill.

The National Safety Council, although buoyed by his year's comparatively low figure in the nation, warned: "Of course, optimism has to be tempered with a healthy dose of caution." Last year's rate when 732 persons died in the nation's worst holiday period, was 6.25 per hour. At the halfway point this year, the rate was 5.05 per hour, foreshadowing a total by the midnight Sunday end of the hoiday period well below the predicted toll of 700 to 800.

At 3 a. m. EDT today a UPI count showed 276 persons had been killed in traffic accidents since the start of the Fourth of July period. Traffic accidents in New York State had claimed the lives of 18 persons.

Fishkill state police investigated a fatal accident which occurred at 3:35 a. m. today on Route 376 near the Town of East Fishkill community of Hopewell Junction. Killed in the accident was Donald Herman, 42, of the Taconic Motor Lodge in Hopewell. Troopers said Herman was driving his car south when it skidded across the double line on the pavement, veered off the highway and crashed broadside into a large tree.

Dead at Scene

Troopers reported Herman was pronounced dead at the scene. Assistant Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Michael Badeen gave a verdict of accidental death. He said Herman suffered a broken neck, fractured spine, crushed chest and other injuries.

A New York City couple died of injuries on Thursday after their car went out of control on the Taconic Parkway north of Route 44 in the Town of Pleasant Valley and crashed into a tree. The dead were indentified as Leo Lilienfeld, 67, of 523 East 14th Street, and his wife, Sara, 68. She was driving the car at the time of the mishap.

Leeds State Police reported that Mrs. Etta Meola, 62, of East Rutherford, N. J. died last night at the Greene County Memorial Hospital in Catskill, of injuries suffered in an automobile accident on Thursday on the Thruway in the Town of Catskill. Troopers said the car operated by Louis Meola, 52, was traveling south on the superhighway when it went out of control, careened off the shoulder and slammed into a rock cut.

Critical Condition

Meola was taken to the hospital in Catskill and later transferred to Albany Medical Center Hospital where his condition was listed as critical.

Two persons were injured at 10:15 p. m. Friday as the result of a traffic mishap on Route 81 in the Town of Durham, Greene County, according to Leeds State Police. Thomas S. Briggs, 21, of Potter Hollow, was driving along the highway when a vehicle operated by Eugene Cleveland, 29, of Acre, made a right turn to enter a private driveway.

The two vehicles collided and the Briggs car slid 115 feet after the brakes wer applied, according to Trooper R. G. Sprague. The impact pushed the Cleveland car into a parked vehicle owned by Richard T. Cleveland of East Durham, and that car was moved until it hit the door of a garage.

Briggs sustained lacerations of the scalp. Donna Cleveland 19, received abrasions of both arms and back bruises. Briggs was cited for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

Struck Parked Car

John J. O'Reilly, 27, of 62 Lafayette Avenue, was injured at 2:05 a. m. today when his car reportedly struck a parked car in front of 141 Main Street. O'Reilly, police said, was treated at Kingston Hospital for a shoulder injury. He was cited by police for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. The parked vehicle was owned by Janet E. Phillips of 446 East 20th Street, New York City.

O'Reilly was making a turn at Washington Avenue and Main Street, when the mishap occurred.

Richard Hogan, 25, of Mt. Marion Park, said today that a previously reported mishap on Route 9W involving his car, should have noted that he swerved to avoid an unidentified vehicle when his car was in collision with one driven by Robert Plitt, 27, of the Bronx. Plitt was cited by authorities for failure to yield the right of way. The report inadvertently stated the Hogan's car struck the other vehicle. The unidentified car cut in front of Hogan's. The mishap occurred on Sunday

A horse and a motorcycle were involved in a mishap on Route 32 about one mile north of Saugerties at 2 a. m. today. State Police at Kingston said Barry A. Wangberg, 29, of 59 Second Street, Athens, was riding his motorcycle north on the highway when a horse meandered from the shoulder into the path of the vehicle.

The horse was hit and suffered a broken left front leg. It was destroyed by Dr. John R. Jeffrey, Saugerties veteranian, troopers said. Wangberg received abrasions of the right arm and undetermined back injuries, according to Trooper John Kohland. The horse belonged to Josephine O'Brien of R.D. Saugerties.

Report Wicks Seriously Ill

Former State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston is reported in serious condition at Kingston Hospital following his admitance there early this morning. The extent of the 80-year old Republican's illness was not ascertained.

Wicks retired from active politics in 1957 after serving for 30 years in the State's upper legislative house. During his term of office he was considered one of the Senate's most influential members.

The former senator became acting Lieutenant Governor in 1953 after the resignation of Frank C. Moore. He was also the Senate majority leader at that time but he resigned from both posts after he became embroiled in a bitter fight with former Governor Thomas E. Dewey over visits he made to Sing Sing Prison in an attempt to solve labor problems in the Kingston area with labor racketeer Joseph Fay. After his encounter with Dewey, Wicks ran for one more term of office from the 34th Senatorial District, won handily, and then retired from politics.

Wicks also resigned as Ulster County Republican Committee Chairman in 1957, after holding that post for 12 years.

During his term of office, Wicks introduced the bill requesting construction of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, and as Senate Finance Chairman, he directed a probe on the operations and budget of the State Education Department.

In 1949, Wicks' name was mentioned frequently as a possible opponent for Governor Dewey's bid for reelection, but the Kingston Senator decided to seek reelection for his senate seat instead.

Action Board Passes Move on Center Start

A resolution favoring the immediate construction of the Al Brown Memorial Recreation Center and the building of the new city hall in Rondout was proposed and passed unanimously at the recent meeting of the Rondout Community Action Advisory Board.

Board member Ronald F. Woods proposed the recreation center stating that "this major project must be started without delay as the funds have been appropriated and there is a definite need for the recreation complex." The board felt that when the new city hall and recreation complex were built, then other businesses would decide to locate in the urban renewal area. Some of the board members complained of the obvious lack of drug stores, markets and other businesses downtown. The resolution was adopted unanimously. Members are now gathering the complete facts on the plans for the recreation project and endeavoring to have the new city hall located in Rondout.

Mrs. Malinda Davis, Rondout director, reported on the extensive recreation program now conducted in cooperation with the local churches downtown and board member Irving Bell on the success of Rondout's present employment programs.

Children Stage Show for Heart Fund

Seven children from the Skytop area in the Town of Ulster wrote, directed and produced a musical show that resulted in over $40 raised for the Ulster County Heart Fund.

The show, which included singing, dancing and flute playing to an audience of approximately 35 persons, was presented in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Feltham of Forest Hill Drive. Star performers included Randi Aaron, 10; Kimberly Feltham, 7; Cathleen MacIsaac, 9 and Robin Stubbs, 10. The children sang songs from the Sound of Music and danced numbers which they had recently learned at the Blanche Moak Dance Studio. Piano accompanyist was Mrs. Judy MacIsaac.

Not to be outdone, brothers of the performers set up a carnival outside the home where refreshments were served and games were available to the audience, with all proceeds, again, going to the Heart Fund. This group included Bart Feltham, 11; Michael MacIsaac, 7 and Stephen Aaron, 13.

Commenting on the event, Dewese W. DeWitt, chairman of the board of the local Heart Chapter, said, "It is truly heartwarming to see children take time out of their busy play schedule to do something as worthwhile as this. We at the Heart Association are delighted and pleased to accept this wonderful gift which demonstrates so beautifully the generosity of young hearts."

The Heart Association was informed that the children involved in the event wish to make the contribution in memory of Louis Yodice, a neighbor, who suffered a fatal heart attack the day of the show.

Fire Destroys Two Buildings In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A four-alarm fire has destroyed a one-story brick and metal building in this city's Black Rock section causing an estimated $275,000 damage.

It was the second four-alarm fire here on Friday. Earlier, shortly after midnight, a fire of undetermined origin caused $160,000 damage to St. Brigid's Roman Catholic Church on the city's south-side.

Friday night's fire was in a warehouse leased to Calabrese Bros., wholesale suppliers of paper service products, toiletry items, cosmetics and fountain syrups.

Joseph Calabrese, vice president of the firm, said damage to the contents may exceed $175,000.

No one was reported injured.

The cause was not immediately determined.

He said flames quickly spread from a loading dock in the center of the building outward on both sides. Walls in the center section collapsed, he said.

The building was at 8 Churchhill St.

DWI Charge

Highland State Police early today cited Richard LaBounty, 38, of Port Ewen, for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He submitted to a blood test at Vassar Hospital and later arraigned before Lloyd Town Justice Linn Baker. Bail was fixed at $100 and the case was adjourned for hearing on July 24.

Budapest . . . And the Birds

The Hungarian city of Budapest is dealing with the city's pigeon population explosion by using The Pill.

The city council of that city recently voted to mix birth control chemicals with bird food. This was necessary to assist with the problem when the SPCA of that country objected to more sterner measures to eliminate the pigeon population.

Budapest also has another problem—excess sparrows. The city council tried to eliminate the problem with parakeets.

Two years ago parakeets were brought in a set in city trees, the theory being that sparrow-hating parakeets would do the natural thing and cooperate in the operation.

Upstater Dies In Viet Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Army 1st Lt. Daniel N. Glowacki, 22, of Buffalo was killed on July 4 in an air crash in South Vietnam, the Defense Department said Friday.

Glowacki was aboard an Army aircraft on a reconaissance mission when it collided with another plane, his wife said.

He enlisted in the Army on Feb. 28, 1966 and had been in Vietnam since Jan. 29.

Arrested by Police

Cornelius Watzka of Route 1, Box 293½, East Kingston, was arrested Friday night by Kingston Police and charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated on East Chester Street. The case is pending before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Robbery, Assault Conviction Reversed

The conviction of Anthony McKendall, 32, of Wurtsboro, of first degree robbery and second degree assault in the 1964 holdup of a card game at Ellenville Taxi Company, was recently reversed in a decision handed down by the Appellate Division of Supreme Court in Albany.

McKendall, the appellant, was indicted jointly with William Moran, Joseph Luis and Joseph Jargow in connection with the holdup in which $1,200 was taken from several men participating in a card game on Oct. 8, 1964, McKendall was sentenced to state prison at Dannemora.

The judgment was reversed and a new trial ordered.

The appellant sought a reversal on the ground that he was deprived of a fair trial by the admission into evidence of an oral confession of the co-defendant, Moran, which implicated the appellant in the commission of the crimes; by the prosecutor improperly using his name with reference to this confession and the contents thereof, although the court had ordered that the appellant's name be redacted from the confession.

Moran's oral confession was ruled admissible in evidence after a Huntley hearing to determine if the confession was legally obtained. At the trial the court ordered that reference to McKendall in Moran's confession be redacted.

The reversal order stated, "It may be inferred that it was clearly established in the minds of the jury that the other person referred to in the confession was, in fact, the appellant. The testimony concerning the events and the confession were so linked together that they were inseparable."

Liberal Hopeful Taunts Dyson

Peter Kane Dufault, of Hillsdale, Liberal Party candidate for congress in this district, taunted Democratic candidate John Dyson at a meeting in Kingston Tuesday night for what he called Dyson's "party first, country second outlook."

Referring to Dyson's announced neutrality on the Democratic presidential contenders, Dufault asked: "Does he really see no difference between Humphrey and McCarthy? Senator McCarthy has continually spoken out against the conduct of the war in Vietnam and has called for American withdrawal, while Vice-President Humphrey has been the Johnson Administration's leading spokesman for the war.

In state after state the Humphrey supporters have denied the McCarthy backers their fair share of seats at the Democratic Party convention. And yet Dyson says he could run with either camp.

"Such men as this," the Liberal candidate said, "have only one political principle—win at any price. Or, put another way—party first, country second."

Reformed Church

The Saugerties Reformed Church summer camp program will not be in operation the week of July 7-13. The Rev. Richard Brihn, the summer pastor, will be serving as a counselor at the Warwick Conference Center that week.

Michael Thompson, Richard Barringer, Jose Castillo and Curz Castillo will leave Sunday for a summer conference at Camp Fowler in Speculator.

Sentenced to Jail

Charged with criminal trespass third degree, Joseph Sperman, 54, of White Plains, pleaded guilty Friday before Ellenville Village Justice Ronald Elias, who imposed a sentence of 15 days in the county jail. Patrolman William Haight reported the man was accused of trespassing on property of the Shamrock Hotel in Ellenville on Thursday.

Gardiner Names McHugh As Recreation Co-Director

At the regularly scheduled meeting of the Gardiner Town Board, Christopher McHugh was appointed co-director of the town's recreation program.

He will serve with Mrs. Linda De Angelis.

McHugh is the son of the late Jesse McHugh former first vice chairman of the Republican County Committee.

According to Supervisor George Majestic, a fund drive will be launched to collect monies for town use of the Aid Society of New York City swimming pool.

Located off the Albany Post Road, the pool had been used for many years by the society but, because of certain financial difficulties, the New York City organization will not use the swimming facilities this year and the pool was turned over to the town for the recreation program.

Supervisor Majestic claimed that a minumum cost for running the pool would be about $3,000.

"We have about $2,100 in the recreation program right now," said Majestic, adding, "$1,050 of the amount came from the state."

The Gardiner supervisor said that a number of pledges have already been received for the swimming program.

It was also pointed out that Al DiBernardo, chairman of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, will help the program along and Ulster County Community College will supply life guards.

Majestic declared that he offered a resolution opposing a county-wide sales tax, but it was tabled by the Republican-controlled board.

The Democratic leader said that he wanted the sales tax to be included on the ballot in November but that members of the board "did not have the courage to vote in behalf of the people of Gardiner to find out what they want."

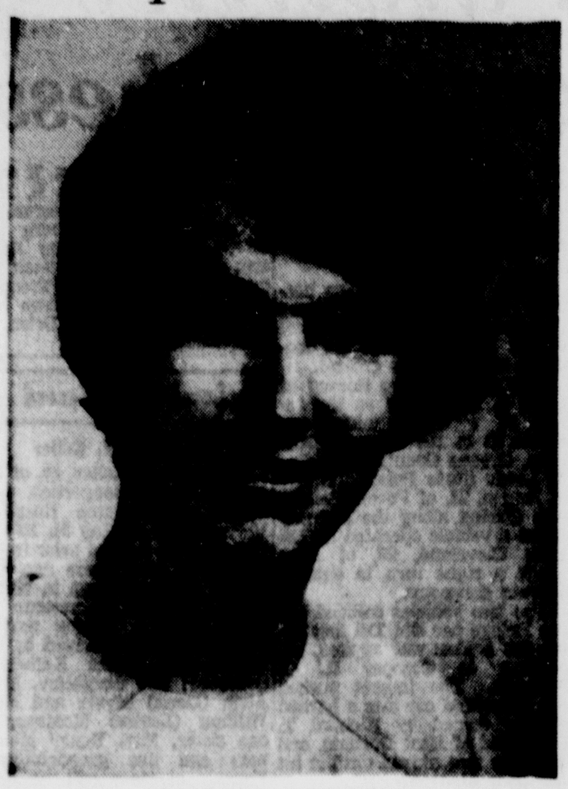

KILLED — Lt. Col. Frederick VanDeusen, 37, of Fayetteville, N.C., brother-in-law of Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

It is no wonder that our grandparents feared the hospital and were sure they would die there if they had to undergo treatment, especially surgrey. Many of them did die.

I am reminded of this by a recent article in the New York Times about the latest plans for operating rooms. The air in the room will be washed and purified about three to five times a minute. Doctors and nurses will wear masks that carry the air they have just breathed out into a bag that hangs down their backs. No more will doctors wear baggy pants and coats. The new style will be tight fitting, with the nurses dressed in tight, one-piece jump suits. All these precautions, made more necessary by the danger of infection in transplant surgery, are expected to make it impossible for a germ to pry his way into the sacred precincts. It is hardly necessary to add that the knife is no longer thrust into the surgeon's pocket.

These extra-careful plans are reassuring, especially if you are in need of somebody else's heart or liver. We cannot have too much progress, too great care of life and death. It is only with every day appliances that progress sometimes seems dubious.

The other morning when we came downstairs the refrigerator was hot. The packages in the freezer compart were limp and sad. The milk was doubtful, the butter ran, the eggs were no longer fresh. A repair man came and said the defrosting mechanism was stuck. He removed the device, left us with a box that could not defrost itself, and promised to return in a couple of days. He came, of course, in two and a half weeks. While the refrigerator was being attended to, the vacuum cleaner passed away quietly. Examination showed that it needed a new motor and a new motor would cost more than the machine was worth. That afternoon I sat down to my typewriter. The keys kept sticking!

Away with progress, I said loudly. Back to the old icebox which caused trouble only when we forgot to empty the drip pan. Back to the broom and dust pan. Back to the pen and ink bottle.

Of course I did not really mean it. But we did have to buy a new vacuum cleaner and I resisted the salesman's attempt to sell me an attachment which, as he proved, would pick up thread and even a piece of band aid. I remembered my old Bissell carpet sweeper. It is 40 years old if it is a day and it picks up threads and band aids perfectly. We must not go back to the dirty surgeon's coat but every so often it is comforting to know that sometimes the old appliances work just as well and cost far less than the new.

an open letter to brides-to-be:

A beatuiful wedding is one that is successfully planned. After it is all over, the bride will attest to the fact that a most important help is the cooperation by the shop where she purchased her gown and her attendant's gowns. Also she was secure in the knowledge that her wedding gown was individual as were her attendants, because she was able to select from lots of styles, and thus create her own idea of a wedding party and not just settle for something five other brides had.

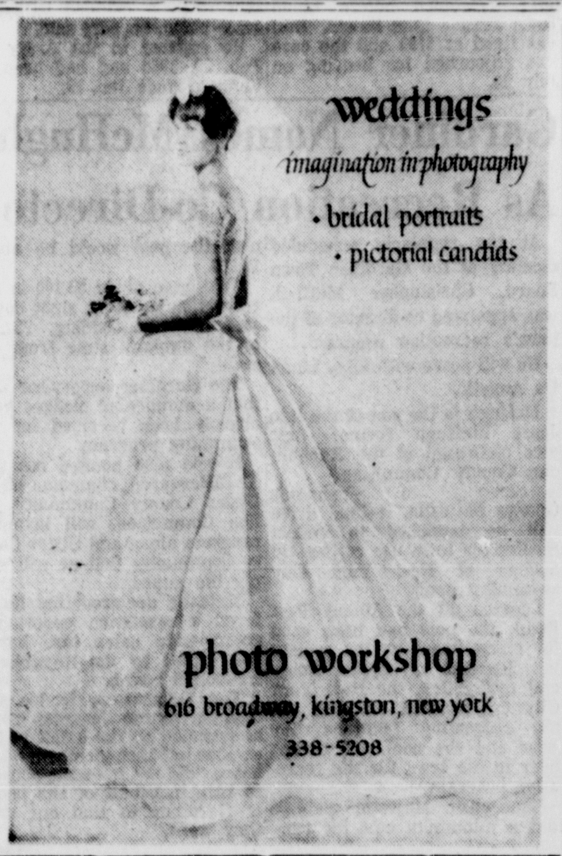

It's at DOREEN'S you can achieve an individual look in wedding fashions. Bridals are $65 to $125 and up, and attendants gowns are $25 to $40 and up. Each is fitted to perfection and ready to take home weeks before the wedding, if you so desire.

Orders are not taken unless we can guarantee delivery—you will find this very important to you, because we have become known for "guaranteed delivery" with "no substitutions" at the last minute.

If you are planning a wedding, our bridal consultant awaits your pleasure and you can count on the complete privacy of a pre-arranged appointment. Tel. 331-6047 day or evening—closed Tuesday. For your convenience we suggest that you use our layaway plan for fall.

GEORGE HALLEY produced this sweeping long formal in the tawny tones of the lion and printed overall with faces of the king of the beasts. He added jewels for the lion's eyes and then did a "mane" (collar) plus cuffs in masses of matching feathers. (UPI Telephoto).

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here's one for the fellows.

If any of you have knitted a pullover shirt with two buttons in front, try putting it on BACKWARDS and buttoning it in the back.

With your coat on, you'll have a turtle neck sweater that is now the latest style.

Dear Heloise:

I have found a way to simplify the procedure of moving buttons over to ease or tighten a garment.

As it is difficult to position the buttons to exactly the places I want them, I've solved this by incorporating large safety pins.

I simply put the pins where I think the button should be moved. Pin it in vertically so it will slip through the buttonhole like a button and hold.

I can then try on the garment with all the pins slipped through the buttonholes, see how it will fall, raise my arms and see exactly how the garment will fit with the buttons in that position.

It saves the wasted time and effort one experiences in setting over the buttons and finding that they should have been set over another fraction of an inch.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of the Emily Post Institute

GETTING RID OF THE "CLINGING VINES"

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-wining one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. Robert Greer III of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have just returned from the annual meetings of a scientific society where we were faced with a social problem we could not solve.

These meetings were held at a resort hotel, creating a rather cloistered situation. There were perhaps 300 people there, including the wives and guests of members. On our way to the dining room the first day my husband and I met Harry and Jane. (We have known them for some years and have tried to lose them gracefully into the mist of time, but they won't stay lost.) They requested we "wait for them" for luncheon. We did—half an hour. They made it impossible for us to include them in our party for dinner.

Jane's pet phrases are "wait for me (us)!" and "What are you doing tonight, for dinner etc.?" The waits are always too long, she's doing something she should do on her own time. The "what are you doing?" questions can be answered with a polite evasion in some situations, but Jane is most persistent and there is little chance for escape in a "closed" situation such at this.

We are sure to meet Harry and Jane under similar circumstances once or twice a year. How, within the bounds of good manners, can we control the time we spend with them, rather than play a defensive game of hide-and-seek?

—Elizabeth Greer

Dear Mrs. Greer: The best solution is —plan ahead. Fill every free moment with engagements made ahead of time by note, or by telephone as soon as you arrive. Save one specific time for the clinging couple so that their feelings will not be hurt, and the rest of the time when they say "What are you doing," "Who with?," etc., tell them truthfully, but don't suggest that they join you. If they make the suggestion themselves, you can always say, "I'm afraid it's the Smith's party and we can't really change their plans," or "I'm afraid our reservation is only for four," etc. After a few disappointments, Jane will undoubtedly direct her efforts to a less "busy" couple.

Billie Jean Seeking 'Tennis Greats' Recognition

THE SYMBOL—of tennis supremacy, the gold Wimbledon Cup, is proudly displayed by smiling Rod Laver of Australia. Laver, net pro, defeated another pro, fellow Aussie Tony Roche, yesterday afternoon in straight sets to capture the men's singles crown. (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

By JIM RAMSAY

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—American professional Mrs. Billie Jean King attempted to have her name go down among the greats of tennis history today by winning the Wimbledon womens singles crown for the third successive year.

The 24 year old from Long Beach, Calif., met happy-go-lucky Australian "Tomboy," Judy Tegart, the only non-professional to reach a final in the tournament's first open competition.

If Mrs. King wins today she will join such players as France's Suzanne Lenglen and America's Helen Wills Moody, Louise Brought and Maureen "Mo" Connolly on the exclusive triple winners' honor roll for the tournament.

Mrs. King, who turned professional earlier this year, showed indifferent form early in the tourney but sparkled by lifting her game to world class standards when she came from behind to beat Britain's Ann Haydon Jones in a semi final match Thursday.

On the other hand, the 30 year old Miss Tegart, who has toured the world circuit for the last seven years without ever really making the grade, has everything to gain and nothing to lose if she beats Mrs. King as she upset American Nancy Richey Thursday.

Australia's Rod Laver upheld his claim to the title of the world's best player when he captured his third Wimbledon men's title Friday by defeating countryman Tony Roche in straight sets 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Laver, 29, who won his first two Wimbledon titles in 1961 and 62 as an amateur, thus became the first professional titlist in the 82-year history of the All-England championships.

Laver was in complete command of the match, that marked the eighth All-Australian final in 13-years, as he picked up first prize money of $4,800 for his efforts.

Following his victory, Laver told newsmen, "This is the greatest thrill of my tennis career. It was a big thrill to win the first two. But, this being the first open Wimbledon and knowing that everyone had played here before, it meant more."

Mrs. King and Miss Tegart both are great favorites with the Wimbledon crowd, but the rough and ready Australian, who has never won anything of note will have the backing of the "underdog supporting" Wimbledon spectators when they pair off.

"I swore off the booze and fattening foods a month ago so I could be fit this time," the Melbourne girl said Friday night.

"I am determined to do my best and win."

Miss Tegart could win. She has played some of the best tennis of her career in the past few days, particularly in fighting back from a set down to beat Australia's two-time Wimbledon champion Margaret Smith Court and Miss Rcihey, who had won the previous five meetings between the pair.

Roche and last year's Wimbledon winner John Newcombe teamed up to play Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle.

Mrs. King and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco battled Mrs. Jones and French professional Francoise Durr in the womens doubles final.

Yanks Stop Orioles, Mets Fall to Phils

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fritz Peterson, who twirled a sparkling three hitter, led off the ninth inning with his first hit of the season Friday night and scored the winning run in the New York Yankees 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles on Andy Kosco's two-out single.

Chris Short pitched a five-hitter and singled and scored the deciding run in the two-run sixth inning on Roberto Pena's triple Friday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-1 victory over the New York Mets.

Peterson who retired the first 15 batters in order while raising his record to 5-3, lined a 2-2 pitch into rightcenter in the ninth off Dave McNally after failing to hit safely in his first 20 appearances of the season.

One out later, Peterson tagged up and reached second on Mickey Mantle's towering 450 foot fly to the warning path in dead center. Following a walk to Roy White, Kosco lined a solid single over third baseman Brooks Robinson's head. There was no play at the plate.

McNally, who yielded only two hits, both to Tom Tresh, over the first eighth innings, suffered his eighth loss against the same number of wins. Tresh lined his fourth homer of the season into the lower right field stands in the second inning anddrnohled in the eighth.

Boog Powell doubled in the seventh inning and Belanger singled in the eighth for Baltimore's final two hits.

Belanger's single followed an error by third baseman Bobby Cox with none out in the eighth but McNally bunted into a double play and Peterson struck out Paul Blair to end the threat.

Short, who saved a game Wednesday in Chicago in a rare relief appearance, struck out 11 while picking up his seventh victory against eight defeats.

Tom Seaver, who has never beaten the Phils, set a Mets' record when he blanked the Phils through the first four innings to run his scoreless streak to 22. Hal Reniff and Jerry Koosman shared the old mark of 21.

But the Phils scored a single run in the fifth and two in the sixth to break his string and his five-game winning streak. Seaver is now 7-6.

Richie Allen tripled and scored the first run in the fifth inning on Tony Taylor s sacrifice fly to short right. Ron Swoboda stumbled while making the catch, enabling Allen to score.

Short opened the sixth with a single and took second on a sacrifice by Cookie Rojas. Pena tripled home Short and then scored the third run on Tony Gonzalez' single.

The Mets scored in the eighth on singles by Tommie Agee, Al Weis, and pinch-hitter Jerry Buchek. But Short escaped further damage when Tony Taylor speared Phil Linz' hard grounder, stepped on third for the force and threw to first for the inning ending double play.

Bill Freehan has served notice on the rest of the American League that the Detroit Tigers hit back—and how.

The Tigers in general and Freehan in particular have the feeling they walked smack into a shooting gallery from the wrong end this season. It's a rare game when at least one Detroit player isn't hit by a pitch and Freehan for one is sick and tired of it.

"The umpires are going to have to do something about it or the batters are going to take the matter into their own hands," said Freehan after he was plunked for the 12th time this season Friday night. "If they don't do something soon, someone's going to go out and get a pitcher and break his arm."

Freehan didn't go quite that far against the Oakland Athletics but it was far enough to assure the league-leading Tigers of an 8-5 victory. The All-Star catcher slugged a pair of three-run homers to pace Detroit to its fifth straight triumph and its 10th in the last 11 games.

The Cleveland Indians, who trail the Tigers by 8½ games, kept pace by beating the California Angels 5-1, the Boston Red Sox defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2.

Leads League

Ken Harrelson, the AL's only .300 hitter at the moment, belted a three-run homer in the first inning to take over the league s RBI lead with 60 and pace the Red Sox' fifth successive victory.

Larry Brown drove in three runs with three singles as the Indians waited through two rain delays to beat the Angels.

A solo homer by Luis Aparicio in the first inning and a two-run homer by Duane Josephson in the second lifted the White Sox past the Senators.

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis topped San Francisco 4 - 3 in 12 innings to boost its lead to nine games, Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles 2 - 0 in 12 innings, Houston outlasted Atlanta 13 - 9, and Pittsburgh shutout Chicago 4 - 0.

Tim McCarver singled in Orlando Cepeda from third in the 12th to give St. Louis the victory over San Francisco. McCarver's hit came off Joe Gibbon, the third San Francisco pitcher after Curt Flood singled, was forced at second and Mike Shannon doubled. The winning pitcher was Wayne Granger, who allowed just two singles in his four innings of work.

Denis Menke's three - run homer highlighted a five - run ninth inning that snapped a 9 - 9 tie and led Houston past Atlanta. Atlanta had a 9 - 8 lead with two out in the ninth when Hector Torres singled, Rusty Staub walked and Jim Wynn singled to tie the game. Menke then homered to win the game and Doug Rader followed with a homer for an insurance run. Clete Boyer had four hits

Trevino Leads Boros By One

By ED SAINSBURY
UPI Sports Writer

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—Lee Trevino, a newcomer in his second year on the pro golf tour, and Julius Boros, completing his 20th season on the circuit, led the biggest qualifying field of the year into the third round of the $125,000 Buick Open today.

Trevino, whose only win came in last month's U.S. Open, drew confidence from his big gallery Friday from a record crowd of 23,482, to tally a four-under-par 68 and take the midpoint lead with six-under-par 138 for 36 holes.

But, he had only a one stroke edge on Boros, twice the Buick winner and the defending champion in this tournament which will pay the victor $25,000. Boros, matching Trevino with a first round 70, posted a 69 Friday for his 139 total.

They were within shooting range, though, of a host of challengers. Closest were the tour's current runner-up in earnings, young Tom Weiskopf, Fred Marti and John Stevens, all at 140, and Steve Spray, Rod Horn, Rod Funseth, Johnny Pott and R. H. Sikes at 141.

In all, 85 players qualified for the final 36-holes, 13 of them because of a new rule invoked for the first time that qualified everybody within 10 shots of the leader. It was the largest field this year to make the cut.

Trevino, who said he "started going for the pin more because the greens were holding" the greens were holding" had one of the two eagles on the 13th hole Friday, dropping a 25-foot putt after a two-iron approach. Weiskopf had the other eagle, hitting a one-iron within 12-feet of the flag and sinking the putt.

"I think the course will be a little tougher Saturday," Trevino said. "They'll put the tees back and it will play longer."

Saturday, Trevino will play with Weiskopf and Stevens in the last threesome while Boros will be in the previous pairing with Marti and Spray.

In addition to his eagle, Trevino netted four birdies, three of them on the back nine with putts of seven feet once and 12 feet twice. But, he went over par on two holes, three-putting from 40-feet once and missing the green on the second.

LL's Approaching Tournament Time

It's almost Little League tournament time and various area LL managers and officials are busy selecting all-star teams for the district competition. Play gets under way July 15.

Leagues competing in this year's tournament include: Jaycees, National, American of Kingston; Esopus Legion, Hurley, Onteora, Kerhonkson, Pine Bush and Highland.

All-star selections will be announced prior to the start of the tournament.

Monday, July 15

Game B—Kingston Americans vs. Esopus at Hurley.

Wednesday, July 17

Game D—Rondout Valley vs. Town of Ulster at Highland park.

Game E—Highland vs. Hurley at Esopus.

Game G—Winner of Kingston-American vs. Esopus against winner of Pine Bush-Onteora at National.

Friday, July 19

Game I—Winner of Game F vs. winner of Game C at National.

District Little League Commissioner Hubert Richter of Kingston has announced the following tournament officials by parks:

American, Don Miller; Hurley, Walter Rose; Jaycees, George Krom; Highland, Daniel Alfonso; Esopus, Lewis Kirschner; Rondout Valley, Richard Priest; National, James Rockwell.

The championship game will be played on Monday, July 22, with the site to be announced later.

City Baseball Twinbill Sunday

The Rosendale Merchants meet the Lions Club in the 6:15 opener, followed by the Kingston Merchants and Donnie Vans—at 8:20 p.m.

OCFS Cycle Racing

Orange County Fair Speedway's second program of motorcycle racing for 1968 is slated for Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. It will consist of nine races, three each in Novice, Amateur and Expert. Regular stock car racing starts at 8, Saturday night.

Wilt Trade Taking On Reality Aspect

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—West to Baylor to Chamberlain.

How about Baylor to Chamberlain to West?

Would you Believe Chamberlain to West to Baylor?

If the above combinations don't suit you, they may prove more than opponents of the Los Angeles Lakers can handle next season in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers, already possessors of two of the NBA's top stars in Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, could find themselves with the deadliest scoring trio in basketball history if a report circulated Friday night proves true.

The report which drew "no comments" from officials of either the Lakers or the Philadelphia 76ers, had the Quaker City club trading the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, the only player in NBA history to score more than 25,000 points, to the Lakers in exchange for Darrall Imhoff, Archie Cla.rk Jerry Chambers and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Such a report has been making the rounds the past month and drew repeated denials from both teams. Friday night, however, Laker officials could not be reached and Jack Ramsay, the general manager of the 76ers, when asked about the trade, would say only, "We have made no statement and we have no comment to make on that."

In addition to the Chamberlain trade, Ramsay, reportedly, also has been named coach of the 76ers to succeed Alex Hannum, who quit following the 1967-68 season to join the Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association. Again, Ramsay refused to comment about such a move.

In addition to his becoming the league's all-time scoring leader in his nine seasons in the NBA; Chamberlain, the only man to score 100 points in a single game, has been named to the All-Star squads and the All-League teams every year.

He entered the NBA as a membe, of the old Philadelphia Warriors after playing with the Harlem Globetrotters and moved with the Warriors to San Francisco when the franchise was transferred to the Bay City in 1962. The Warriors traded him to the 76ers in 1964.

Despite his scoring prowess, which reportedly earned him a $250,000 contract last season, Chamberlain has played on only one championship club, leading the 76ers to the league title in 1967.

Last season, Chamberlain averaged 24.3 points a game, preferring to play the role of playmaker, and the 76ers were eliminated from the post-season playoffs by the Boston Celtics, who went on to capture the championship from the Lakers, who won the Western Division playoff title behind Baylor and West.

NFL Players Get First Test Sunday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The threatened strike by the National Football League Players Association gets it first test Sunday night as both sides attempt to settle a pension plan dispute, the last remaining roadblock in negotiations.

The San Francisco Forty Niners provide that test at their summer training site on the campus of the University of California at Santa Barbara. They have scheduled 17 veterans to meet with the rookies, beginning Sunday night. If the vets don't show up on schedule, it would appear the strike would be on.

John Gordy of the Detroit Lions, president of the players association, said "appropriate action" would be taken if the pension damand is not met. Earlier, Alex Karras, also with the Lions, said the association's entire 652-man membership already had been ordered on strike.

Center Bruce Bosley of the Forty Niners was quoted as saying he would stay away from camp if the association told him to. His comment seemed to mirror the feeling among many of the players on the other teams.

All clubs are slated to have their camps open by July 21, and the first wave of exhibitions games begins the following week.

Motorsports Sponsor Rally

The IBM Motorsports Club will sponsor a rally, the "July Jaunt" on Sunday, July 14. The rally will cover approximately 70 miles and last about three hours.

Registration will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of the country club at Poughkeepsie. The first car will be off at 1:31 p.m.

Classes running will be equipped, unequipped, novice and family. The family class allows any number of participants to ride in one car and aid in navigating the rally.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third places overall, the best novice team and the best performance by a family group.

Appoint Steltz Pistol Instructor

Francis E. Steltz of Saugerties, one of the area's finest pistol marksmen, has been appointed a certified rifle and pistol instructor by the National Rifle Association of America.

Steltz was appointed on the basis of experience and the successful completion of an extensive examination. He is now qualified to conduct classes in basic marksmanship and safe gun handling.

Hudson Hurler KO's Saugerties

Kaskowski, who whiffed 11, got plenty of support from his teammates, as Hudson rocked a trio of Saugerties flingers for 13 hits.

Of the three hits off the Hudson righty, Bob Leyes got a pair, a triple in the seventh and a single in the sixth that busted Kaskowski's no-hitter bid.

Saugerties and Hudson go at it again Sunday at Hudson, then the Sawyers travel to Dietz Monday for a 8 p. m. encounter, ' are at Coxsackie Wednesday and next Sunday return home to meet Hudson again.

Victory Camp Gets Better and Better

Somewhere along the line, someone once said that trotting horses were supposed to improve with age.

Victory Camp, a brown eight year-old-gelding, proved that adage 100 per cent correct last night at Monticello Raceway, posting a blistering 2:04 victory in the $5,000 featured trot for his second triumph in a row.

Driven by veteran Al Burton, the gelded son of Spencer Camp out of Victorian by Victory Song, Victory Camp left from post five in the field of eight and won by going away by more than two lengths.

As the starting gate swept away from the field, Sprint (2) with Elbridge Gerry Jr. driving, moved quickly for the top. Burton, racing outside with last year's MR Trotter-of-the-Year, was second on the outside.

As the field straightened out in the backstretch going down to the first quarter, Burton urged the seemingly ageless trotter past Sprint and into the lead, a lead the pair never relinuished.

The field, with Victory Camp on top, reached the first quarter in 30-seconds flat, with VC opening a two-length lead over Sprint while Jamie's Beauty (3) was another notch back.

It was all Victory Camp the rest of the way. Only two serious challenges arose, but VC was able to hold off the bids by Sprint and Jamie's Beauty.

Coming home, Burton showed the fans what kind of horse he had left, pulling away handily to win within a fifth-of-a-second of his lifetime mark and two-fifths of a second off the fastest trot time at the Mighty M this season.

Ignored pretty much by the crowd of 11,349, Victory Camp went off at 9-1 and paid a whopping $20.20, 7.00 and 6.20 for the victory. Be Special (1), Ken Heeney driving, got up for second and returned $13.60 and 5.60 for place while Peerless Yankee (4), Jack Quinn up, had a $6.40 show price.

The daily double of 1 and 4, Nevele Song and Young Byrd, a pair of $19.00 horses, was $163.80.

Buffalo Wins On Homer Power

By United Press International

With more than half a season to go, Buffalo slugger Brant Alyea has already tied last year's league-leading home run total in the International League.

Alyea clubbed his 25th Friday night, a solo shot in the second, to help the Bisons subdue Columbus 4-1 in a game called after five and half innings due to rain. Last season, Richmond's Jim Beauchamp led the league with 25. If Alyea continues his torrid pace over the second half of the season, he'll break Ollie Carnegie's 30-year old club record of 45 set in 1938.

In other action, Syracuse nipped Richmond 1-0 and Jacksonville topped Rochester 4-1 in the first game of a scheduled twi-light doubleheader. The second game was rained out as was Louisville at Toledo.

The Chiefs pushed across a run in the bottom of the fifth as John Cumberland blanked the Braves on four hits. The victory upped his record to 5-3.

Bob Mitchell cracked a sixth-inning two-run homer to provide the Mets with their winning runs. Del Bates' solo homer in the second inning gave the Red Wings a lead they held until Mitchell's blast. Two more runs in the seconth clinched the victory for Ron Locke, his second without a loss.

Redskins Swap With Vikings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins traded defensive safety Paul Krause to the Minnesota Vikings Thursday for tight end Marleon McKeever and an undesignated draft choice.

Redskin coach Otto Graham said the trade would enable him to move tight end Jerry Smith to a flanker position and put veteran Bobby Mitchell in as a permanent running back in his offense.

McKeever was the number one draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams in 1960 and played linebacker in his first three years but has been a tight end since 1963.

Krause was Washington's second draft pick in 1963 and as a free safety snagged 28 interceptions in four years with the Redskins. The former Iowa star was a consensus all pro in his first two years in the NFL.

VINTAGE WINNER—Ed Tanis of West Hurley with his 1929 Model-A Ford sedan.

Antique Owners Second

The Monticello meet attracted nearly 100 antique autos and was highlighted by a free bus trip and inspection of the new Antique Auto Museum in Ellenville.

The two area cars will be on display at the Woodstock Motor Club Auto Show on July 21 at Forsyth Park in Kingston. Additional information may be obtained by calling Michael Lovy of Kingston.

Bob Veale pitched a two-hitter, retiring 22 batters at one stage, as the Pirates topped he Cubs. Bill Mazeroski highlighed a four-run fifth inning with a two-run double to decide the game. Rich Nye, now 4-10, took the loss.

Lee May doubled home two runs in the 12th inning to give the Reds the victory over the Dodgers. Don Drysdale and George Culver went the first 10 innings. Don Sutton and Ted Abernathy then took over. Sutton was beaten when Tony Perez singled, stole second and Johnny Bench was walked intentionally to set the stage for May's double. Abernathy, now 6-1, got the victory in his sixth relief appearance in as many games.

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Dodgers apparently are about to undergo a shakeup after losing five games in a row and skidding into seventh place in the National League.

None of the Los Angeles officials wants to be quoted publicly, but they agree that changes are in order.

Lack of hitting is the Dodgers' chief problem and the most persistent victim of that flaw is right hander Don Drysdale.

Drysdale, in quest of his eighth shutout of the year, blanked Cincinnati for 10 innings Friday night. But he was lifted for a pinchhiter and the Reds went on to beat reliefer Don Sutton, 2-0, when Lee May doubled home two runs in the 12th inning.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A field of 30 all-round track and field athletes, headed by defending champion Bill Toomey, go into action in the first half of the national AAU decathlon championship today.

A three-time champion, Toomey lives here but competes for the Southern California Striders. Injuries have prevented him from all-out practice drills in the 10 decathlon events.

The winner and perhaps nine runnersup will earn invitations to the final Olympic Games trials at Lake Tahoe on Sept. 6-7 where a final decision will be made as to the decathlon participants in the games proper in Mexico City.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Jim Hurtubise, driving an Offenhause powered Indianapolis type roadster, set a world record of 191.983 miles per hour Friday for a closed course in a special run around Daytona International Speedway.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Grand Circuit week closed on a record-breaking note at Historic Track in Goshen Friday with Bye and Large, a 3-year-old pacer, turning the mile in 1:58 3-5.

The mile was the fastest ever recorded at the 130-year-old track. The event highlighted harness activity in the state.

Bye and Large, driven by Billy Haughton, registered the time in the first heat of the $9,447 Orange Cup for 3-year-old pacers. Fulla Napoleon placed and Tioga Flash showed. Bye and Large also took the second heat, this time in 2:00 4-5, over Fulla Napoleon. Nevele Romeo was third.

At other harness tracks in the state:

—Style Setter ($41) edged Grandpa Jim by a half-length to win the $20,000 Jamin Trot at Roosevelt Raceway. Critics Choice was third in the mile, timed in 2:03 2-5.

Seer and Uncles Mon captured the two legs of the $6,000 trot at Saratoga Raceway. Seer ($4.80) topped Micks Boy and Two Mountains Leaf in a 2:07 mile. Uncles Mon ($5.80) crossed the wire in 2:05 4-5, ahead of Mar Con Mission and Leading Uncle.

Mattina ($9.60) romped to a 3¾ length victory over Roaring Water in the $3,500 trot at Buffalo Raceway. The winner posted a time of 2:08. Lucky Laird was third.

Mays, Mantle Captain NL-AL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees were chosen today as captains of their All-star squads for Tuesday night's mid-summer classic in Houston.

National League Manager Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and American League Manager Dick Williams of Boston picked Mays and Mantle because of their outstanding performances in past All-Star games. It was the first time All-Star captains were chosen.

Mays, making his 17th All-Star appearance, has an overall batting average of .355 in the games with three home runs and nine runs batted in. His 19 runs scored and 22 hits are ALL-star records.

Mantle, selected for the 16th time, has an All-Star average of .238 but two of his 10 hits have been home runs.

Brown Returns To Grid Scene

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Paul Brown, one of football's renowned coaches, has ended five years of inactivity and says, "It really doesn't feel like I've been away."

Looking trim and tanned in a black baseball cap with the letters CB engraved in orange, Brown watched about 50 rookies check into the first camp of the Cincinnati Bengals Friday.

The Bengals opened camp here at Wilmington College, and 30 more rookies are due Saturday before the veterans check in July 10.

The new club already has sold 18,000 season tickets, the biggest advance sale for any sport in Cincinnati history and the biggest in the league for an expansion club.

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help-Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FLSA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.60 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.15 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 42 hours a week. For specific information, contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y., 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.
IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibit discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

Father Love Is Deaf

DEAR ABBY: There is a 10-year-old boy living next door to us who has just started taking violin lessons. Now that summer is here, we keep all our windows open, and we can hear this kid practicing night and day. I have heard "Santa Lucia" for two weeks now, and there hasn't been any improvement.

I saw his father in the yard and said, "Your Joey sure practices a lot. I hear him night and day."

Joey's father said, "Don't complain. You are getting a concert for free. One day you will have to pay for a ticket to hear him."

I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings, but this Joey is making me crazy with his violin. Any suggestions?

THE MAN NEXT DOOR

DEAR MAN: If "mother love is blind," father love is deaf, so buy an air conditioner and keep your windows closed during the summer until it's time to "buy that ticket."

DEAR ABBY: Thanks to your column I realize that I wasn't the only woman in the world who was married to a man who "lost interest" in her at a much too early age.

I tried all the tricks. Trimmed myself down, new clothes, new hair-do. I even fell for that bit about blondes having more fun. (They don't. They just have bigger beauty parlor bills.) I teased and flirted and even begged. At first I felt cheap, then humiliated. Then I realized that there was nothing wrong with ME, it was HIM. I asked him to try to get to the root of the problem, but he insists that he had no problem.

So this is where things stand. If he won't get help, there's nothing I can do. It's helped me a lot to be able to "talk" about it. And as you know, a lady doesn't talk to her friends about things like this. Thanks for being you.

"A LADY"

DEAR "LADY": I received many letters from both husbands and wives who are married to icebergs, cold tomatoes, etc. Emotional temperatures differ. It's too bad these glaciers don't marry each other.

DEAR ABBY: I have two sons. One is 15 and the other is 14. My neighbor has two daughters. One is 15 and the other is 13. My husband works nights, and I work days. The problem is that our two boys like the neighbor girls. They are nice girls from a good family, but when we are gone, the sisters will come over to see our boys. They don't date or anything like that because we feel they are too young.

But now that it's summer vacation, the girls have been spending a lot of time here, and I don't think it's right with no adults at home. Besides, you know how neighbors gossip.

How do I tell these girls not to come here unless my husband or I are home?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You shouldn't tell the girls anything. Tell your sons that they aren't to have the girls in the house unless you are home.

DEAR ABBY: The people of this country (and I blush to admit that I am no exception) have absolutely NO GUTS when it comes to refusing to tip waiters, cab drivers, and others who do only their job (for which they are paid) and nothing more.

There is no more reason to tip a cab driver for driving you from one place to another than the bus driver who does the same thing—unless, of course, he handles your luggage or does something extra for you. Most cab drivers don't even bother to open the door of a cab anymore. And when you DO tip them, they don't even say, "Thank you."

I HAVE HAD IT

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed enveloped.

For Abby's new booklet "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Dble	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ A

What do you do with the South cards? If you are the type player who does not bid at all with these 10 high card points you will pass through out.

If you are the type who likes to compete when you have a good suit and aren't vulnerable you will overcall the opening one spade with same number of diamonds.

South liked to compete. In addition he and his partner were playing preemptive jump overcalls so South jumped to three diamonds.

West's hike to four spades showed a good hand and North had enough to warrant raising his partner to five diamonds. North did not think that South would make this contract but he was sure that East would make his four spades.

At this point East decided to jam his nonvulnerable opponents. He didn't really think that he could bring home a spade slam. He was pretty sure that the defense would collect a diamond trick right off the bat and probably a club trick later on. East didn't really care. He was pretty sure that a six-spade call would bring out a seven-diamond bid by South.

If you have looked at all the cards you will have seen that East is not going to make his contract. You would actually double since you aren't supposed to have seen the cards but you would pass and let East struggle.

If you haven't looked at all the cards you should still pass. You told your story when you bid three diamonds. Let your partner decide whether to pass or to take the save. He will have a tough problem but will probably pass on the theory that if East really thought he could make six spades East would not have jumped there but would have allowed himself to be pushed.

This last is academic. When this hand was played South went right to seven diamonds and paid off 90 points for going down five tricks doubled.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

WHY WE SAY

WICKEDNESS: In the 14th century a girl who was "full of charm" might be put to death or tortured. The word referred to wickedness. It was derived from the Latin word "carmen," a song often used in the practice of black magic.

manumission (man-you-MISH-un)
freedom from slavery

Abraham Lincoln's historic act of manumission, The Emancipation Proclamation, became effective on January 1, 1863.

The United Nations, an organization dedicated to improving world living conditions, is still trying to establish universal manumission.

The young history student, who was under the impression that manumission had been declared in every land, was horrified to discover that certain people today still keep and regulate slaves.

Occupying the 'Hot Seat'

By JOE GARAGIOLA

EDITOR'S NOTE—Joe, now a regular on NBC's "Today Show" and often working far away from the baseball field, graduated from big league catcher to the banquet circuit raconteur to sportscaster and—this year—to television interviewer and personality. Here he describes his most challenging, exciting moments: occupying Johnny Carson's hot seat.

NEW YORK (AP) — There I was, sitting in my office at NBC when the telephone rang and a voice told me a network vice president was calling.

I had some doubts about what he might want. I learned early in life about telephone calls from the boss. Like the time I was in the bull pen, and the manager called, "Joe, come on in, and bring your glove."

While I was thinking that I was going to get a chance to play, the manager said, "Del Rice (who was catching) broke the webbing on his glove, and he wants to borrow yours."

Amazing Percentage

Each time I got a phone call from the general manager, I figured that I was going to be traded. It was amazing how many times I was right, too.

While I was thinking about these things, the man himself came on the line. He said, "Joe, Johnny Carson is going to take a couple of weeks off, and we were wondering how you'd feel about sitting in his chair for one of the weeks he is away."

I had some doubts, and there were some people I wanted to talk to before I accepted. I'd been on the "Tonight" show many times, often enough to realize that Johnny Carson's job is not as easy as he makes it look. I wondered whether I could handle it.

One man I wanted to talk to was Jack Paar who gave me my first big-time television shot on that same show, and out of that has grown a close friendship.

Paar Offered Help

Jack told me he was confident that I could do the job and that he'd be glad to give me any help I needed. That offer looked like a nice, hanging curveball, and I jumped at it. I told Jack that if he wanted to help, he could be my very first guest on the show.

They'd been after Jack to go on the show ever since he left it, and to that he'd always said, "No, thanks." When I asked him, he said, simply, "I'll be there."

How well did it turn out? The answer to that is not mine, but yours. But, I can tell you that it was both a challenging and an exciting week for me.

Cooperative Guests

My guests were interesting and cooperative. If I were doing the show again, I'd like to do it with the same people. (Beatles John Lennon and Paul McCartney were a little bit of a problem when they first sat down. They were tired, they were on the defensive. Eventually, though, they loosened up, and made my job easier. They also made me a big man with an 8-year-old lady in my house.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

It looks like Bob Gallo is beginning to make good on a campaign promise for shorter Council meetings as Tuesday's session ran "only" three hours compared to the five-hour marathon last month.

It was short, but interesting. Once again it was Garraghan against the Council with Ray coming out on top this time. The mayor got his road program, his police cars, and a swimming pool thrown in for good measure..

However, it wasn't all that easy. Ray had to slip in a few extra streets which resulted in a solid Republican (5) vote. As it turned out the opposition was beaten before the meeting started, but they did manage to get in a parting shot before taking the count.

Corporation Counsel Aaron Klein ruled that Garraghan had indeed overstepped his powers but that the city was in no danger of a suit as long as the bond issue for the cars was ultimately approved by the Council.

Norton went on at length about his fear of lawsuits against the city if such practices continued and then voted against the bond issue. If Ed could have conned four other aldermen into agreeing with him the city would have indeed had a law suit on its hands.

In other Council action, the aldermen heard Architect Milliken outline plans for a new city hall and the renovation of the old one. Million dollar figures were tossed around quite liberally which goes to show that Garraghan may be a good mayor, but an architect he isn't. We remember Ray coming out with estimates of half a million dollars for a new city hall.

Another thing about that survey — the site studies — all seven of them. Of any of the magnificent seven the only one that could be seriously considered was the Broadway East site.

For instance, the report deals with a piece of land owned by Kingston Coal and Oil Company and Modjeska Signs, noting that the two owners have expressed no desire to sell. Then why list it as a possible site?

SAME THING with the old Montgomery Ward building, which everyone knows is going to be the site of a parking garage built by Urban Renewal. That was mentioned as a possible location.

As we see it, a new city hall is a long way off. Garraghan might have sprung for a half million, but not a million-plus.

And now, on to the firemen. The case is in court now and no word is expected for about six weeks so things should be pretty quiet on that front. However, the firemen took the opportunity of a captive audience at their annual July 4th fireworks display to pass out a "fact sheet."

The "fact sheet" makes for pretty good reading (if you're in favor of the firemen) but there's two sides to every set of facts.

ONE POINT that hasn't been brought out in a long time is this hassle between the city and the firemen, the latter who accuse the former of "bad faith" in contract negotiations, is that the firemen originally submitted a budget for 67 men when they knew they had only 64 men on the force. This adds up to a tidy sum of extra money... about $10,000.

Quite a few of the aldermen are galled over the firemen passing out their "fact sheets" at a public event. Firemen seem to forget they have to come back to those same aldermen for money in the fall. It could be a very hostile Council.

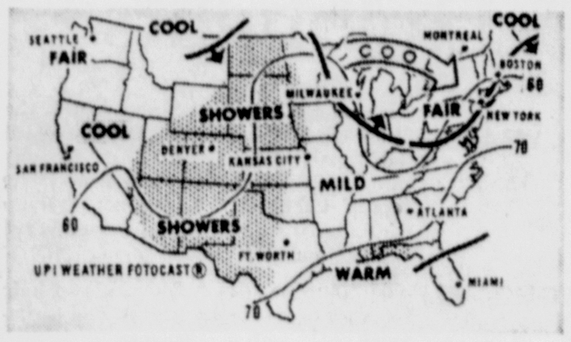

Finally, the Council's page, Ramon Prusak, drew a standing ovation from the aldermen when Bob Gallo informed them Ramon had won the highest honors in six subjects at John Coleman High School. Bob termed Ramon "a splended example of our youth." We'll second that.

Hurley Concert Slated Tuesday

The Hurley Recreation Association Inc. will present its first annual band concert Tuesday, July 9 at 8 p.m. at the Hurley Mission Church grounds on Zandhoeck Road.

A thirty-piece band, made up of members from Local 215 of the American Federation of Musicians, directed by Marlin Morette, will be the featured performers at the event. The local union has participated in several fund-raising events in the area, including the park program now under development in Hurley.

Admission to the concert is free.

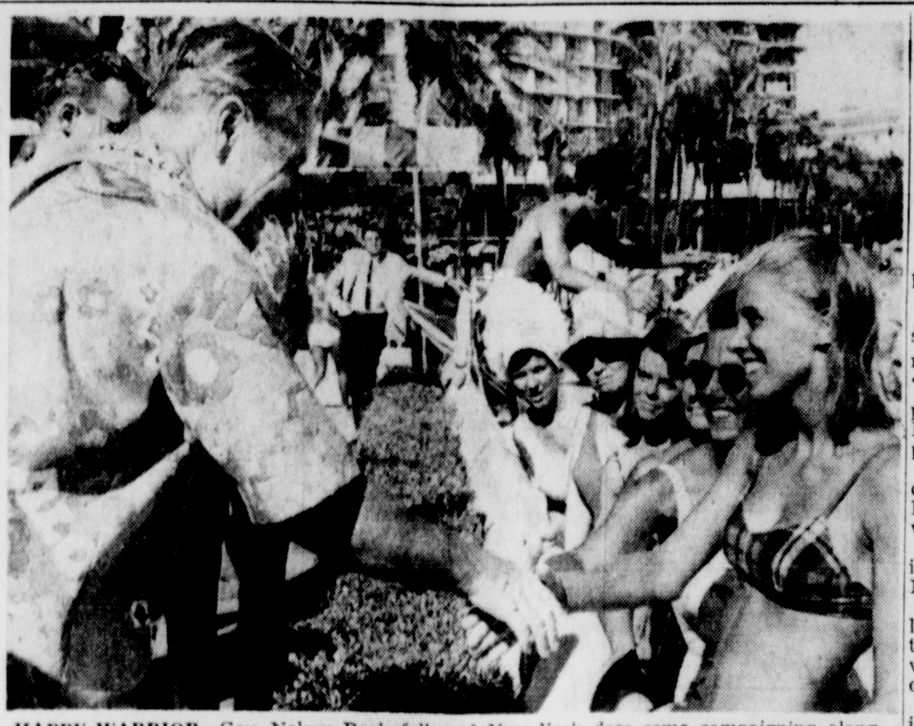

For Period Ending 7 a.m. EST Sunday

Tonight will find shower activity in the Great Plains, South and Central Rockies and along the central Gulf coast. Elsewhere, clear to partly cloudy skies should prevail. A warming trend is indicated for the upper Mississippi Valley and the Lakes region, while cooler weather moves into the Northern Rockies. Minimum temperatures include: Atlanta 65; Boston 60; Chicago 59; Denver 51; Duluth 57; Ft. Worth 69; Jacksonville 73; Kansas City 68; Los Angeles 62; Miami 73; New Orleans 73; New York 64; San Francisco 53; Seattle 58; St. Louis 67 and Washington 67.

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (UPI)—Secretary General Thant of the United Nations flew to Paris today to try to break a deadlock in the North Vietnamese - American Vietnam War talks.

Thant made appointments with the chief U.S. negotiator, W. Averell Harriman, Foreign Minister Michel Debre of France, and the North Vietnamese delegation.

The U.N. mission in Paris would not comment on Thant's activities. But the U.S. Embassy later confirmed he would meet with Harriman in the afternoon. A spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation said Thant would confer with them sometime today.

The U.N. leader was expected to see the North Vietnamese delegation leader, Xuan Thuy.

The talks have made no progress in 11 sessions since they opened May 13. The North Vietnamese have insisted the Americans stop unconditionally all bombing of North Vietnam.

The United States has demanded the North Vietnamese respond to a partial bombing pause ordered by President Johnson March 31 by scaling down fighting in South Vietnam.

On two earlier trips to Paris to try to arrange a meeting between Hanoi and Washington, Thant showed up at the door of the permanent North Vietnamese mission in Paris without prior announcement.

The United Nations leader scheduled a luncheon at the French Foreign Ministry, which was to be followed by talks with Debre. He was to return to Geneva later in the day to preside over the summer session of the U.N. Economic Committee.

U.N. sources in Paris said the Debre-Thant talks would be an "exchange of views" on various subjects.

'Not Guilty' Plea Expected From Ray

By AKIO KONOSHIMA

LONDON (UPI)—An Alabama lawyer went back to Wandsworth prison today to huddle with James Earl Ray. Arthur Hanes Sr. said he was preparing an innocent plea for the accused assassin of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"Not guilty," Haines said when asked what Ray's plea to a murder charge would be. "Not guilty to anything."

Hanes, the former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., held his first conference with the escaped convict from Missouri Friday after flying to England from the United States. He met with Ray as "an ordinary visitor" because he is not admitted to practice before British courts.

As Hanes mapped the defense, British lawyers worked on an appeal to the order of a London magistrate's court directing that Ray be extradited to the United States to face charges he shot King down on a Memphis, Tenn., motel balcony April 4. The appeal is expected to be filed in a British higher court next week.

Hanes insisted he will consider Ray "Ramon George Sneyd" until he receives what he considers satisfactory proof to the contrary. Ray was carrying Canadian passports identifying him as Sneyd when he was arrested by Scotland Yard at London Heathrow airport June 8.

The American lawyer, who said he planned to return to the United States Sunday, said the prisoner had told him he would pay for his defense.

"He ain't going to pay me with love, I can tell you that," Hanes said.

Hanes insisted he was not representing any political group in the United States. He said he was contacted by Ray himself in a hand-written letter and took the case because "it's a challenge."

A possible defense, Hanes said, might be a plea of insanity.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says there are enough uncommitted delegates to assure an "open convention" when the Republican Party meets in Miami Beach next month to pick a presidential candidate.

"Today there are over 200 uncommitted delegates," he said Friday as he met with reporters while vacationing in Hawaii.

These fence-sitters "are shifting all over the country," the New York governor said.

Rockefeller said that if he loses the fight for the nomination he will support the winner, whether it be Richard M. Nixon or any other Republican.

In the meantime, he said, he is unfazed by charges that he is sowing disunity in the party.

Offering A Choice

"I'm simply repeating what he said in writing and speeches and pointing out where I differ with him," he said of Nixon. "I am trying to offer a choice to the Republican Party—and to have a choice there has got to be differences."

Rockefeller conferred briefly with Hawaii's GOP convention delegates, but the other major presidential contenders treated Friday as a day of abstention from speechmaking and public political muscle-flexing.

They unwound in places and ways of their own choosing—Nixon in Miami, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in Washington and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, McCarthy's rival for the Democratic nomination, in Minnesota.

It was a rare cease-fire, perhaps the last until November. Nixon said Friday night as he attended a quiet 20th birthday dinner for daughter Julie that this weekend would be the last plateau and that from now on he will be working nonstop.

Humphrey relaxed at his lakeside home in Waverly, Minn., but planned to mount the stump again tonight in Poplar Bluff, Mo., for a Truman Day rally.

In Ohio Speech

George Wallace, American Independent Party candidate, was also booked for a speech tonight in Dayton, Ohio.

Humphrey wrote Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., chairman of the platform committee for the Democratic national convention, urging that hearings be held throughout the nation so that all segments of opinion in the party can be sampled before the platform is drafted.

"If we are to make clear that our party is fully aware of the currents of change which are running swiftly in America and the world, and that it is truly responsible to the needs and problems of the future," he said, "I believe every Democrat must have a full vote in the shaping of our 1968 platform."

Burns in Trouble On Dem Delegates

NEW YORK (UPI)—John J. Burns, state Democratic chairman, today faces opposition and a decision.

The final make-up of the list of delegates to the national nomination convention displeases at least two groups, supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Negro and Puerto Rican Democrats.

Burns is reported to be considering reconvening the state committee to elect a new slate of delegates-at-large, or asking some delegates to relinquish their spots.

He has reportedly instructed his law advisers to look into alternatives.

His plight began when 50 committee men and 200 spectators walked out of last Friday's committee meeting to protest McCarthy's receiving only 15 and a half of the 65 at-large delegates, despite his winning about half of the congressional district delegates.

A few days later Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton, and Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo complained that minority groups were not getting equal representation on the slate.

Sutton, Negro, was allotted a half vote and has declared he would not go to the Chicago convention as a "half man."

Friday, City Council President Frank D. O'Connor said that the failure to include more Negroes and Puerto Ricans on the list was unfair. He sent Burns an "official complaint' about the situation despite the fact that he voted for the list in the committee meeting.

O'Connor, titular head of the State Democratic party, said, "the moral and legal responsiblity in this matter is yours, and I urge you to immediately exercise the powers of your office to remedy this unfortunate situation."

'Woody' of the Galloping Elegance

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Suddenly "Woody" Broun is everywhere.

He's up in Green Bay talking to the Packers coach. He's down in Florida reporting on spring training in the baseball camps. He's trotting through a park, a microphone in hand, alongside a middleaged jogger in sweatshirt. He's in Shea Stadium and the television cameras are switching back and forth between him and the playing field. He's in California watching an arm wrestling contest and telling everybody out there in videoland how it's done. His professional voice rolls eloquently over the airwaves, commenting on this, that and the other thing for listeners of CBS's Dimensions programs.

He's everywhere, all right—but for those of us who have followed his career for the past 20 or so years, he's the same "Woody" Broun who's always been everywhere.

If Heywood Hale Broun had visions during his college days up at Swarthmore of being an English professor whose forte was fascinating lectures, he soon tossed them aside. Instead of pinning on his Phi Beta Kappa key and heading for a life of ivy towers and mortarboards every June, he studied foreign languages that even a diplomat would never find helpful, headed up a record company dedicated to what he felt was the only true jazz style (early New Orleans), and pounded a typewriter in the sports department of New York's late and fabled newspaper, PM.

Better than Most

As a sportswriter, he was better than most, although he drew upon a great many more colorful adjectives than the majority of his statistics-minded colleagues. Perhaps it was inevitable that his drifting career should have eventually called for a crack at journalism.

He was, after all, the son of one of the greatest newspapermen of all time, the late syndicated columnist Heywood Broun, who made his profession respectable when he founded the American Newspaper Guild.

But just as "Woody" had become bored with the idea of teaching, of studying strange tongues, and of recording the music that came up the river from Louisiana, he became bored with reporting doubleheaders and homeruns. At 30, he turned to acting.

And he did fairly well at that, too. Although he never made it big in the movies, he ran up an impressive work record in over a dozen Broadway plays, including "Bells Are Ringing" and "Take Her, She's Mine." Because of his walrus moustache he was in constant demand for TV roles and appeared as a spineless sheriff, a janitor or druggist on more programs than even he can remember.

He even did some summer stock at the Woodstock Playhouse in years past (including "My Three Angels") but most of those who saw him there back in the '50s remember his wife, actress Jane Lloyd-Jones, better than they remember him. She was always the star; his parts were mostly minor.

But Woodstockers who have known "Woody" Broun for years (he's had a home on Plochman Lane in the art colony for more than two decades) always knew he'd make it big someday. They'd seen his keen sense of wit and intelligence at work around town, where he often played a mean game of badminton, dabbled in Riding Club affairs, and served as master of ceremonies for various civic and cultural affairs.

Now, at 50, "Woody" is sitting on top of the world in a job that utilizes every bit of his acting, writing and humor-prone talents. His official title is "sports essayist" on CBS's Saturday Evening News . . . and he's brought to that role the ability to report sports in the most relaxed, reflective manner in the history of the profession.

He has finally become the professor he once had visions of being because sportscasting for Broun means giving the average viewer his sports copy in a prose style that's a show in itself.

Mimes the Classics

He lards his reportage with quotes from Aristotle, Shelley and Browning, sounds as coolly relaxed as Dean Martin, and looks the part of teacher to millions in his tweedy jackets and rust - colored handlebar mustache. His lectures on Carl Yastrzemski and Vince Lombardi require the total concentration of his listeners for, as Time magazine says, he speaks with a "galloping elegance reminiscent of the sportswriters of a century ago." With a wealth of literary, historical and mythological lore at his fingertips, Broun lectures over the TV mikes just as he might behind a college podium. He has been known to compare Ted Williams with Achilles and coach Tony Cuccinello's artistry with a bat to the complication task of needlepoint. His gemlike features on other byways of sports are rapidly becoming classics and he's the newest delight of his bosses and the people who view his reporting.

Broun's droll, incisive reporting is unique in a profession where boxing and horse racing newcasts have always been rattled off breathlessly. He has brightened up the polo, fox hunting and ball - park scenes considerably over the past year and he's a welcome relief from all those hulking athletes - turned - commentators. Anything but athletic in appearance himself, Broun is thin and slight and as boney looking as one might expect a former journalist, book reviewer, columnist, lecturer and essayist to be.

Indeed, if his career has been marked with humorous pratfalls, so has his social and physical life. Last summer, while visiting sculptor Harvey Fite's abandoned bluestone quarry in High Woods, which Fite has laboriously turned into a sculpture garden and amphitheatre that must be the eighth archaeological wonder of the world, Broun fell and broke his leg. He landed in Kingston's Benedictine Hospital a sadder but wiser man.

A Puzzlement

We happened to be a patient there at the same time and every time we peeked in his door, we found him either asleep or wincing in pain. Right after he checked in, one of the hospital's staff popped into our room with a puzzled look on her face.

"I just got a memo from one of the big wheels on the Board of Directors to give the VIP treatment to "Woody" Broun," she said. "I thought maybe a Woodstocker and journalist like you would know who the heck he is!"

In the old days, Broun probably heard that kind of comment more than once. After all, his father had been a tough act to follow. he spent a lot of time drifting from job to job and searching for the right identity, and it sometimes got lonely out there trying to make up his mind.

These days, though, just about everbody who watches television or reads the national magazines knows all about "Woody" Broun. His is a job hundreds of sportswriters would sell their souls for (top assignments, excellent exposure and only a few days' work a week). But Broun himself says he'd toss it all over if Hollywood or Broadway beckoned with the right role in the right movie or show. The part he's playing right now is a dandy...but he's still looking for that really "good" part.

All of which proves there must be more than meets the eye in that old cliche, "Once an actor, always an actor."

HEYWOOD HALE BROUN autographs copy of his book, "A Studied Madness," for Elise Twine, who operates Catskill Book Shop in Woodstock with her husband, Donald. Occasion was reception and autograph party in honor of "Woody" Broun several summers ago when the now acclaimed sports essayist was concentrating on essays of all kinds in book form rather than on television. 6,000 Vote 'Yes' for Sloop Replica

Six thousand Hudson Valley residents voted "yes" for the construction of a full size replica of a Hudson River Sloop by giving $5,000 in donations and $7,000 in gate admission during the Third Annal Hudson River Folk Picnic held recently at Garrison.

"This gives the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc., enough of its $125,000 goal to begin construction of the 75 foot replica," said Alexander Saunders Jr., president of the non-profit group. As soon as all of the bids are in, a boatyard will be selected. Hopefully, the Sloop will be in the water by the summer of 1969, he said.

This year's Folk Picnic featured some 25 performers, all of whom donated their multi-faceted talents to the big festival. Among the crowd pleasers was Arlo Guthrie, youthful singer who climbed to instant fame with his recording of "Alice's Restaurant," which is currently being made into a movie with Guthrie as the star.

Applause for Pete

And the crowd, of course, went wild over Pete Seeger, internationally acclaimed ballad singer and the acknowledged "Dean of American Folk Music." Seeger has been a folk music star for more than 20 years, has made over 50 long-playing records, and has composed or co-authored several of the country's top hit songs, including "Where Have All the Flowers Gone," the recognized favorite among Vietnam troops. As the organizer and leader of the famed "Weavers," Seeger led the awakening of interest in home-made music in this country—an interest that shows no sign of waning.

Sprinkled through the program along with the professionals were many amateur performers and semi-professionals who live in the Hudson Valley.

The Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc. was founded two years ago by a group of citizens interested in building the historic replica. Noted marine architect Cyrus Hamlin was commissioned to research and build the construction plans. Fund raising activities have continued since then through memberships, now numbering 250, concerts and community functions. Many marine suppliers and manufacturers are also donating goods and services. Torrey, Huntington and Shaw, Oyster Bay, Long Island sailmakers, have donated the construction of a complete set of sails, including the largest main sail, 3500 square feet, to be constructed in recent times.

Still to be Named

The completed Sloop, as yet unnamed, will be 75 feet long, a beam of 25 feet and an 85 foot mast. Its moveable center board will draw 13½ feet when down and 6 feet 4 inches in shallow waters when it's up.

Volunteer crews, under the direction of a licensed captain will sail the vessel. Each river port will be visited each year with historic exhibits aboard the Sloop and each city and town will organize a river festival around its own history and interests.

The Hudson River Sloop was instrumental in opening the Valley to commerce and until the advent of steamboats and railroads at the turn of the century, provided the only means of transportation between Albany and New York City. As many as 400 of the vessels were registered for commercial traffic on the Hudson River in 1860. It is believed that the last Hudson River Sloop was sunk in 1938. When completed, the historic replica of the Sloop will be the largest sailing craft on the Hudson in recent times.

The second program in the Woodstock theatre's Tuesday evening concert series will feature French folksinger Sonia Malkine and folk performer and composer Hamza El Din, both of whom have appeared at the Playhouse previous seasons. They will be playing Tuesday evening, July 9.

Paris - born Miss Malkine currently produces her own hour - long radio program, "French Troubadours from Then and Now," broadcast four times a month, over station WBAI in New York City. She has made a series of 11 solo performance shows for the educational TV network. In Canada, the U.S. and her native France, she has sung in coffee houses and in concert at colleges and festivals, including the Newport and National Folk Festivals. She has sung at Carnegie Hall and the Palais de Mutualite with Jacques Brel.

Hamza El Din's rare and beautiful music has its origins in his homeland of Nubia, the ancient civilization of the upper Nile, which has disappeared forever beneath the waters of the Aswan Dam. His instrument is the oud, and ancestor of the lute. The sound he produces is related to flamenco and Indian ragas — but uniquely Nubian. Hamza has performed at the Newport Folk Festival and last spring at a highly acclaimed concert at Town Hall. He recently appeared in special concert on the Sunday morning Channel 2 TV program, Camera 3.

Such a concert — the music of Sonia Malkine and Hamza El Din — will be a mind - bending, thrilling experience in sound and counterpoint, a singular opportunity to hear East meet West.

This concert is one night only...Tuesday, July 9th at 8:40 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling the Box Office.

Sunday Lecture

The third lecture in the series of 10 lectures for the Dance Appreciation Course will be given by William Burdick, noted choreographer and period style consulant. Mr. Burdick's lecture entitled "Dances of Court and Theatre (pre - classic forms)" will be presented on Sunday, at 8:30 p.m., in the Ted Shawn Theatre at Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival near Lee, Mass.

William Burdick specializes in bringing dancers an awareness of period styles and historical dance. He gives master classes and lecture demonstrations in period dance forms, classical stage movement, comportment and history of theatre etiquette. Mr. Burdick has had dance training with such leading teachers as Martha Graham, Margaret Craske, Doris Humphrey, Antony Tudor, Pearl Lang, Jean Erdman and Merce Cunningham. He has performed with American Ballet Theatre, Jose Limon Company, Charles Weidman Company and the San Francisco Opera Ballet and the Metropolitan Opera Ballet, to name a few. He has taught at Douglas College - Rutgers University, Juilliard School of Music, Adelphi University, Harkness House for Ballet Arts and many others.

These lectures are open to the public for a nominal admission and all seats are unreserved.

The length of a year was calculated as early as 3000 B.C. by the ancient Egyptians.

Workshop Planned for Saratoga Arts

The New York City Ballet and the Saratoga Performing Arts Center will be co - sponsors of a Workshop for Young Choreographers and Dancers, to be held at Canfield Casino in Saratoga Springs during the Ballet's summer residence at the Center.

The Workshop will provide eighteen young dancers with an opportunity to study ballet with members of the New York City Ballet who will be guest teachers throughout the month, as well as steady instruction under Irina Kosmovska, the principal instructor for the entire period. The dancers will be in residence on the Skidmore College campus, with living expenses paid as part of the program.

In addition to this intensive study program, three choreographers will come to the workshop to create works on an experimental basis, using as "guinea pigs" the students who are the participants in the study program. These choreographers will enjoy an opportunity seldom available to them in the world of the dance — the opportunity of creating, under close to optimum conditions, works which are not committed to acceptance for immediate performance, or for public criticism.

Recognizing that the lack of musical materials, accompanists, physical space, available dancers and especially financial underwriting are too often the impediments which deter the development of a choreographer, the New York City Ballet and Saratoga Performing Arts Center believe that the new workshop will become an important part of their summer education program.

The workshop has been made possible by a generous grant from the New York State Council on the Arts.

Beggers Ball Tonight

If you are wondering what to wear to the Beggars Ball, forget it. Wear whatever amuses you. Dress up swell, come in rags, wear a costume, or come as you are. The important thing is to have a ball, to do your thing, at Performing Arts of Woodstock's fund raising Beggars Ball this evening at 9 o'clock at the Little Theater (also known as the Guild Gallery), next door to the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, just off the Green, in Woodstock.

The Sweet Honey, a beautiful beat, made up of four guitars, drums, and a vocalist will play for the Ball; and at midnight a buffet will be served on the terrace.

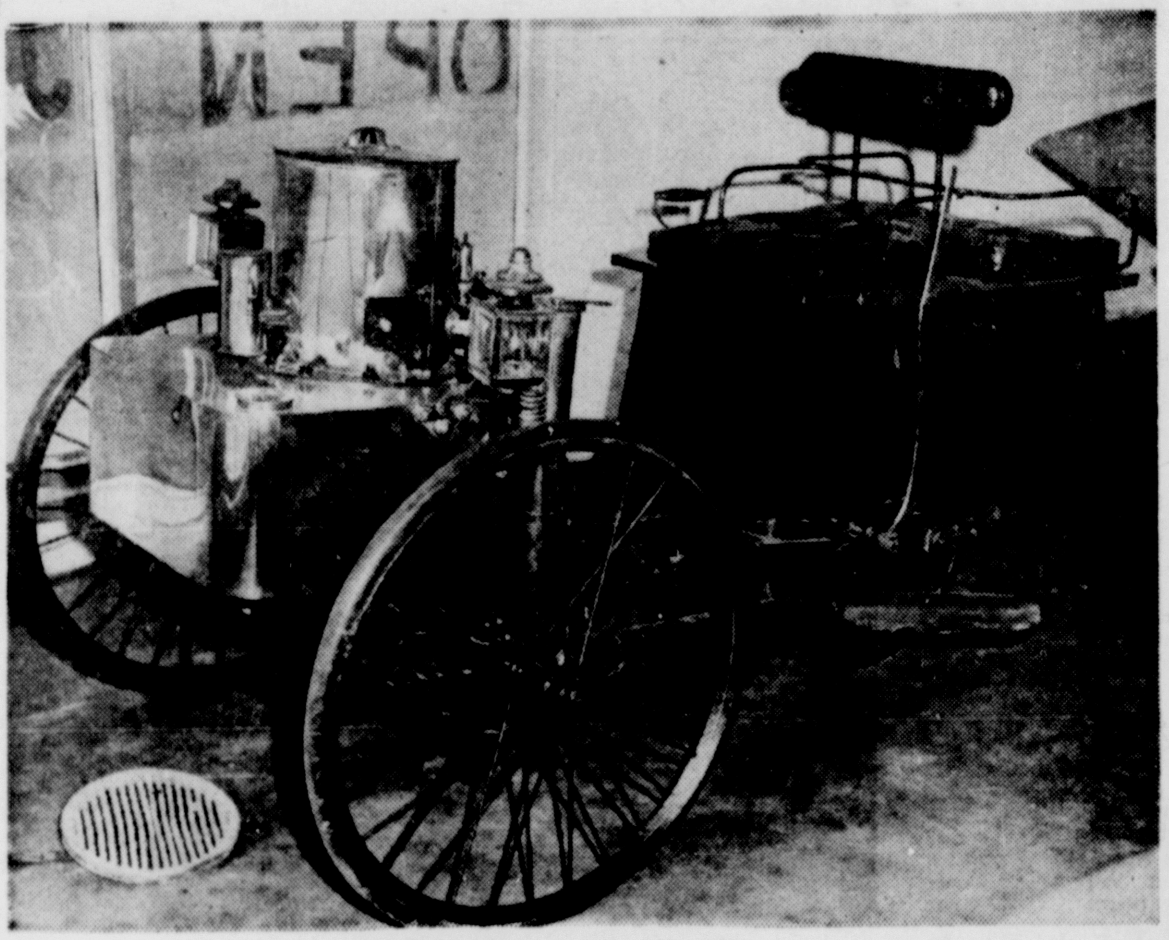

Preceding the Ball on Saturday will be a day of festivities to celebrate Beggars Day, a day in Medieval times when the rich, the poor, the titled, the unknown, joined together for a day of entertainment, feasting, and dancing. PAW, with the cooperation of Group 212, will produce a varied program of entertainment throughout the day. There will be booths of chance and surprise, and enactment of vignettes. Robin Wetterau's Dixieland Band, The Cinderella Rooftop Orchestra, courtesy of the Village Jug, and Holly Cantine's The Woodchuck Hollow Brass and Woodwind Choir will ride through the town playing.

Everyone is invited to attend.

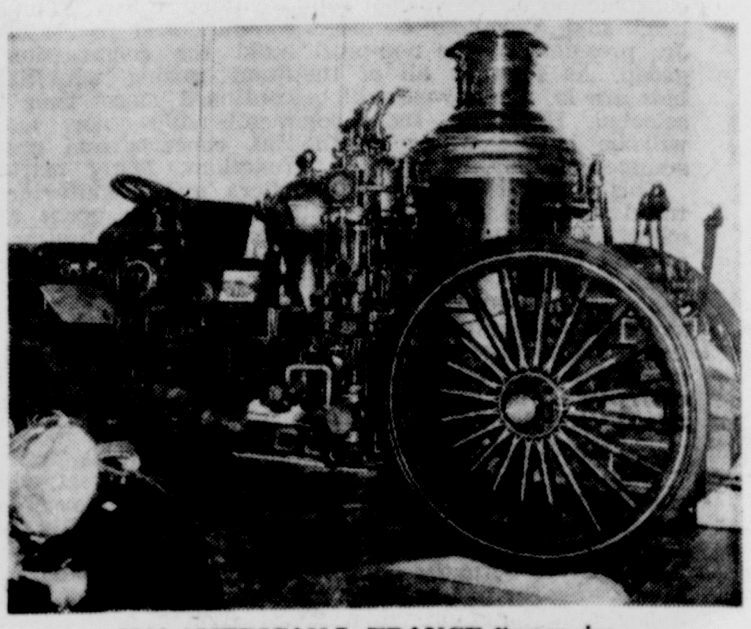

Classic and Antique Cars Now on Display

The finest collection of Classical and Antique Cars in the East is on display at Ellenville Motor Museum in Ellenville now through Labor Day.

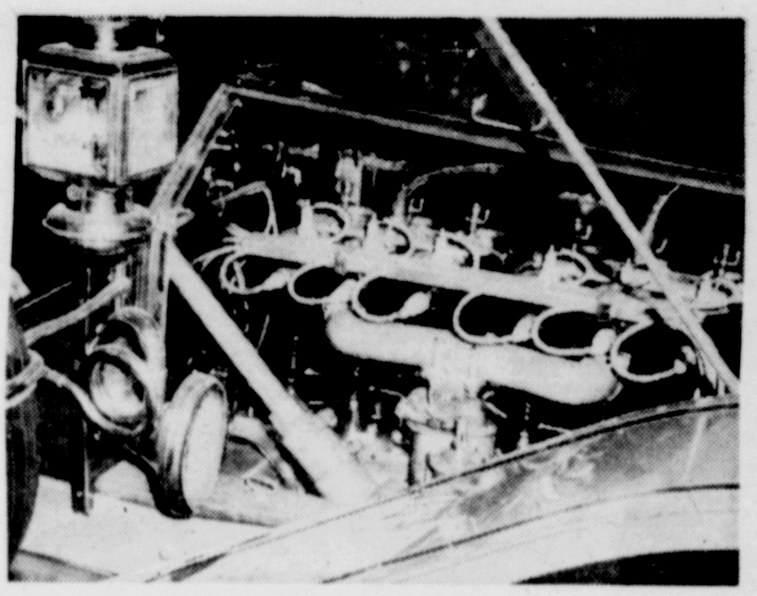

The exhibit includes more than $1,000,000 worth of superbly restored motor cars from the Golden Age of Motoring and every car is in ready-to-run showroom condition . . . built in that bygone era when craftsmanship and quality were an end unto themself.

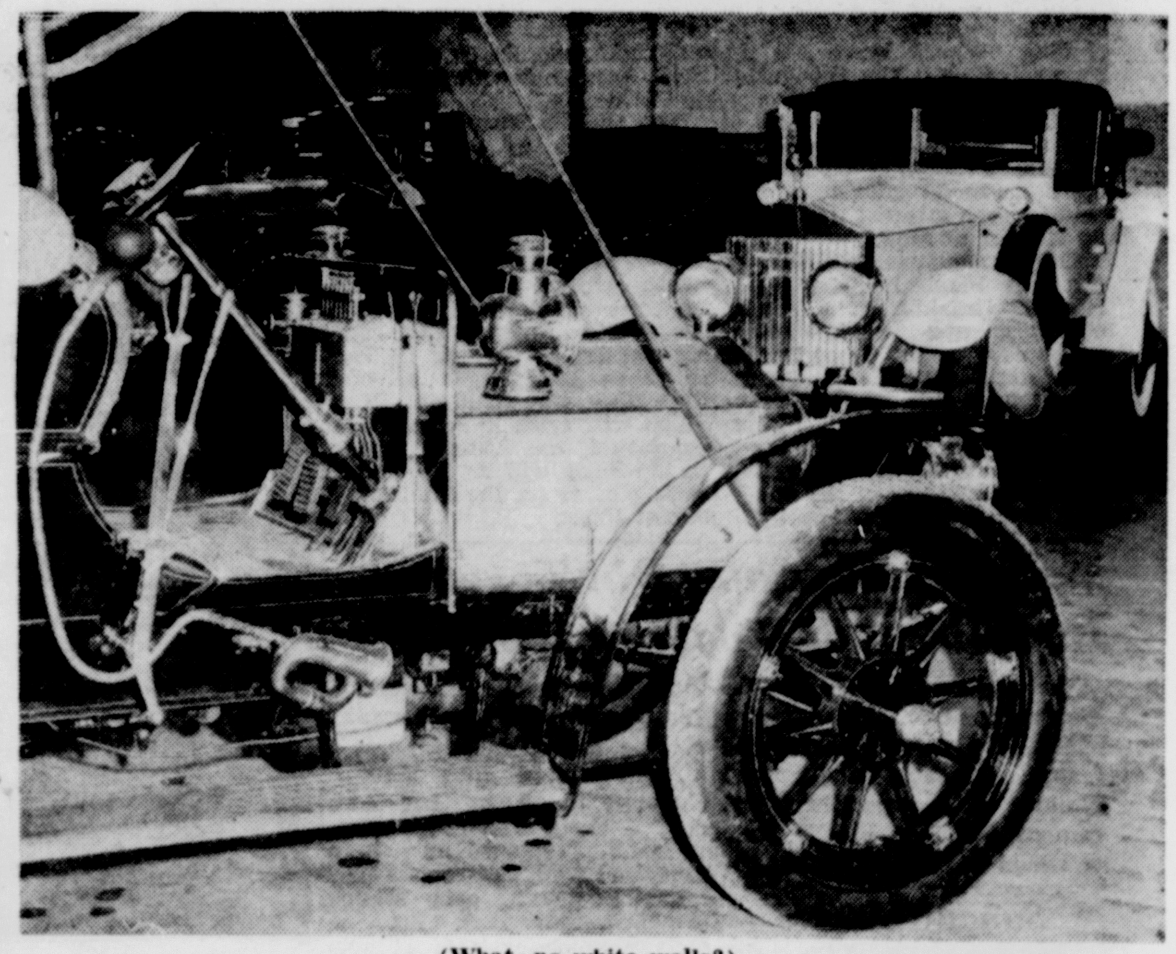

'DEGRET DU' STEAM CAR

WOULD YOU BELIEVE an engine of a 1905 Palmer and Singer?

(What, no white walls?)

COULDN'T BE ANYTHING ELSE BUT— A Stanley Steamer.

More than 50 of the most luxurious automobiles the world has ever known, including such revered marques as Buggatti, Mercedes-Benz, Duesenberg, Hispano-Suiza, Daimler, Isota-Franschini, Packard, and, the standard by which all other luxury cars have been judged for over 60 years, Rolls Royce, are all displayed under one roof.

The Museum's fabulous Rolls Royce Room contains 15 magnificent examples of this ledgendary automobile—from a beautiful 1905 Rolls Royce Roadster (so valuable that it must be enclosed in glass)—to a pair of Rolls Royce Phantom IV's that money couldn't buy (only 16 were built—and all for Heads of State).

Curator Saul Poloasky invites area residents and vacationers to see America's most beautiful collection of fabulous cars and examine the elegant heritage of the automobile, one of the great art forms of this century.

Smash Hit Comedy Returns to Playhouse

Once again it's Neil Simon laugh - time at The Woodstock Playhouse. Brought back for its second season, THE ODD COUPLE opens Wednesday, July 10, and plays through Sunday, July 14.

THE ODD COUPLE has been undoubtedly one of the most popular Broadway hit comedies in many a year and it had sell-out houses in New York and on the road and was one of Woodstock's greatest hits last season. It has been brought back by popular demand.

Simon is a genius at setting up the kind of situation that mushrooms into bubbling laughter.. laughter that grows out of our daily mishaps and foibles.

Simon's "odd couple" are two temporarily wifeless middle - aged husbands, Oscar Madison and Felix Unger, who decide to band together for the sake of their sanity and body preservation. However, Oscar and Felix soon discover that "learning to live with others" is easier said than done, especially when the two parties in question may be loosely categorized as a latent slob and a hyper-tidy — of hyper-sensitive nature.

Once Oscar and Felix become roomies, the pleasant weekly poker game is only one routine to undergo drastic alteration. Naturally, it's also only a matter of time before the lack of feminine companionship becomes acute, and Oscar invites the Pigeon sisters, Cecily and Gwendolyn, in for a drink

Fred Miller is recreating his role as Felix Unger. Oscar Madison is played by George Pollack. Pigeon sisters, Martha Miller and Tammy McDonald with us again. The poker players are Eugene Bluthe, Michael Bradshaw, Gene Nye and M. Jonathan Steele. Harold Baldridge is director and David Segal designer

Tickets are available for all performances. Reservations may be made by calling the box office.

Cancellations Listed

Due to indisposition, Charles Munch has cancelled all his European and American conducting engagements of the coming summer, including his scheduled appearance with The Philadelphia Orchestra at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

At Maestro Ormandy's invitation, Julius Rudel has graciously agreed to abbreviate his vacation and replace Mr. Munch as the guest - conductor of the Saratoga Festival concert of Thursday, August 8. Instead of the all - French program planned by Mr. Munch, he will lead a program equally divided between French and Spanish music.

Cesar Franck's famous Symphony in D Minor will be performed, as scheduled, as the opening and major work. The revised second half of the August 8 concert lists Chabrier's Rhapsody "Espana" and two works of Debussy: the Suite from the opera, El Amor Brujo and Three Dances from the ballet, "Three Cornered Hat."

Mr. Rudel made his Saratoga debut leading the all - Viennese program which was one of last summer's sell - outs on August 19. His third appearance here will be at the helm of the concert performance of Bizet's Opera, "Carmen, on August 10, with the remarkable young American mezzosoprano, Shirley Verrett, in the title role.

Wilson to Direct Turnau in County

The Turnau Opera Players, in residence at State University College, New Paltz, from July 19 to August 26, has announced that Warren Wilson, dynamic young music artist, is again directing the opera productions at New Paltz and Woodstock when the Players present their fourteenth season of musical theater in Ulster County.

At the request of the State Department in 1966, Mr. Wilson accompanied the American contests for the Tchaikovsky Competitions with great success won by the American participants. He has received a Rockefeller award and a Whitney award, and was a guest at Aspen, Colorado, last year where he studied with composer Darius Milhaud. He has also been invited to return to the prestigious Colorado cultural resort. In addition he is chief accompanist for baritone William Warfield and has also accompanied Leontye Price and Shirley Verrett.

This is his third year with the Turnau Opera, and the press of his year - around commitments with the Players has forced him to turn down many attractive offers including an offer for a concert tour of Russia and an invitation to play at the White House.

The director is not only typical of the high calibre of musicians and singers who work with the Turnau Opera Players, but he is also credited with being largely responsible for attracting that high calibre of performer. His enthusiasm and drive are infectious qualities which transmit themselves to his colleagues, who relish working with him, and to his audience which respond warmly to his artistic imagination.

Information on the opera season can be obtained from Turnau Opera at State University College, New Paltz, or the Woodstock Playhouse.

Music Readers Are Invited to Paltz

Four choral music reading concerts for Mid - Hudson singers will again be presented this summer at State University College, New Paltz, with the first to be held at the College's McKenna Theater 8 p.m., July 9. The summer series is sponsored by the Mid - Hudson Camerata Chorale and the New Paltz college's Music Division.

All interested singers in the area are invited to participate. The concerts are open to the public without charge.

In the opening performance, Edward Greene, organist and choirmaster at Poughkeepsie's First Presbyterian Church, will conduct the Requiem Mass in D minor by Mozart. Mr. Greene, a Harvard graduate, has taught at Wellesley Colege, Princeton University and Brown University. The organist will be John Davis of West Point.

Soloists featured for the July 9 performance will be Betty White, soprano, Betty Greene, contralto; Dick Jacobson, tenor; and Spencer Barnett, bass.

Mr. Greene will be using the H.W. Gray edition of the music for singers who wish to bring their own scores. Registration for singers will be held at 7:30 for all performances.

'Bonnie and Clyde' Director to Berkshire

Subscriptions are now on sale at the box office in Stockbridge, Massachusetts for the Berkshire Theatre Festival's first season of new plays.

Opening the Festival Wednesday July 3 at 8:30 is Elaine May's new comedy, "A Matter of Position." The playwright stars in her own work which will be directed by Arthur Penn. Miss May is well known for her work in comic improvisation with Oscar winning director Mike Nichols at Chicago's Compass Theatre and in the New York production "An Evening with Nichols and May." Arthur Penn directed the movie "Bonnie and Clyde."

William Gibson's new play "A Cry of Players" is second on the Berkshire Theatre Festival's schedule, opening Wednesday July 24. Anne Bancroft will star in the production directed by Gene Frankel. Third on the schedule is Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna's "Lovers and Other Strangers" opening August 7. The Festival's final offering is Jack Gelber's "The Cuban Thing" which opens August 21. The playwright will direct.

Reserved seat subscriptions will be available through the opening of "A Matter of Position" for the ten series. An alternate subscription plan which gives the buyer maximum flexibility is the ticket coupon book. Subscribers recieve eight coupons which are redeemable for all performances but Saturday and opening nights. Coupon books will be available throughout the nine week season.

Subscriptions may be charged on the CAP charge plan and are also available at England's department store in Pittsfield and Melvin's Pharmacy in Great Barrington.

Works by Tobey

Tobey, a native of Hyannis, Mass., has been painting professionally for 10 years. He studied with Ethel Magafan of Woodstock.

Unusual Plastic Concept Opens at Woodstock

'YOU HAVE TO SEE IT TO BELIEVE IT,' says Jacqueline Margolis, wife of Mark Margolis, creator of the brand new plastic play concept which opened July 3 at Woodstock and will continue through Labor Day. Utilizing projections, sound and open spaces,, the completely different idea emphasizes the mood of the moment. Tempo wonders—is it audience participation with people seated within the play area, in the pit, on the stage? All we know is that it's unusual, perhaps unique, and is being offered at Blue Dome Plastic Theatre, 131 Byrdcliffe Road in Woodstock. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

PHOTOGRAPHER ROBERT QUINN lends a little more mystery and intrigue as he adjusts projector which is used in the plastic play operation. Quinn is a slide maker and projection programmer. The public is invited to attend this novel presentation at the Blue Dome Plastic Theatre in Woodstock, formerly the home of the Turnau Opera. Performances are given every evening (except Monday) at 9 o'clock with two shows on Fridays and Saturdays at 9 and 11:15 p. m. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Four Tops' Special

The Four Tops will lead off the parade of special one night attractions at Eddie Rich's Colonie Summer Theatre on Monday evening, July 8. The single appearance starts at 8:40 p.m.

The rich vices of The Four Tops, with their exciting "now sound" of Motown, have been heard in every major night club from coast - to - coast and throughout Europe. They have been acclaimed on many of the nation's major university campuses and appeared on such top rated TV Shows as Ed Sullivan, Joey Bishop, Johnny Carson, Shindig and Where The Action Is.

THE FOUR TOPS

The combined talents of Levi Stubb Jr., Reualdo (Obie) Benson, Lawrence Payton and Abdul (Duke) Fakir were first heard when they formed a singing group in high school back in their hometown of Detroit.

Singles Score

Since the very beginning the singers dreamed of becoming accepted. The road, even though long, has led The Four Tops all the way to the "Top" in the recording business. They have recorded 14 outstanding successful singles, some of which include "Walk Away Renee," You Keep Running Away," "Standing in the Shadow of Love" and "Baby I Neeed Your Loving," to name a few. The foursome has scored equally well in the album department. Seven have been classified as hits.

The Four Tops' long climb to the top was climaxed when they made their debut at the world - famous Copacabana in New York City. The gala opening night at the Copa was the actual realization of that dream come true. They had been accepted, and by some of the toughest and most sophisticated critics in the world.

The theatre's special one night attractions have become popular with area audiences over the past 11 years. Following The Four Tops will be Tommy James & The Shondells on Monday, July 22; The Association on Monday, July 29; The Cowsills on Monday, August 12 and completing the series will be The Union Gap on Monday, August 19.

Tickets for all the specials and other attractions lasted for the tent this summer are now on sale at the boxoffice daily. Mail orders are accepted by writing to Box 136, Latham, N.Y. 12110. Information and reservations may be obtained by calling 785 - 8559.

Jazzmen Arrive

In the last few years the music world has become at least as exciting and unpredictable as the political world, and there has been a surge of new talent and energy that has begun to change our whole way of listening.

One of these developments has been the appearance of the "New Thing," sometimes referred to as "free jazz." One of the brightest exponents of this new means of musical expression is a young alto-saxophone player and composer whose records and concerts have been reviewed by major American and foreign magazines. They have called him a "talented and dynamic young jazz composer," and have pointed out his "incontestable originality."

Noel Howard will bring the "new thing" to Woodstock on Friday and Saturday, July 12 and 13, at 8:30 p.m. at the PAW Little Theatre off the Green. For further information call 679-2114.

Two One-Act Plays for PAW's 1st Summer Offering

Casting has been completed for Performing Arts of Woodstock's first production of the summer, a bill of two one-act plays, opening on Friday, July 19, under the direction of Bob Burgos, whose production of Holly Beye's "The Banana Thief" will be vividly remembered by theatergoers.

The first one-act will be "Charles, the Child Beautiful," by Danny Klein. One of PAW's early productions was Mr. Klein's "The Audience," which became an instant hit. At that time Mr. Klein was teaching English at Onteora High School. Danny Klein is now living on a Greek Island, writing a novel. Playing in "Charles" will be Pearl Blackman, Larry Shufeldt and Ralph Santinelli.

The second one-act is "The Beholder," by Christopher Jones, a two character play, with Isabelle Liikala, and Dean Schambach. Last season, Christopher Jones' play, "Obsidian" was done at the Play Box, in New York City. "Obsidian" played for two weeks but because of its enthusiastic reception, was brought back for an additional two weeks later in the season. The previous year, "The Key," by Mr. Jones, was produced at the well-known Genesis Theater.

SERVICE

TOM SANKEY of the "Bummers," a group from Theatre Genesis in New York City, will direct the first offering, Good Gunfighters Die Like Bad Ones, an improvised, commedia-style western, to be performed at the Gallery Theater, Group 212, Woodstock, this evening at 8:30. The Bummers are staying as artists-in-residence at Group 212 and will perform weekends. Reservations are not necessary and admission is by donation.

Five Upstate Attractions That Appeal to Youngsters

Ever since the Thruway and the Northway made Upstate New York easily accessible to Ulster and Dutchess County residents, families have found weekending in the Adirondacks area simpler than ever.

Two hours or so of driving is usually all it takes to make the youngster in your family a happy child. It's just about that far to five attractions most children view as youthful paradises . . . and on any given weekend, it's possible to visit each and every one, without too much wear and tear on tempers and pocketbooks.

Among the more memorable places that emphasize entertainment for children:

Land of Makebelieve on Rt. 9N in Upper Jay, N. Y. is a colorful child-scale village of fairytale houses and an early Western town in immaculate detail complete with a large collection of antiques. This year, Arto Monaco, owner and internationally-known designer, reports the landing of a squadron of small-scale WW I airplanes, including the Red Baron's favorite, the Fokker Triplane. Children take part in mock dog fight—on the ground. An enlarged Safari Village is another added feature for 1968. Steam trains, steamboat, stagecoach, drive-yourself cars, other rides and shows are included in the program of fun.

Home of 1,000 Animals on Rt. 86 at Lake Placid, N. Y. and Ausable Chasm, N. Y. has been busier than ever this spring with the arrival of dozens of animal "babies." Cute baby bear cubs, deer, and a great variety of young animals native to all parts of the world are on display. Many animals are trained to perform, and there are chimpanzee acts each day. A separate park is set aside where youngsters mingle with and feed dozens of young deer, llamas and other gentle animals.

Also on Whiteface Mt. near Wilmington, families will find North Pole, N. Y., the home of Santa's Workshop. Home, mailing address and workshop for Santa, his storybook helpers, reindeer, craftsmen and animal friends are all there. Visitors stroll through a colorful village and the North Pole U.S. Post Office. A new entertainment program is featured this year along with extensive remodeling of the craft shops. The village is filled with bright floral plantings, all identified for the nature lover. Families also have a personal chat with Santa Claus in his quaint log cottage, scrape ice and snow from a frosty North Pole, and play with tame deer and small native animals.

Storytown, USA, is 3¾ miles north of Glens Falls on Rt. 9 and features Storytown, Ghostown, Jungleland and Alice in Wonderland. There are more than 30 storybook areas in bright color and immaculate settings.

This year there are additions in Ghostown, including a "Dark Ride." Mysterious Jungleland has also been expanded with longer, more exciting trails crossing swinging bridges and through tropical undergrowth. There's an all new kiddieland in Storytown for '68, with tots' rides and a nursery where children play and feed baby animals.

The picnic area has been enlarged, and several rides have been added in Storytown, giving it more rides than any other park in the northeast.

Whiteface Memorial Highway and Aerial Chairlift are both located in Wilmington, N. Y., 12 scenic miles from Lake Placid on Rt. 86. The highway winds its 8-mile way to the top of Whiteface Mt.

On a clear day, the summit house offers a 100-mile view of two states, and two countries from 4,867 feet up.

The Aerial Chairlift at the Whiteface Mt. ski center carries sightseers to the summit of Little Whiteface Mt. The two-mile trip rises 3,600 feet to the summit, opening up spectacular mountain and valley scenery to eye and camera.

Members of the Adirondack Attractions Association of which these five and seven others are included, all live up to strict standards of performance in order to maintain their membership. The beneficiary of this association is the traveling public, for the main emphasis of the members is in providing wholesome, family fun at reasonable prices.

New Gallery Opens

PICASSO'S PORTRAIT of George Braque serves to remind TEMPO readers that a new gallery has bowed in the area. Over Woodstock way, that fabulous emporium known as Folk Art, long a haven for those interested in unique gifts and unusual clothes and jewelry, has just added an art gallery to the premises. The first exhibit is one featuring Picasso lithographs and it opened July 4 with a public reception and punch party; will run for two weeks more. Folk Art is housed in a weathered red barn on Rock City Road in the art colony; has also just acquired a new attraction in Charlie, a yellow-and-blue macaw, whose talkative personality is proving a big draw these days with customers and local youngsters.

We're Delighted

Dear Editor:

Thanks so much for the beautiful story about the New Windsor Cantonment that appeared recently in Tempo. Everybody here at Palisades Interstate Park Commission is delighted with it and we are ordering additional copies.

Your Permission

Dear Editor:

Many, many thanks for the fine article on Tino & The Revlons that appeared in a recent issue of Tempo.

With your permission, I would like to use portions of the article to be reproduced in our new brochure. May I have a copy for reproduction purposes with my most since thanks.

Very truly yours,

Old Boats and Houses

Dear Editor:

Tempo is a very interesting magazine and some of the columns are reminiscent of those once written for your paper by the late Sophie Miller.

I have been especially interested in all the articles about boats and old houses. My father was engineer on the William F. Romer night boat and I have a picture of the crew and the boat taken around 1910; also a 1937 copy of the Hudson River Sight Seeing Map Booklet. I personally had many delightful sails on the Day Line steamers, as well as the night boats.

As a member of the Freer-Low Associates (my mother was a Freer) and an avid supporter of Stone House Day in New Paltz on Aug. 3, I hope you will keep writing about all the interesting places in Ulster County and the surrounding areas.

Sincerely,
MILDRED FRAMENT
13 Trenton Street
Kingston, N. Y.

(Editor's Note: Why not send us that 1910 picture and the booklet? We'd love to print the first and update the second as an article and promise to return them to you in excellent condition.)

Light on Lighthouse

Dear Editor:

In connection with recent references in Tempo to the present Lighthouse on the north end of the dyke of the Rondout Creek, I beg to differ on your information. This structure was started in 1913 and the Lighthouse referred to was on the south side of the Rondout Creek and was dynamited in 1953 by order of the Government.

Being a descendent of the Murdock family, who were in charge of the Lighthouse for over 50 years (in fact, from 1856 to 1923), our records are far different.

Very truly yours,
60 Abruyn Street
Kingston, N. Y.

Senseless Noise

To the Editor:

The performance held at the Woodstock Playhouse one recent June night, ostensibly offered as a musical concert, turned out to be a cruel exhibition of senseless noise, a relentless and brutal attack on the human ear in violation of every fine musical sensibility. Accompanying this performance were colored slides projected on a background screen, presumably to enhance the effect, suggesting palpitating entrails and other internal organs quivering spasmodically to the din of electric guitars and other unmusical instruments.

The audience was composed of nearly 100 per cent young people clad in grotesque and miscellaneous trappings who applauded with evident pleasure this infernal racket. This is not music. It is nothing else but an invocation of the devil. Indeed, if this performance is symtomatic of the trend of youth today, characterized by its savage breakdown of all restraint, is it any wonder that this same lawless spirit with its brutalizing effect should invade other spheres of our society as riots, murder, rape, robbery and general contempt for the law.

Respectfully,
HAROLD LEE MANIERRE

'Where Eagles Dare'

MGM's "Where Eagles Dare," starring Richard Burton, Clint Eastwood and Mary Ure, completed filming this month after nearly five and a half months before the cameras in the Austrian Alps and in Britain. The epic - adventure film follows the spectacular adventures of an Allied team headed by Burton who parachuted into World War II Germany. It began filming January 2 on a stormy mountainside high above the Austrian village of Werfen. Other scenes were filmed in Werfer, and the Alpine villages of Lofer and Ebensee, the latter the setting for the picture's climactic fight on top of cable cars. Europe's most violent winter in years brought blizzards and avalanches to make the location one of the most physically challenging ever undertaken for a film.

PRUDENCE AND THE PILL. A sophisticated comedy, with a stylish cast playing against elegant backgrounds, is 20th Century - Fox's "Prudence and the Pill," in wide screen and DeLuxe Color, which opened Wednesday at the Community Theatre. Revolving around the controversial birth control pill, the farce has a cast with Deborah Kerr and David Niven as the leads.

Produced by Kenneth Harper and Ronald Kahn, "Prudence and the Pill" was directed by Fielder Cook from a screenplay by Hugh Mills who based it on his own novel.

Heading the large cast as the outwardly cold, but inwardly warm, Prudence and her outwardly respectable, but inwardly deceptive, husband Gerald are Kerr and Niven.

Mother of the highly emancipated niece is played by Joyce Redman who rocketed to international acclaim with her portrayal as Albert Finney's eating companion in the sexy-gluttonous scene in "Tom Jones." Her bewildered husband is played by skillfull veteran comedy actor Robert Coote.

David Dundas makes his film debut in "Prudence and the Pill" as the niece's romantic boy friend. His guardian is played by the first lady of the British theatre, Edith Evans.

To make up for his cold wife, Niven has a beautiful warm mistress who is played by Irina Demick.

The main casting is completed with Prudence's lover enacted by Keith Michell; Prudence's maid, played by Vickery Turner; and her amorous boy friend, interpreted by Hugh Armstrong.

DEBORAH KERR and David Niven in a scene from Prudence and the Pill, a motion picture dealing with that controversial pill, which opened this week at the Community Theatre.

THE PRODUCERS. Held over for another week at the Mayfair Theatre in Kingston, the film stars zany Zero Mostel and Lee Meredith in lead roles.

THE GRADUATE and DARLING are both running for another week at the Sunset Drive - In on a double bill. Dustin Hoffman and Anne Bancroft take the starring roles in Graduate while Julie Christie steals the show in Darling, an oldie by now, but one that has won three Oscars. All three films were reviewed in depth in last week's Tempo.

'Sound of Music' Now at Cornwall

On Wednesday evening, Playhouse on the Hudson opened Rodger's and Hammerstein's "Sound of Music" to an enthusiastic audience.

Rebecca Davis skillfully essays the role of Maria in a totally believable portrayal. Her co - star, Reed Allen, plays Captain Von Trapp with dignity, reserve and empathy, and sings the role subtly and well. Gertrude Graf, no newcomer to theatre or music, but a welcome newcomer to Playhouse audiences, is a warm, kind and wise Mother Abbess, and her voice is thriling. The conniving and charming Uncle Max is given a convincing and winning Leiderman while his compatriot, the Baroness Schraeder, sometimes fiance of the widowed Captain, is a delight to see and hear as played by Annabelle Brooks.

An excellent supporting cast includes the young lovers, Rolf and Liesl, done by Greg Doucette and Susan Somer with charm and youthful verve, and a kind - hearted but stern housekeeper, Frau Schmidt, well acted by Ruth Saada.

"The Sound of Music" is scheduled to run at the Playhouse in Cornwall on - the Hudson, through July 13.

Television

Well, it's the season for repeats alright, what with last Sunday's Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color, Ed Sullivan Show, the FBI, Bonanza, High Chaparral and Mission: Impossible, all prime-time programs, offering the best (and that is questionable), of this is the season that was.

However, Sunday did offer a gay Summer Brothers Smothers Show with Pat Paulson starring and "staring." Those who saw the program teasers will understand; those who didn't . . . sorry 'bout that. Guests included Flip Wilson, Teddy Neeley and Stiller and Meara spoofing Eaters Anonymous.

Can't complain about ALL the repeats, though. Thursday night's Ironside shows are encores but, as long as they star Raymond Burr, the show is tops in Tempo's tally. For 10 years we've been following Raymond Burr in his Perry Mason series faithfully. Even arrange dinner so we can catch his repeats on Channel 3 at 5:30 every afternoon, though some we've seen umpteen times . . . now that's being faithful. With 10 years of courtroom ethics and dialogue behind us, we (at least) feel qualified to argue our own defense for traffic violations. (Tobie Geertsema did, and won.)

Read that Peter Graves performed his own stunt work in last week's Mission: Impossible, in an exciting climax involving him being picked up by a helicopter. And speaking of Graves, he also starred Monday evening on Premiere, a summer series of old and unsold pilots—mostly mystery and super spy types—that have been laying in limbo. Graves should thank his lucky stars that show didn't make it or he'd have lost out on Mission: Impossible. One of life's many paradoxes when losing meant winning.

A seven-week Tuesday series began last week on CBS 10-11, entitled Of Black America. Dealing with the history of the Negro and his contributions to this country, the first week's program boasted Bill Cosby as host. Educational, to say the least, the show pointed out that Negroes are remembered mostly for their participation in the sports and entertainment fields, yet few people realize it was a Negro who performed the first open - heart surgery in this country, who revolutionized sugar refining etcetera. TV and movie clips showed old - time caricatures of the Negro in such reminiscent programs as Amos 'n Andy, compared with today's more realistic resemblances in Guess Who's Coming to Dinner. The program is a MUST for all ages.

It was international-set-a-go-go on Tuesday night's Showtime when Frank Fontaine, of Jackie Gleason Show fame, played host as a kaleidoscope of performers, representing England, France and Spain, to mention a few, emitted with talent from comedy - magician acts to puppeteers and jugglers. America made the scene, too, in the manner of singers, The Four Freshmen.

On Wednesday evening Tempo tiptoed through the TV listings and picked the Dom DeLuise Variety Show Ch. (2-3) as a tempting tidbit to tickle its fancy. DeLuise really ran the gamut that night, from a barber's sketch with a hippy badly in need of a shearing to a silent movie comedian who has hit rock bottom. We've watched DeLuise from as far back as The Entertainers days when Katerina Valenti, John Davidson, Carol Burnett and DeLuise pooled their talents in one terrific variety show which, however, didn't last very long on the network. Tempo cannot understand why that show fizzled. With all those stars, each one now a top performer in his field, it must have been doing something right.

Sports programs are in the limelight and will be for quite a bit it seems, with baseball and golf, evidently, the favorites at the moment. Since this writer couldn't care less, she'd best explain the observation was arrived at only by switching the controls for something more her "cup of tea." But since sport specials are obviously here to stay, it would be only fair to remind viewers (especially, Charlie Tiano, Mike Helfner, Chris Gehman and Ed Palladino, if he'll still interested) that sport channels are 9 and 11 and "soccer to me."

Have been watching to see if TV networks' good intentions of eliminating excessively violent episodes and movies, in the wake of the Kennedy assassination, will actually materialize. Was impressed with As We See It in a recent issue of TV Guide where writer hit where it hurt, naming TV shows that presented especially savage scenes —in close-ups—on the very evening the Senator was shot and, this, after spending the day covering the tragic hospital developments. It will be interesting to see who wins . . . the good guys or the "bad guys."

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

All rights reserved. E. P. Dickinson & Co., Inc., New York

Heat, Not Flight, Problem with This Wing

"I rough-sketched a good wing on paper. Looked great. Only trouble, it just would not work out. Fuel requirements were putting the price out of sight . . ."

Engineer with a far-out aeronautical dream?

No. Thirty-Seven year old doctor playing around with an old idea: combining home and office on the same plot.

"Pro" item: The house, which ten years ago was "on the edge of town" is now near the heart of a new center. The front yard was bigger than it had to be. and what used to be down-town is now a less handy location for his auto-borne practice.

"Anti" item: Upkeep "Mainly heating." The wing was going to need a seperate system, as I originally figured it out. The house system wasn't delivering as it should anyway . . . it certainly couldn't be extended. "But I went ahead and talked to a builder anyhow", says the doctor. His advice: "Electric heating . . .throughout. When you find out from the office how great it is, you'll want it in the home section, too so do it all at once. Much cheaper that way, and a single system will solve the whole problem for good. Plus, we won't have to scrimp down the wing design. You see with electricity as the fuel you can design to suit the function of the buildings, rather than shape them to trap and route warmth. "If electricity can heat an airport, believe me it can handle your office. Just so long, of course, as we insulate to prevent seepage."

And what is the doctor getting from electric heating that he would have missed out with the old line methods?

*Even warmth. Throughout both home and office—though the requirements differ (day and night for the home; days only and not every day for the office).

*A la carte variations. The doc opted for room by room thermostats. Permits keeping some rooms warmer, some cooler, and lowering temperatures when space is not in use.

*Lowered "nuisances". Nothing to order, nothing to store. And a good chance nothing will ever need a repair man. (Electric heating systems have fewer no moving parts . . . hence don't wear out fast.)

Question Box

Question: I've been told that if I chose a new house with electric heat. it will be automaticaly cool in summer. Why is this so . . . if it is?

Answer: Well, since you don't tell us which of the several excellent choices of electric heating equipment is involved we'll give you the overall general reason why . . . plus some specifics.

First, in trying to make sure you get your money's worth, the electric heating industry recommends that you pair their quality products with quality insulation. And . . . a well insulated house is a natural barrier against outside cold in winter and also the onslaught of the sun in summer. So. even if you do nothing else toward cooling your house, you're still ahead.

Now! If you also decide on air conditioning, the house that keeps your electric bills down during the heating months, keeps your electric bills down to proper size during the cooling months too. That applies whether the cooling is via room units, or a central system, of the latter, the so-called heat pump automaticaly reverses itself to a cooling operation when the summer temperature exceeds what you like. The electric furnace can also be adapted to include the cooling function.

Question: Why is electric heating just for private homes? If I could get it in an apartment, in my price range, of course, I'd move tomorrow.

Answer: Electrically heated apartments are "get able" right now all over the country. At last reports, there are over a million. Depending on your location, electrically heated apartments can be found in everything from the two-unit house to the country's biggest high riser. If you make inquiries, we're confident you'll find what you want right in your own city, either already built, or a-building.

...LECTRIC GUIDE

...ight,
...ith This Wing

...od have to scrimp down the wing design. You see with electricity as the fuel you can design to suit the function of the buildings, rather than shape them to trap and route warmth. "If electricity can heat an airport, believe me it can handle your office. Just so long, of course, as we insulate to prevent seepage."

And what is the doctor getting from electric heating that he would have missed out with the old line methods?

*Even warmth. Throughout both home and office—though the requirements differ (day and night for the home; days only and not every day for the office).

*A la carte variations. The doc opted for room by room thermostats. Permits keeping some rooms warmer, some cooler, and lowering temperatures when space is not in use.

Question Box

Question: I've been told that if I chose a new house with electric heat, it will be automaticaly cool in summer. Why is this so . . . if it is?

Answer: Well, since you don't tell us which of the several excellent choices of electric heating equipment is involved we'll give you the overall general reason why . . . plus some specifics.

First, in trying to make sure you get your money's worth, the electric heating industry recommends that you pair their quality products with quality insulation. And . . . a well insulated house is a natural barrier against outside cold in winter and also the onslaught of the sun in summer. So even if you do nothing else toward cooling your house, you're still ahead.

Now! If you also decide on air conditioning, the house that keeps your electric bills down during the heating months, keeps your electric bills down to proper size during the cooling months too. That applies whether the cooling is via room units, or a central system, of the latter, the so-called heat pump automaticaly reverses itself to a cooling operation when the summer temperature exceeds what you like. The electric furnace can also be adapted to include the cooling function.

Question: Why is electric heating just for private homes? If I could get it in an apartment, in my price range, of course, I'd move tomorrow.

Answer: Electrically heated apartments are "get able" right now all over the country. At last reports, there are over a million. Depending on your location, electrically heated apartments can be found in everything from the two-unit house to the country's biggest high riser. If you make inquiries, we're confident you'll find what you want right in your own city, either already built, or a-building.
